Senate Unit OKs Bill To Lift Legal Bar Against Marshall's Appointment As Defense Chief

House Group Due To Act Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee today promptly approved a special bill to let Gen. George C. Marshall serve as Secretary of Defense, but House committeemen decided to think it over a couple of days.

President Truman personally asked Congress to write an exception—in Marshall's case alone—into the existing law which bars a military man from holding the No. 1 civilian defense post.

The Senate committee approved the bill requested by the White House, 10 to 2. The House Armed Servies Committee, headed by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), postponed action until Friday. Several members were out of town, and Vinson said he considered the matter so important he wanted the full committee on hand.

House Unit's Approval Seen

Nevertheless, informal expressions of opinion from members of the House unit indicated the legislation would go through there, too, although some lawmakers were reluctant to cast aside the tradition of civilian control over the nation's military establishment.

The President, taking note of these objects, wrote Vinson and Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the Senate Armed Services Committee:

"I am a firm believer in the general principle that our defense establishment should be headed by a civilian. However, in view of the present critical circumstances and of Gen. Marshall's unusual qualifications. I believe that the national interest will be served best by making an exception in this case."

Tydings told newsmen it was clear that Mr. Truman wanted the exception to apply to no other person than Marshall, to no other circumstances, and to no other time in the future.

Marshall Succeeds Johnson

Under the 1947 unification law, an officer who has served in the armed forces within the past 10 years is ineligible to become Secretary of Defense.

The clause was originally written to safeguard civilian control over national defense and prevent a military dictatorship.

However, most Congress members agreed that Marshall, with his record as a former secretary of state, ranks high in the category of civilian-statesmen as well as being a great military leader.

Mr. Truman named the 69-year-old General to succeed Louis A. Johnson, long a stormy petrel in the defense post, late yesterday afternoon. Johnson has served 18 months, succeeding the late James V. Forrestal.

Showdown Due In House Today On Profits Levy

32 Republicans Ask Immediate Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Thirty-two House Republicans joined today in an announcement that they will oppose any adjournment of Congress without action on an excess profits tax.

They did not insist, however, that such a super-tax on business necessarily be incorporated in the pending $4,508,000,000 tax increase bill which leaders are seeking to send to a joint Senate-House conference for final adjustment. They would be satisfied with action in a separate measure—just so the action was taken before Congress quit.

Showdown Due

The Democratic leadership has been talking about an excess profits tax only in terms of action after a vacation, probably in January. And Scott Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader in the Senate, said again today he is going to try to wind up business in that body Saturday.

The fight over the issue comes to a head tomorrow. Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) served notice in the House today that he will move to insert the profits levy into the general tax bill. The prospects are for a slam bang battle.

The 32 Republicans favoring immediate action on excess profits served notice that some of their group will vote against sending the tax bill to conference "unless the Democratic leadership gives positive assurance that Congress will not adjourn before voting on an excess profits tax bill."

3 Democrats Urge Action

Explaining their view, the Republican members said:

"It is intolerable to send American youth into battle, or even to freeze wages and prices, without at the same time removing the excess profits resulting from war."

Almost simultaneously with the Republican statement, Eberharter and three other Democrats—Young of Ohio, Carroll of Colorado and King of California—sent a joint letter to all House members urging action now.

Man Who Posed As Doctor Jailed

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A man who posed as a doctor for five years, held jobs in a half-dozen hospitals and delivered hundreds of babies — with no doctor's license and no medical education — went to jail for one year today.

William R. MacLeod, 37, pleaded guilty to illegal practice of medicine after he was tracked down and investigated for a lesser offense — not making payments on an automobile.

A Canadian who never had any more education than elementary school in Brownsville, Me., and high school in Quebec, MacLeod had been a railway clerk and held other odd jobs before he entered the U. S. Army in 1941.

Becoming a private, first class, in the Army Medical Corps he spent his spare time reading medical books. After leaving the Army in 1945, he decided he was ready to practice.

With forged diplomas from two European medical schools, MacLeod got himself registered with a recognized medical agency here.

SEATTLE, Sept. 13 (AP)—A Scholarly research job at the University of Washington was called off today because parents objected to the photographing of their daughters in the nude.

A university spokesman said it was all the result of a "misunderstanding." But he added that the 300 negatives taken so far would be destroyed.

Sponsors said the project had been going on for 15 years at a dozen different schools and referred to it as the "somatotype" (type of body build) project.

But to parents of the girls it was just full length, nude photographs of their daughters — both front and profile views.

University officials said the misunderstanding arose from the fact that because of a heavy registration the girls had not been told, as planned, that the photographing during routine physical examinations was purely voluntary.

The photos were being taken by Miss Barbara Honeyman, executive director of the Constitution Laboratory at the Columbia University medical school. In New York, the university said similar photographs had been taken earlier at such schools as Chicago, Iowa, Harvard and Columbia.

Ten Arrested As FBI Smashes Big Lottery Ring

Tickets Offered For Sale In Maryland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Acting on a tip by Canadian Mounties, the FBI today arrested 10 persons to smash what was described as a $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests following a series of pickups extending from California to New York.

Nine men were named in Hoover's announcement, and the FBI in Los Angeles later announced the arrest of the tenth, identified as the son of one of the principals.

Hoover said an estimated $2,000,000 in sweepstakes tickets based on the running Dec. 26 of the Christmas two-year-old stakes race at Knutsford Park, Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I., had been printed by a Miami, Fla., printing concern and shipped to distributors in Canada, New York, California, Ohio, Texas, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Special FBI agents in Miami yesterday seized from a printing concern, which was not identified, lottery tickets having a face value of $450,000, Hoover said. At Miami the firm was identified as the Franklin Press.

Plates from which the tickets were made were seized, Hoover said, and the arrests of persons he described as "world agents" and "exclusive agents" for tickets sales in several states followed today.

Hoover's statement said the action of the FBI took place before the lottery tickets could be put on sale in any quantity. He said the tickets were offered for sale for $1.25 and $1.50 in Canada.

The announcement said all those arrested are being charged with conspiracy to violate the federal law against interstate transportation of lottery tickets.

Engineer Says "Spirit" Ran Through Stop Light Before Crashing Into Troop Train

Streamliner Going Too Fast, Probe Told

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad's "Spirit of St. Louis" was running late, going too fast and ran through a stop signal as it ripped into a stalled troop train, its ashen engineer testified today.

William E. Eller, 68-year-old railroad veteran with 48 years' service, was the key witness at an inquiry into the predawn Ohio tragedy that killed 33 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen Monday.

The open hearing—conducted by the railroad, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Ohio Public Utility Commission and the Army—lasted nearly five hours.

Report Will Be Written

ICC Commissioner W. J. Patterson said at its conclusion:

"When we get the record, a report will be written and made public.

"If it turns out any law was violated that is administered by the commission, then we can take punitive action."

A parade of witnesses occupied the stand in the dingy hearing room on the ninth floor of the Pennsylvania's ancient terminal and office building.

But none took the spotlight from Eller, a spare, bespectacled graying man who has been under a doctor's care since the crash.

Streamliner Half-Hour Late

He said his New York to St. Louis passenger streamliner left Pittsburgh 29 minutes late and lost another minute enroute. He said he reduced his speed but "not enough" at the first signal approach block before the stalled train near Coshocton, Ohio.

Railroad regulations require that speed be reduced to 30 miles an hour at an approach block preparatory to coming to a complete halt at the next stop and proceed sign.

Eller said he "guessed" he was going 50 miles an hour at the time.

A tape taken from a speed recording machine in the Spirit's Diesel engine and introduced as evidence showed the train was moving at approximately 70 miles an hour just prior to the crash and at 50 miles an hour after the emergency brakes were applied.

His topic the following Sunday will be, "What Is Hell Like and How To Get In."

Contempt Action Against 3 Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committe asked today for a contempt of Congress action against Earl Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Philip Jaffe, who refused to answer questions in the committee's communist injuiry.

The proposal, originally made by the subcommittee which investigated charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of red infiltration in the State Department, goes to the Senate. If that body approves, the citation will be referred to the U. S. district attorney here for prosecution. Conviction carries a penalty of a year in jail plus a fine.

Neither Browder, one-time leader of U. S. communists, nor the other witnesses could be reached immediately for comment.

Committee action against the three, voted 9 to 0, came as Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) predicted that public opinion will force President Truman to sign his catch-all anti-communist bill.

That measure was passed by the Senate yesterday, 70 to 7. Mr. Truman has said he would not sign the original McCarran bill and the major change in that measure as it went through the Senate was addition of a section to put communists in internment camps in case of war, invansion or insurrection.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Poland protested to the United States today that American authorities are "discriminating" against the Polish liner Batory in New York harbor.

Unified Europe Defense Given Big 3 Backing

Eventual German Participation Seen

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Big Three foreign ministers were reported tonight to have reached substantial agreement on the principle of forming a unified military force for the defense of Western Europe.

Sources close to the secret conversations here said that creation of a combined force for such a defense must take precedence over any organization of German military units.

These German military units, however, when and if finally created, would be expected to participate in the defense force in some manner.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France talked for almost six hours today in morning and afternoon meetings.

After the conversations informed sources said that the three ministers appeared to be approaching decisions along the following lines:

1. Agreement on measures for German internal security by strengthening the German police force and retaining basic control of that force in the state government.

2. Organization of a unified military staff to set up what Bevin wants to call "the forces of the free world for the defense of Europe."

3. Probable eventual German military participation on some carefully controlled system in the European defense forces.

The question of organizing German military units is so delicate, however, that there was a possibility that the meeting of the three ministers might end next week without announcement of any decision along that line.

Ministers To Review Far Eastern Policies

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A sweeping review of Far Eastern policies, including the divisive issue of relations with Red China, is now set for the Big Three foreign ministers meeting here in the next day or so.

European problems of defense and German rearmament are taking so much time that the ministers have had to move back their schedule and Asian questions for today at least were put aside. Secretary of State Acheson, however, has brought in a staff of experts and advisers headed by Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and including authorities on Northeast Asia, China-Formosa and Southeast Asia.

The British-French-American attack on Far Eastern problems will not be aimed so much at producing agreement as it will be at preventing the Russians from making present disagreement worse.

Actor Defends Adoption Agency

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP)—The spotlight on a Memphis, Tenn., adoption agency—under investigation for reportedly selling infants at a profit—swung today toward filmland.

Several movie notables, among them Joan Crawford and a famous married couple, June Allyson and Dick Powell, have adopted children from the institution—the Tennessee Children's Home Society.

Today Powell issued a statement in which he strongly denied that he paid an exorbitant sum for the child the Powells adopted in 1948. A Tennessee welfare official yesterday asserted that the traffic in babies ran to $1,000,000 and some foster parents "have paid sums of as much as $750 in each case while the average cost of transporting the babies has been less than $100."

Powell's statement said:

"The Tennessee children's home of Memphis, Tenn., is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the world. I know this to be a fact as June and I got our baby, Pamela, there. I have every confidence in Georgia Pann, who is in charge of the home.

"I did not pay one cent for the privilege of adopting Pamela, other than transportation to and from Memphis for Mrs. Alma Walton who works with Mrs. Pann and who came to Hollywood to investigate my background before the adoption of Pamela was possible."

U. S. Planes Salvo Rockets, Destroy 71 Enemy Tanks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Air Force said today that planes salvoing eight armor-piercing rockets at a time destroyed 71 North Korean tanks from Sept. 1 to Sept. 12.

Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer, commander of the Far Eastern Air Forces, has made his report to Gen. Hoyt S. Vanderberg, Air Force chief of staff. The report said the confirmed score during the period was 71 tanks destroyed and 73 damaged.

Stratemeyer said these victories were scored by planes of the 5th Air Force.

An Air Force spokesman said these results indicate that the Air Force's new tactic of firing all eight of a plane's rockets simultaneously is proving more effective than anything else tried to date.

Emergency Arms Bill Is Approved By Senate Group

Legislation Carries Estimated 17 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee tonight unanimously approved an emergency defense bill carrying an estimated $17,185,000,000 to bolster the United States and friendly nations abroad against aggression.

The committee added about $414,000,000 to the total in the bill approved by the House Aug. 26 by a vote of 310 to 1.

The House bill would provide $16,771,000,000. The Senate figure was fixed tentatively at $17,185,000,000, pending recapitulation of last-minute changes made by the committee.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), committee chairman, reported the bill immediately to the Senate, which probably will begin debate on it tomorrow. Speedy passage is expected.

The bill meets almost fully President Truman's request for emergency funds to finance the fighting in Korea and to prepare against communist aggression wherever it might crop up.

In addition to about $11,640,000,000 to build America's own defenses, the bill carries $4,000,000,000 to help arm friendly nations abroad.

The measure provides cash for 5,333 new war planes.

The Senate bill adds about $93,000,000 to the House total for American defense. The increase includes $40,000,000 more for replacement of Navy ships, $18,000,000 for Army medical and hospital care, $10,000,000 for Navy medical care, and $25,000,000 for an air engineering development center near Tullahoma, Tenn.

One item in the proposed Senate legislation is $76,000 for the Secret Service to provide greater protection for the President and his family.

In a series of actions, the committee:

1. Rejected President Truman's request for $139,800,000 to move key government offices outside the range of an a-bomb attack on the nation's capital.

2. Approved $60,000,000 for administration of the new economic controls law, signed by Mr. Truman last week, and $6,000,000 for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP) — Thieves could have saved themselves a lot of trouble at a ready-mix cement plant early today.

They broke in through a window, carried out a 300-pound safe, loaded it in a truck and drove away.

The safe was unlocked, company officials said.

Besides, there was no money in it.

Drive Opened About 35 Miles East Of Taegu

Walker Promises Early Offensive

TOKYO, Sept. 14 (Thursday) (INS)—Big guns from cruisers and destroyers of the American and British fleets began pounding the port of Inchon Wednesday 160 miles from the present ground fighting in the United Nations South Korean beachhead.

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 14 (AP) — United Nations forces attacked today on the northern front, striving for a solid defense line to protect a buildup for a promised offensive against the Korean Reds.

Cheered by the U. N. field commander's word that they will break out of their defense box soon, Americans and South Koreans drove eastward this morning. Their mission was to close a gap of four and one-half miles on the eastern end of the northern wall.

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price said South Korean infantry was shoving ahead with support from American planes and artillery. He placed the action about 35 miles east of Taegu, cornerstone of the U. N. defense.

The hole that needed plugging was just west of Red-held Angang where the communists broke through 11 days ago, then unaccountably failed to exploit it.

The attack was a continuation of what the U. S. Eighth Army communique this morning called an effort to "establish a strong line."

South Koreans Advance

To this end during the past 24 hours, the communique said, the South Koreans Third and Capital Divisions, aided by American units, strengthened defensive positions along the road linking Angang with the Red-held east coast port of Pohang. These units, it said, made "limited attacks to gain tactical objectives."

The South Korean Eighth Division, the communique added, advanced 2,000 to 3,000 yards north and east of the area around Yongchon, 20 miles east of Taegu.

On the close approaches to Taegu, U. N. forces and the Reds see-sawed in bitter but small actions for control of the hills north and northwest of the key communications center.

The communique said U. S. First Cavalry Division troopers made "successful" attacks Wednesday afternoon for hills about seven miles northwest of Taegu and another one nine miles to the north. However, a Red counterattack forced the Americans to give up two hills southeast of Waegwan, it said. Waegwan is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

Trap Closed On 3,000 Reds

Artillery shells fell four miles southwest of Taegu this morning It was believed a Red assault was under way until it was learned the shells came from practicing South Korean batteries.

In a frontline tour over muddy roads on a rainy Wednesday, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker told U. N. troops "we will take the offensive in a very short period of time."

Plane pilots this morning spotted Reds retreating north across a river in the vicinity of Yonil, south of Red-held Pohang on the east coast. It was in this general area— between Pohang and Angang — that a former West Point football star led a task force in closing a trap yesterday on 3,000 Reds.

At the southern end of the front Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said a Red attack at 8:30 a. m. (6.30 p. m., EST, Wednesday) overran a platoon of the U. S 25th Division. The Americans immediately launched a counterattack. Swinton said the battle was continuing.

Beer-For-GIs-In-Korea Row Foams Up On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—A beer-for-the-boys in-Korea controversy foamed up on Capitol Hill today.

On one side, Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) proposed a daily beer ration for every fighting man on the house—at the taxpayers' expense, that is.

On the other side, Rep. Bryson (D-SC) urged that everybody — soldiers and civilians alike—go on the wagon for the duration.

Both proposals came on the morning after an Army order in Tokyo stopped the distribution of a can of beer a day, for free, to every combat man who wanted one. It seems there had been complaints from some people back home.

Army officials quickly modified the ban after howls of anguish arose. Hereafter, no beer will be bought with public funds. But the can-a-day system will continue — for front-line troops only—and will be financed from such sources as post exchange profits.

This didn't satisfy Dingell.

"Water in Korea is deadlier than bullets," he declared, and went on to list the maladies that might overtake a confirmed water drinker — typhus . . . cholera . . . dysentery.

Introducing a bill to provide free beer, the Michigan Democrat asserted:

"To force our American troops to drink dangerously polluted water is the equivalent of an attack from the rear by infiltration."

Bryson contended nobody should touch the stuff—beer, that is—in times like these. He already has introduced a bill to outlaw alcoholic beverages in time of emergency.

Ten Arrested As FBI Smashes Big Lottery Ring

Tickets Offered For Sale In Maryland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Acting on a tip by Canadian Mounties, the FBI today arrested 10 persons to smash what was described as a $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests following a series of pickups extending from California to New York.

Nine men were named in Hoover's announcement, and the FBI in Los Angeles later announced the arrest of the tenth, identified as the son of one of the principals.

Hoover said an estimated $2,000,000 in sweepstakes tickets based on the running Dec. 26 of the Christmas two-year-old stakes race at Knutsford Park, Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I., had been printed by a Miami, Fla., printing concern and shipped to distributors in Canada, New York, California, Ohio, Texas, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Special FBI agents in Miami yesterday seized from a printing concern, which was not identified, lottery tickets having a face value of $450,000, Hoover said. At Miami the firm was identified as the Franklin Press.

Plates from which the tickets were made were seized, Hoover said, and the arrests of persons he described as "world agents" and "exclusive agents" for tickets sales in several states followed today.

Hoover's statement said the action of the FBI took place before the lottery tickets could be put on sale in any quantity. He said the tickets were offered for sale for $1.25 and $1.50 in Canada.

The announcement said all those arrested are being charged with conspiracy to violate the federal law against interstate transportation of lottery tickets.

Engineer Says "Spirit" Ran Through Stop Light Before Crashing Into Troop Train

Streamliner Going Too Fast, Probe Told

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad's "Spirit of St. Louis" was running late, going too fast and ran through a stop signal as it ripped into a stalled troop train, its ashen engineer testified today.

William E. Eller, 68-year-old railroad veteran with 48 years' service, was the key witness at an inquiry into the predawn Ohio tragedy that killed 33 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen Monday.

The open hearing—conducted by the railroad, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Ohio Public Utility Commission and the Army—lasted nearly five hours.

Report Will Be Written

ICC Commissioner W. J. Patterson said at its conclusion:

"When we get the record, a report will be written and made public.

"If it turns out any law was violated that is administered by the commission, then we can take punitive action."

A parade of witnesses occupied the stand in the dingy hearing room on the ninth floor of the Pennsylvania's ancient terminal and office building.

But none took the spotlight from Eller, a spare, bespectacled graying man who has been under a doctor's care since the crash.

Streamliner Half-Hour Late

He said his New York to St. Louis passenger streamliner left Pittsburgh 29 minutes late and lost another minute enroute. He said he reduced his speed but "not enough" at the first signal approach block before the stalled train near Coshocton, Ohio.

Railroad regulations require that speed be reduced to 30 miles an hour at an approach block preparatory to coming to a complete halt at the next stop and proceed sign.

Eller said he "guessed" he was going 50 miles an hour at the time.

A tape taken from a speed recording machine in the Spirit's Diesel engine and introduced as evidence showed the train was moving at approximately 70 miles an hour just prior to the crash and at 50 miles an hour after the emergency brakes were applied.

Jersey Minister Aims To Be Fair

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP)—Rev. Earl H. Devanny, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said today he aims to be fair about discussion of future life.

On Sunday his sermon topic will be, "What Is Heaven Like and How To Get In."

Contempt Action Against 3 Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committe asked today for a contempt of Congress action against Earl Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Philip Jaffe, who refused to answer questions in the committee's communist injuiry.

The proposal, originally made by the subcommittee which investigated charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of red infiltration in the State Department, goes to the Senate. If that body approves, the citation will be referred to the U. S. district attorney here for prosecution. Conviction carries a penalty of a year in jail plus a fine.

Neither Browder, one-time leader of U. S. communists, nor the other witnesses could be reached immediately for comment.

Committee action against the three, voted 9 to 0, came as Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) predicted that public opinion will force President Truman to sign his catch-all anti-communist bill.

That measure was passed by the Senate yesterday, 70 to 7. Mr. Truman has said he would not sign the original McCarran bill and the major change in that measure as it went through the Senate was addition of a section to put communists in internment camps in case of war, invansion or insurrection.

Takes Drastic Action

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A woman whose husband said she was despondent over house cleaning took her own life yesterday.

Mrs. Natalie Cusick, 34, was found in the kitchen of her Queens apartment overcome by gas fumes from the stove.

Poland Protests

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Poland protested to the United States today that American authorities are "discriminating" against the Polish liner Batory in New York harbor.

Polish Ambassador Jozef Winiewicz complained at the State Department that the liner's crew is not permitted ashore and is exposed to "chicanery" (trickery) when questioned by U. S. immigration authorities.

SEATTLE, Sept. 13 (AP)—A Scholarly research job at the University of Washington was called off today because parents objected to the photographing of their daughters in the nude.

A university spokesman said it was all the result of a "misunderstanding." But he added that the 300 negatives taken so far would be destroyed.

Sponsors said the project had been going on for 15 years at a dozen different schools and referred to it as the "somatotype" (type of body build) project.

But to parents of the girls it was just full length, nude photographs of their daughters — both front and profile views.

University officials said the misunderstanding arose from the fact that because of a heavy registration the girls had not been told, as planned, that the photographing during routine physical examinations was purely voluntary.

The photos were being taken by Miss Barbara Honeyman, executive director of the Constitution Laboratory at the Columbia University medical school. In New York, the university said similar photographs had been taken earlier at such schools as Chicago, Iowa, Harvard and Columbia.

Unified Europe Defense Given Big 3 Backing

Eventual German Participation Seen

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Big Three foreign ministers were reported tonight to have reached substantial agreement on the principle of forming a unified military force for the defense of Western Europe.

Sources close to the secret conversations here said that creation of a combined force for such a defense must take precedence over any organization of German military units.

These German military units, however, when and if finally created, would be expected to participate in the defense force in some manner.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France talked for almost six hours today in morning and afternoon meetings.

After the conversations informed sources said that the three ministers appeared to be approaching decisions along the following lines:

1. Agreement on measures for German internal security by strengthening the German police force and retaining basic control of that force in the state government.

2. Organization of a unified military staff to set up what Bevin wants to call "the forces of the free world for the defense of Europe."

3. Probable eventual German military participation on some carefully controlled system in the European defense forces.

The question of organizing German military units is so delicate, however, that there was a possibility that the meeting of the three ministers might end next week without announcement of any decision along that line.

Ministers To Review Far Eastern Policies

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A sweeping review of Far Eastern policies, including the divisive issue of relations with Red China, is now set for the Big Three foreign ministers meeting here in the next day or so.

European problems of defense and German rearmament are taking so much time that the ministers have had to move back their schedule and Asian questions for today at least were put aside. Secretary of State Acheson, however, has brought in a staff of experts and advisers headed by Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and including authorities on Northeast Asia, China-Formosa and Southeast Asia.

The British-French-American attack on Far Eastern problems will not be aimed so much at producing agreement as it will be at preventing the Russians from making present disagreement worse.

Actor Defends Adoption Agency

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP)—The spotlight on a Memphis, Tenn., adoption agency—under investigation for reportedly selling infants at a profit—swung today toward filmland.

Several movie notables, among them Joan Crawford and a famous married couple, June Allyson and Dick Powell, have adopted children from the institution—the Tennessee Children's Home Society.

Today Powell issued a statement in which he strongly denied that he paid an exorbitant sum for the child the Powells adopted in 1948.

A Tennessee welfare official yesterday asserted that the traffic in babies ran to $1,000,000 and some foster parents "have paid sums of as much as $750 in each case while the average cost of transporting the babies has been less than $100."

Powell's statement said:

"The Tennessee children's home of Memphis, Tenn., is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the world. I know this to be a fact as June and I got our baby, Pamela, there. I have every confidence in Georgia Pann, who is in charge of the home.

"I did not pay one cent for the privilege of adopting Pamela, other than transportation to and from Memphis for Mrs. Alma Walton who works with Mrs. Pann and who came to Hollywood to investigate my background before the adoption of Pamela was possible."

Actor Cabot To Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP) — Actor Bruce Cabot said today he plans to marry Francesca De Scaffa, Portuguese beauty, next Sunday at the ranch of a friend near Houston, Tex.

U. S. Planes Salvo Rockets, Destroy 71 Enemy Tanks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Air Force said today that planes salvoing eight armor-piercing rockets at a time destroyed 71 North Korean tanks from Sept. 1 to Sept. 12.

Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer, commander of the Far Eastern Air Forces, has made his report to Gen. Hoyt S. Vanderberg, Air Force chief of staff. The report said the confirmed score during the period was 71 tanks destroyed and 73 damaged.

Stratemeyer said these victories were scored by planes of the 5th Air Force.

An Air Force spokesman said these results indicate that the Air Force's new tactic of firing all eight of a plane's rockets simultaneously is proving more effective than anything else tried to date.

Emergency Arms Bill Is Approved By Senate Group

Legislation Carries Estimated 17 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee tonight unanimously approved an emergency defense bill carrying an estimated $17,185,000,000 to bolster the United States and friendly nations abroad against aggression.

The committee added about $414,000,000 to the total in the bill approved by the House Aug. 26 by a vote of 310 to 1.

The House bill would provide $16,771,000,000. The Senate figure was fixed tentatively at $17,185,000,000, pending recapitulation of last-minute changes made by the committee.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), committee chairman, reported the bill immediately to the Senate, which probably will begin debate on it tomorrow. Speedy passage is expected.

The bill meets almost fully President Truman's request for emergency funds to finance the fighting in Korea and to prepare against communist aggression wherever it might crop up.

In addition to about $11,640,000,000 to build America's own defenses, the bill carries $4,000,000,000 to help arm friendly nations abroad.

The measure provides cash for 5,333 new war planes.

The Senate bill adds about $93,000,000 to the House total for American defense. The increase includes $40,000,000 more for replacement of Navy ships, $18,000,000 for Army medical and hospital care, $10,000,000 for Navy medical care, and $25,000,000 for an air engineering development center near Tullahoma, Tenn.

One item in the proposed Senate legislation is $76,000 for the Secret Service to provide greater protection for the President and his family.

In a series of actions, the committee:

1. Rejected President Truman's request for $139,800,000 to move key government offices outside the range of an a-bomb attack on the nation's capital.

2. Approved $60,000,000 for administration of the new economic controls law, signed by Mr. Truman last week, and $6,000,000 for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

300-Lb. Unlocked, Empty Safe Stolen

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP) — Thieves could have saved themselves a lot of trouble at a ready-mix cement plant early today.

They broke in through a window, carried out a 300-pound safe, loaded it in a truck and drove away.

The safe was unlocked, company officials said.

Besides, there was no money in it.

Drive Opened About 35 Miles East Of Taegu

Walker Promises Early Offensive

TOKYO, Sept. 14 (Thursday) (INS)—Big guns from cruisers and destroyers of the American and British fleets began pounding the port of Inchon Wednesday 160 miles from the present ground fighting in the United Nations South Korean beachhead.

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 14 (AP) — United Nations forces attacked today on the northern front, striving for a solid defense line to protect a buildup for a promised offensive against the Korean Reds.

Cheered by the U. N. field commander's word that they will break out of their defense box soon, Americans and South Koreans drove eastward this morning. Their mission was to close a gap of four and one-half miles on the eastern end of the northern wall.

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price said South Korean infantry was shoving ahead with support from American planes and artillery. He placed the action about 35 miles east of Taegu, cornerstone of the U. N. defense.

The hole that needed plugging was just west of Red-held Angang where the communists broke through 11 days ago, then unaccountably failed to exploit it.

The attack was a continuation of what the U. S. Eighth Army communique this morning called an effort to "establish a strong line."

South Koreans Advance

To this end during the past 24 hours, the communique said, the South Koreans Third and Capital Divisions, aided by American units, strengthened defensive positions along the road linking Angang with the Red-held east coast port of Pohang. These units, it said, made "limited attacks to gain tactical objectives."

The South Korean Eighth Division, the communique added, advanced 2,000 to 3,000 yards north and east of the area around Yongchon, 20 miles east of Taegu.

On the close approaches to Taegu, U. N. forces and the Reds see-sawed in bitter but small actions for control of the hills north and northwest of the key communications center.

The communique said U. S. First Cavalry Division troopers made "successful" attacks Wednesday afternoon for hills about seven miles northwest of Taegu and another one nine miles to the north. However, a Red counterattack forced the Americans to give up two hills southeast of Waegwan, it said. Waegwan is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

Trap Closed On 3,000 Reds

Artillery shells fell four miles southwest of Taegu this morning It was believed a Red assault was under way until it was learned the shells came from practicing South Korean batteries.

In a frontline tour over muddy roads on a rainy Wednesday, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker told U. N. troops "we will take the offensive in a very short period of time."

Plane pilots this morning spotted Reds retreating north across a river in the vicinity of Yonil, south of Red-held Pohang on the east coast. It was in this general area— between Pohang and Angang — that a former West Point football star led a task force in closing a trap yesterday on 3,000 Reds.

At the southern end of the front Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said a Red attack at 8:30 a. m. (6.30 p. m., EST, Wednesday) overran a platoon of the U. S 25th Division. The Americans immediately launched a counterattack. Swinton said the battle was continuing.

Beer-For-GIs-In-Korea Row Foams Up On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—A beer-for-the-boys in-Korea controversy foamed up on Capitol Hill today.

On one side, Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) proposed a daily beer ration for every fighting man on the house—at the taxpayers' expense, that is.

On the other side, Rep. Bryson (D-SC) urged that everybody — soldiers and civilians alike—go on the wagon for the duration.

Both proposals came on the morning after an Army order in Tokyo stopped the distribution of a can of beer a day, for free, to every combat man who wanted one. It seems there had been complaints from some people back home.

Army officials quickly modified the ban after howls of anguish arose. Hereafter, no beer will be bought with public funds. But the can-a-day system will continue — for front-line troops only—and will be financed from such sources as post exchange profits.

This didn't satisfy Dingell.

"Water in Korea is deadlier than bullets," he declared, and went on to list the maladies that might overtake a confirmed water drinker — typhus . . . cholera . . . dysentery.

Introducing a bill to provide free beer, the Michigan Democrat asserted:

"To force our American troops to drink dangerously polluted water is the equivalent of an attack from the rear by infiltration."

Bryson contended nobody should touch the stuff—beer, that is—in times like these. He already has introduced a bill to outlaw alcoholic beverages in time of emergency.

Five Senators Renominated

[By The Associated Press]

Five senators — three Republicans and two Democrats — have been renominated in primary elections that just about complete major party slates for nationwide voting Nov. 7.

Every House member seeking renomination also was successful in Tuesday's contests involving 41 House seats in eight widely scattered states.

In the hottest Senate fight, Sen. Charles W. Tobey squeezed out a 1,127-vote victory over 34-year-old Wesley Powell for the GOP nomination in New Hampshire. Tobey, 70, hailed the result as "a victory for a forward-looking brand of Republicanism."

Powell called for a recount.

The only other senator with a primary fight was Arizona Democrat Carl Hayden. He trimmed two opponents.

Renominated without opposition were Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash), George D. Aiken (R-Vt) and Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo).

Primaries later this month in Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Wisconsin will complete the ballot for the November voting.

Navy Plans To Reopen Bainbridge, Md., Base

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said today that plans are underway to reactivate Bainbridge, Md., as a naval training base.

The Air Force has asked the Navy for the big World War Two training base for its own use, Tydings said, but the Navy itself plans to reopen the grounds.

The 1,100-acre tract on the Susquehanna River at its peak during the war had 35,000 officers and enlisted men.

Violent Earthquake Again Rocks Assam

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 13 (AP)—Reports from North Assam said a 90-minute series of earth tremors more violent than the Aug. 15 earthquake shook the area today.

Seismographs registered the Aug. 15 quake as the world's fifth severest shock. Unofficial counts placed last month's death toll at 5,000, but Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said after a flying tour of the stricken area that he doubted that more than 1,000 had lost their lives.

Monaghan Criticizes Marshall Appointment

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Hugh J. Monaghan, campaigning for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate, today criticized President Truman's appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall to head the Department of Defense.

Monaghan said it endangered Gen. MacArthur's position in the Far East.

"It must be recalled," he declared, "that Gen. Marshall sided with 'Vinegar Joe' Stilwell in his feud with Nationalist China, and as presidential 'expediter,' Mr. Marshall was responsible for the 18-month embargo on Nationalist China that ended in the Chinese communist conquest of the mainland of China."

3 Women Injured When Cable Falls

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—A seven block long section of a heavy cable fell to the street in Queens today, injuring three women shoppers and smashing tops and hoods of four parked cars.

One woman suffered a broken arm, the others cuts and bruises.

The cable supplied current to an elevated section of subway trackage and was suspended beneath the elevated. Police said it had been sagging and came tumbling down while repairmen were trying to fix it. The weight of the cable—not electricity—did the damage.

Senate Unit Endorses O'Dwyer's Nomination

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — William O'Dwyer, who resigned as mayor of New York to accept nomination as ambassador to Mexico, got an 8 to 0 endorsement today from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) voted "present."

The Iowan had taken up the greater part of the committee's sessions yesterday and today questioning O'Dwyer about his record as Brooklyn district attorney before he became mayor.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters that Hickenlooper's inquiries today related principally to a gangster murder case, and whether there had been "neglect" in its prosecution.

Last Leader Of GAR Dies At Age Of 101

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 13 (AP)—The Grand Army of the Republic's last commander, Theodore A. Penland, died today at the age of 101.

He entered the veterans hospital yesterday and died of a failing heart at 11 a. m. today.

The Civil War veteran, full of chuckles and spry until very recent years, attended a Los Angeles convention of the affiliated orders of the GAR last week.

Penland was elected commander of the GAR at the 1948 encampment at Grand Rapids, Mich. It was decided then that the handful of veterans would meet just once more—their 83rd meeting—and then call it quits. That last convention was held in Indianapolis where the first was held.

Stripper's Accuser Won't Present Proof

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP)—Edward Clamage, the Chicago legionnaire who publicly questioned Gypsy Rose Lee's political views, said today he does not plan to present any proof of charges against her.

In a statement issued through the American Legion's Illinois Department office, Clamage said "my statement to x x x the American Broadcasting Company was based on information contained in the publication, Red Channels, copyrighted by American Business Consultants, Inc. x x x

"The entire matter could be easily clarified and the answer should come from the publishers of Red Channels."

Clamage told the Illinois Legion convention Monday that Miss Lee was reported to be "a close associate of x x x traitors."

Mean What You Say And Say What You Mean

This year's congressional election is likely to be decided on the basis of what the American electorate thinks about the Korean War. Every politician realizes that this is true—that domestic issues will play a subordinate part—and the argument over who is to blame for what has already begun.

It will go on and on because it is inevitable and because almost any number of questions can be listed under the general heading.

Before it becomes too involved and too confused, however, there may be a chance to point out some lessons that the United States must learn in order to play this game of power politics in which it is involved on a global scale.

One of these lessons is that any nation taking a hand in this game needs to know what it wants and just how specific problems fit into the general framework of its policy. It must not try to do more than it can. And it must make its intentions clear. To say that its aim is peace and that it supports the United Nations is not enough to avert such situations as the one in Korea.

For the truth is that the average American did not realize that this country would fight to defend South Korea until the North Korean army had moved across the Thirty-eighth Parallel. Earlier this year, when the whole question of U. S. policy in the Far East was under hot discussion, Secretary Acheson said that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines were vital to U. S. security. The inference was that Formosa was not, and he did not mention Korea.

If Washington had known what it meant to do, preparations could have been made to stop the war quickly should it come. If there had been less vacillation in Washington, Russia might not have precipitated the attack. If the government knew its own mind, and failed to reveal it, that was as bad as not knowing its mind.

It is the business of the party in power to think these things through. But what Americans need to realize, whether they hold official positions or not, can be put in some well-worn words: The nation must learn to mean what it says, and to say what it means.

The Virus And The Ion

The advent of the atomic age and the rapid advance in radio and its related fields in the last few years have added some strange words to the reading vocabulary of the layman. He has learned to recognize such terms as electron, proton, neutron, ion, fission, fusion and confusion. The last named was already well known, but such a significant addition has been made lately that it is worth mentioning in any list of the terms of the atomic era.

Now some scientists have notions of fooling around with the ions and such in the human body. The medical sciences also have put some new words before the public in the last few years, and one of the most arresting of these is virus. We are told that viruses cause poliomyelitis, influenza, one kind of pneumonia, measles, mumps, and maybe the common cold. Prof. Theodore T. Puck, of the University of Colorado Medical Center, reports that he has discovered a relation between the activity of a virus and the behavior of ions, which are particles of matter carrying an electric charge. Certain kinds of ions are necessary to the attack of a virus on body cells, other kinds of ions can prevent it. This is only a fragmentary beginning, yet even by belittling it Puck suggests the idea that someday ions might be used to ward off virus diseases.

There is an immediate and sore temptation to tell the professor that he can mess around in his laboratory to his heart's content, but should leave our personal ions alone. But if he can find a way to guard us from a cold in the head, come January, he is more than welcome to our ions.

Still Punching

What has been happening in Korea for more than a week has provided a strong antidote to any easy optimism. A front that was supposed to have been stabilized has been shot through with holes by ferocious North Korean drives. An enemy who was supposed to have only one punch left has mustered the manpower and armor to mount the greatest offensive of the war and is now regrouping his forces for still another drive.

It is encouraging to find high-ranking U. S. officers in Korea and in Tokyo still showing guarded optimism about the ability of the American line to hold despite these latest reverses. They should be in the best position to know the facts of the situation.

But it is obvious that, though hostilities do not spread beyond Korea, the U. S. still has a long, hard and bloody fight ahead on that peninsula. After almost three months of fighting, U. S. forces still are on the defensive, and have all but run out of terrain. The North Koreans still have enough power to blast deep breaches in MacArthur's lines. U. S. forces need many more men and weapons before they can begin a counter-offensive.

There is also the constant danger that the Russians may start a war on another front while most of this nation's combat strength is tied up in Korea.

Rearming The Germans

The West German Federal Republic will not be an unarmed state much longer. Soon it will receive permission from the occupying powers to create and possess military strength. Just how this is to be done is still to be determined—but the decision to do it can be considered as made.

John J. McCloy, U. S. High Commissioner for Germany, has been in consultation with high government officials in Washington. McCloy has been stressing the danger inherent in the so-called police forces the Russians are building in East Germany. He has been urging steps to counter this threat.

Figures on the size of the East German forces vary somewhat. McCloy estimates there are 100,000 men in the "police" and perhaps 50,000 in the "alert" units now being trained in the use of heavy weapons. Some informed guesses are higher. But McCloy's figures are high enough to cause concern. They indicate that Russia has plans to make Germany into another Korea.

In the face of that potential peril, Allied policy toward Germany is undergoing rapid changes.

Some people seem to think they have a sound argument because they are noisy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Measles According To Schedule

MEASLES is on the rampage thruout several parts of the country. In Illinois, for example, in the first six months of this year, 14,964 cases were reported in contrast to a total of 5,820 cases in the entire year of 1949.

The malady is one of the most contagious of childhood diseases and statistics reveal that all except about three per cent of the population encounter it at some time in life. Apparently there is no natural immunity except in infants under six months of age. Babies acquire enough protection from their mothers to hold them over this period.

• — • — •

Measles often descends upon a community in epidemic proportions and in New York City, for example, this is likely to take place on the even years. In addition, the ailment is more prevalent in cold weather and, if it follows its usual course, reaches ebb tide in September. Transmission occurs through direct contact with any one who is ill. The air surrounding the victim is contagious, more so if the child has been coughing. The bedclothing and dishes also carry the virus but the organisms do not live long in the open air. As a result, it is virtually impossible for a third party to acquire the disease from one who has visited a patient in the hospital or the home across the street.

Symptoms vary considerably but in a case that is running true to form fever develops on the tenth day after exposure. This is the first sign of the malady and most mothers think the little one is coming down with a cold. Twelve hours later, the eyes become inflamed and irritated and 12 hours from then nasal catarrh appears. These are not necessarily clews that measles is in the making and at this stage there still is every reason to believe that a cold is responsible.

The physician, however, will look along the inside of the cheeks, opposite the first molars, for Koplik's spots: tiny light dots surrounded by small red inflamed halos. These lesions occur only in measles and develop from 36 to 48 hours ahead of the skin rash. All physicians look for them because, when discovered, the youngster can be isolated a day or two ahead of time. This means less contact for the child and fewer cases in the neighborhood.

The rash comes last and, when it arises on schedule, usually makes it debut 14 days after the initial exposure. The eruption begins on the face and frequently behind the ears and spreads in a downward direction; by the third day the entire body is covered. The lesions fade in the order of their appearance and, as a rule, are gone within five days.

When recovery begins, it often proceeds rapidly. A father may bid goodbye to his ailing son or daughter in the morning when he leaves for work; on his return home at dinnertime the tot virtually will be cured. The temperature drops, catarrh begins to clear up, the miserable feelings disappear, and appetite returns. The older the child, the better the outlook. For this reason, gamma globulin generally is reserved for younger members of the family. This serum may not prevent the disease but will lighten its course.

Tomorrow: Malnutrition in the midst of plenty.

HEMATURIA AFTER COLD

C. R. writes: On three occasions when I caught cold I have had blood in the urine. It appears at no other time. May I have your opinion?

REPLY

These are recurrent attacks of kidney infection, which have been precipitated by your colds. This situation is difficult to overcome unless you make every effort to prevent the development of respiratory infections. If a long enough interval elapses between colds, the kidney disorder may have an opportunity to clear up.

No, unless water seeps thru them. In the circumstances, the ensuing irritation may cause redness, burning, and tearing.

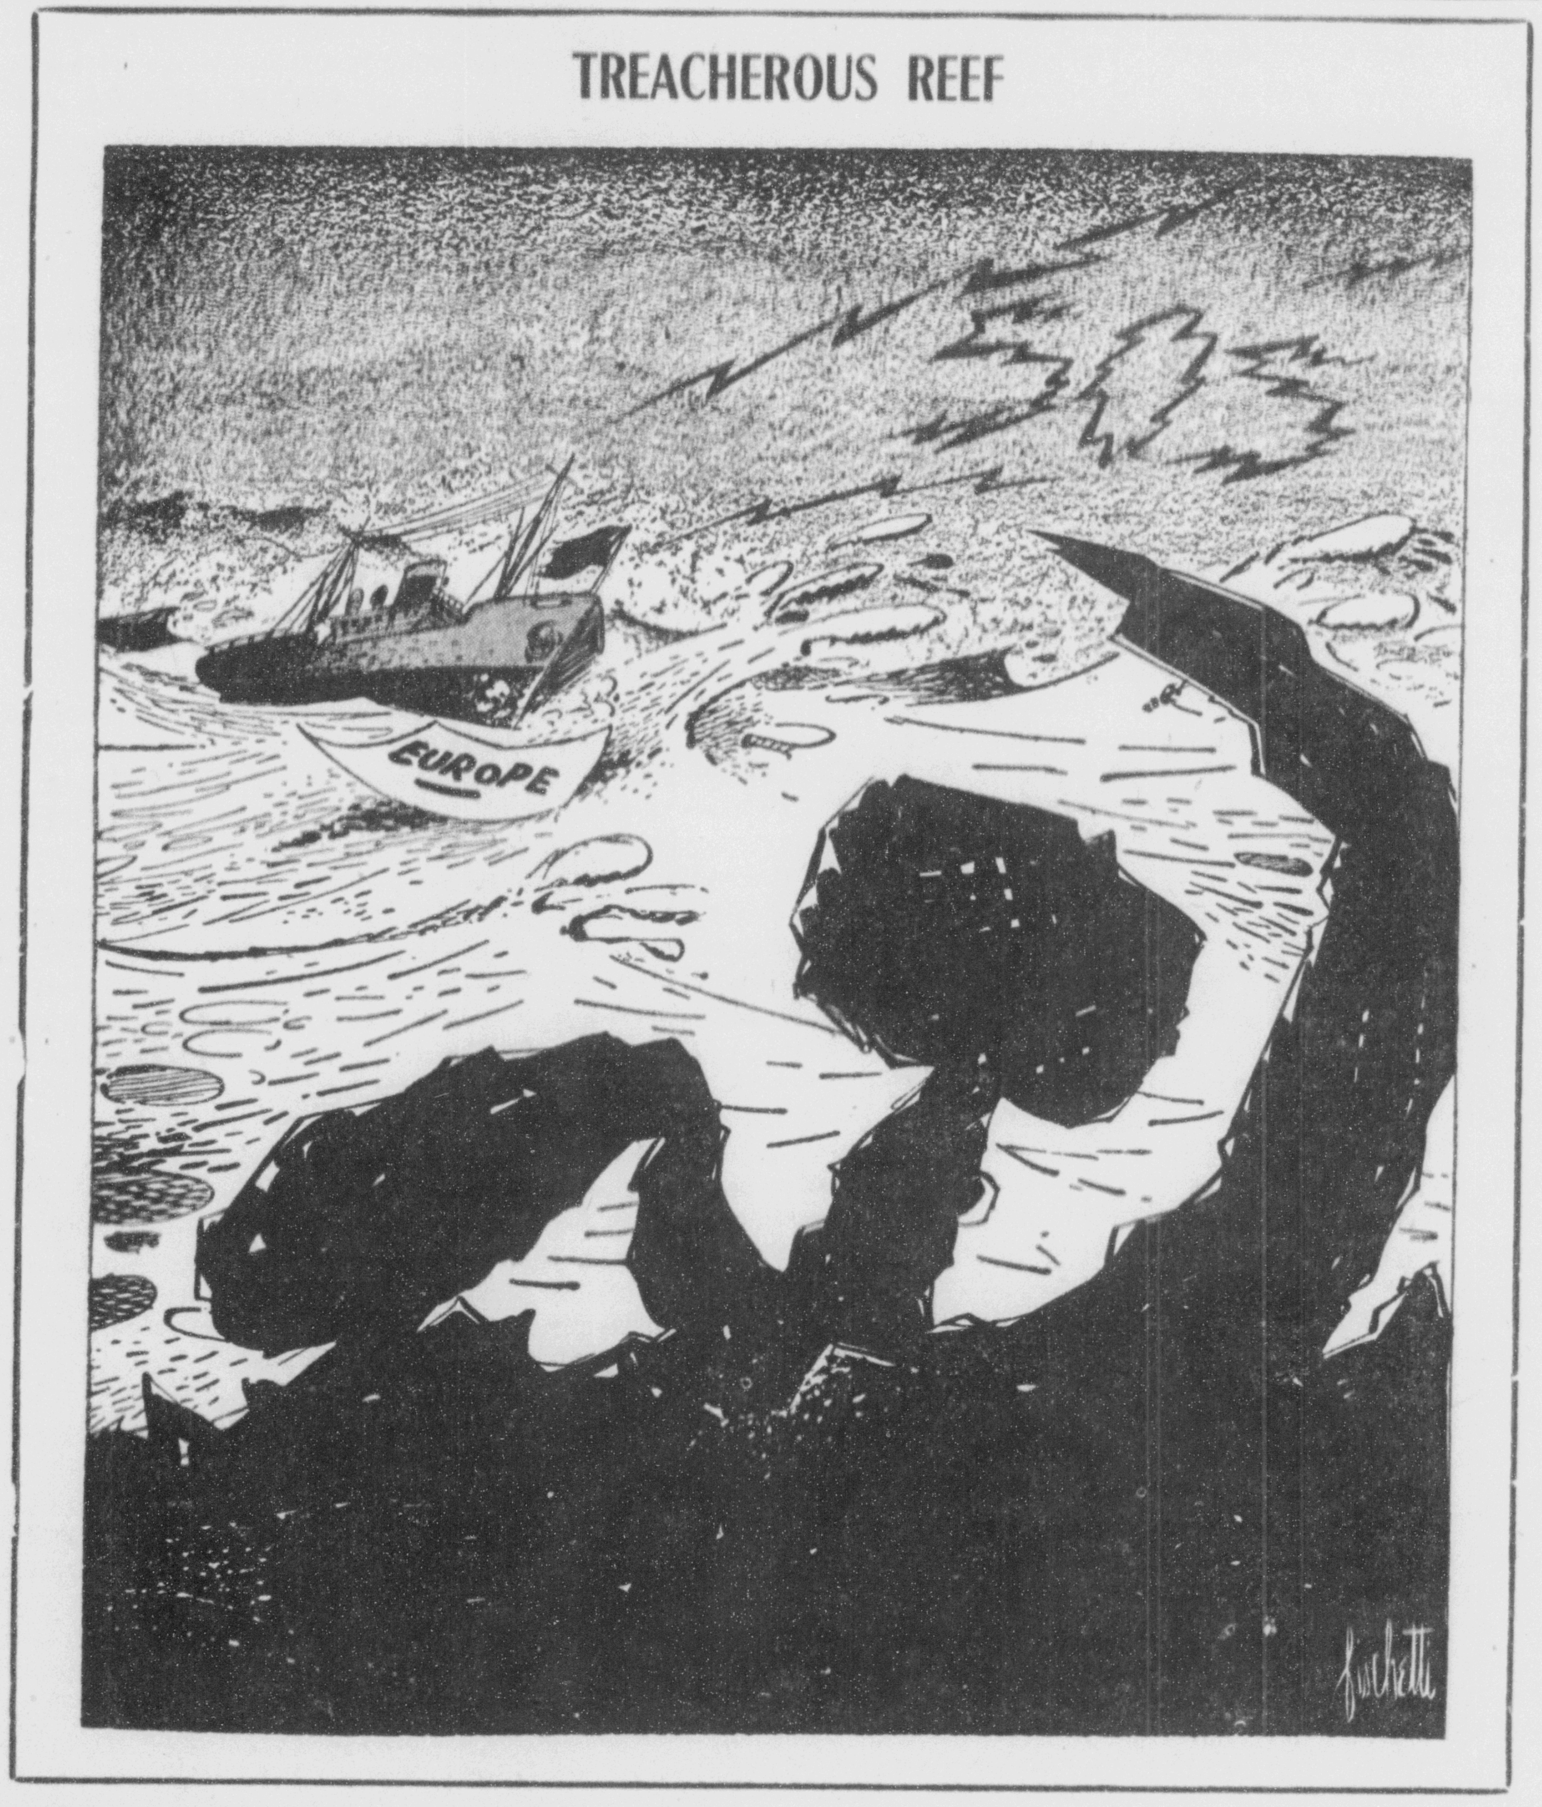
The truth is, I don't know but the sedative is not difficult to administer and I presume that any one of them could give it if the treatment is indicated.

TREACHEROUS REEF



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Makes Off-The-Record Plea For Tolerance; Byrd Refuses To Abuse Franking Privilege; Truman's Conference With Marine Commandant Not Cordial

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Sometimes the President's off-the-record remarks that never reach the papers are his best. Those present thought this was the case when Truman addressed the joint session of the AFL-CIO last week.

Speaking without notes and obviously straight from the heart, the President made a plea for tolerance in wartime.

To a considerable extent is was a historical speech. The President reviewed the different periods of hysteria which have gripped the country—the Alien and Sedition Act in the early days of the republic, the Know-Nothing party, and Ku Klux Klanism.

He pointed out that the Know-Nothing party had been anti-Mason. The Klan, he recalled, was first against the negro; then when revived in the 1920's, against the Jew and the Catholic.

These were evidences of intolerance which did not truly represent the American people, he said, and he was absolutely confident that the good judgment of the American people would always win out.

The President did not mention the Mundt-Nixon Bill or the McCarran Bill, but it was obvious he had them in mind. For he referred to Congressional witch-hunters who wave the American Flag while persecuting alien immigrants and trampling on the rights of loyal Americans.

"This is the raw material of totalitarianism," he said.

While fighting the intolerance of totalitarianism, he emphasized, we must not take on the methods of totalitarianism. Recalling that totalitarian regimes had persecuted labor unions, religious groups and fraternal organizations, he pointed out that under the Alien and Sedition Act, naturalized citizens hardly dared say anything in public about the government for fear of being thrown in jail, and this, he inferred, might also happen under the Mundt-Nixon and McCarran bills.

Free Lobbying Mail

There was at least one senator who, though agreeing with the political theories of lobbyist Edward Rumely and his committee for constitutional government, refused to euchre the publi out of extra money through abuse of the franking privilege. He is Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Some senators, however, including Dick Russell of Georgia, did not object to the idea of using their free mailing privilege to send lobbying propaganda for the ex-German agent through the mails.

Here are interesting notes from the letters of Homer Dodge, Washington representative, to his boss, Dr. Rumely, convicted of being an agent of the Kaiser in World War I:

"Senator Russell was very cordial and will frank the Richberg statement if necessary. He would rather not as he is up for election this year. He referred me to Senator Eastland (Mississippi) who also is up for election but who does not expect any labor votes and does not need any. I sincerely hope we can find a new senator in Mr. Eastland who will cooperate on extensions and franking, as in an election year especially, so many members of both houses appear to be terrified of charges of misuse of privileges.

"Senator Byrd surprised me by saying there is a law against sending franked envelopes out of Washington and he will not disregard it. He mentioned what he called difficulty with the misuse of the frank by former Senator Burke. The matter of the Richberg extension is now back in Senator Eastland's hands and he is to discuss it further with Senator Russell. All three, including Byrd, think the address will be widely circulated. I rather think Senator Russell will be the one who will agree in the end."

He Told It To the Marines

Most people don't know it, but when President Truman ousted Adm. Louis Denfeld as Chief of Naval Operations last year, he also planned to oust Gen. Clifton Cates as commandant of the Marine Corps.

Cates was a strong ally of Denfeld in the B-36 row between the Navy and the Air Force. However, public reaction to Denfeld's ouster was so hot that the President changed his mind about relieving General Cates.

Net result was that no love was lost between Mr. Truman and the Marine Corps commander; so that the President—who has a long memory for those who ever cross him—was not anxious to eat crow last week.

When General Cates was called to the White House, therefore, he got a formal though polite greeting. Speaking a little stiffly, the Commander-in-Chief told the Marine Corps commander that he was making a public apology to the Marines "for the good of the country" and the war effort. He added that he had been too hasty and his words were too strong.

However, he felt that there were some grounds for his reference to the Marines' propaganda activities. As an instance, he cited the terrific pressure he was getting to give the Marines a voice on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

NOTE — General Cates, himself, has not been averse to this pressure. If the Marines were made part of the Joint of Chiefs of Staff, he would become the Marine Corps representative on it.

Slapping a Good Neighbor

Last spring flags along Constitution Avenue read "Welcome Gonzalez Videla!" as the President of Chile paid an official visit to the U.S.A. A good part of Washington turned out, plus President Truman and all the Cabinet to greet the head of the neighbor nation which had banned communism and was considered one of the best democratic friends of the United States.

President Videla did not ask for anything when he came to Washington. He did not need to. For the State Department has long known that what Chile wants most is to have our 2 cents per pound excise tax on copper held in abeyance.

All during the war, because we needed copper badly, this tax was held in abeyance, since what it actually amounted to was a penalty against the American people and the U.S. Army-Navy.

Shortly after President Videla had gone back to Chile, however, Congress literally slapped him in the face by restoring the tax against copper. Reverberations from below the Rio Grande were painful and quite serious.

Since then the House of Representatives has voted to suspend the tax; but, despite repeated urging by President Truman, the Senate has not.

A handful of Rocky Mountain senators from copper areas is the reason why. Senators Hayden and McFarland of Arizona, where the Phelps Dodge copper mines are located, have led this bloc, and so far have been successful in stymieing about 80 other senators, plus the House of Representatives. Most interesting of all, however, is the fact that Sen. Tom Connally, who has made speech after speech championing the good neighbor policy, in this case has voted the other way.

NOTE—Unfortunate fact is that Latin Americans who don't understand the intricacies of our legislative system and think that Truman should be able to control Congress, consider the copper tax a slapdown by the entire United States.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Farewell To The Battalion

TOKYO.

ONE of the odder rules of war seems to be that all the good people are at the front and all the odious people are at higher headquarters. Besides the gratitude of the civilian to the fighting man, the observer also feels curiously grateful to the men in the lines for their unvarying hospitality. On leaving Korea for a few days, this reporter therefore proposes to write a sort of bread and butter letter to the members of the 1st Battalion of the 27th Infantry Regiment, who were his hosts for some time when they were brilliantly winding up a very tough job.

What makes a good battalion, is the letter's theme. Wherein lies the secret of such a fighting team? "In the men themselves," is the obvious first part of the answer.

In the 1st Battalion, there is, for example, Capt. Logan E. Weston, now wounded, but lately commander of Able Company. When Able Company was attacked by a heavy force of night-infiltrating enemy infantry, Weston rallied his men. He rushed two enemy machine guns singlehanded and destroyed them with grenades. Although sorely hit, he continued to command the fight until ammunition ran short. Under heavy fire, he sought the ammunition bearer. Wounded again, he plunged back into the struggle. And only when the enemy fled at last, did he collapse from loss of blood.

Scores Of Others

Or there is Cpl. Arthur Prater, who got the Silver Star in the battalion's first action for carrying rations and water to a company that was cut off. Prater has bad feet, but prefers staying with the outfit to accepting a medical discharge. Or there is Acting Supply Sgt. Clurion Grigsby, who drove into the middle of an enemy armored column when he was bringing equipment from the rear. Grigsby seized a bazooka, leaped from his weapons carrier and got a North Korean tank at ten yards range.

Or there are many scores of others, in this small outfit of a few hundred, who are not so very different from those who have been named. At first, these men of the 1st Battalion impress you as individuals, some clever, some less clever, some mature, some incredibly young, but almost all lean, hard, good tempered and businesslike about their task of fighting. Then, as you listen to the talk among them, you are struck by the way that shared experience knits them together.

Of experience also, the 1st Battalion has had a generous helping in only six short weeks. On that first day on the Waegwan front, when Prater got his decoration, the battalion was attacked by no less than 2,000 enemy infantry, moving forward in columns behind six tanks. Baker Company's position was utterly overrun. The lead tank was halted almost at the entrance of the battalion command post.

But the battalion stood firm and shot it out until the North Koreans ran; then rapidly regrouped to meet a night attack on its flank and covered the rice paddies with North Korean dead. That, they tell you, was how the outfit was made.

Or there was the long reconnaissance in force, when the whole battalion drove into enemy territory for twenty-seven miles beyond Chindong, was cut off for twenty-four hours, and briskly fought its way back. That time, two tank drivers were killed. Volunteer replacements were called for. Two men who had once driven bulldozers stepped forward. And the tanks rumbled back into our lines with a cook and a medic at their wheels.

Good Leadership

Or there were a score of other skirmishes and actions each variously memorable, all matters of pride. Hearing these discussed, watching still another fight that would also be recalled, one gradually realized that there was yet one

Policy On Germany Will Affect Soviet Thinking

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 — The most ticklish subject in international relations today is whether or not to rearm Germany. The policy adopted by the Council of Foreign Ministers, now in session in New York, will have a more profound effect on Soviet thinking and strategy than anything that could happen in the Far East.

For the question of rearming Germany revives the age-old fears of the Russians concerning a strong standing army in Germany which could invade their territory. Fear of Germany was basic in the first alliance that Stalin made with Hitler in 1939 and fear of the restoration of German military power is probably to no small extent responsible for the buffer-state complex of the Soviets which has led to the infiltration of the Balkan countries immediately adjacent to Soviet Russia.

Military men here have speculated from time to time on the reasons why Moscow has been so anxious to control Eastern Germany as well as Poland and why she has felt that the governments of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria must be under Soviet control. A defense psychology is historically strong in Russian military planning.

Momentous Development Possible

For these reasons, the world may witness a momentous development when a policy is finally agreed upon by the United States, France and Great Britain with respect to German rearmament. It could be, on the one hand, a provocation to early military action by the Soviets in the event that they come to believe they must act now to overrun Europe before it is too late. It could, on the other hand, be the very leverage which would force an over-all agreement on world problems between the East and the West.

The North Atlantic Pact and the military assistance agreement are to the Russians mere blueprints that may never be effectively translated into standing armies. The rearming of Germany, however, is a concrete step. It could bring a climax in world affairs.

The French attitude toward rearming Germany has been negative because of the very same kind of fear that has been manifested by the Russians. Indeed, France and Russia were allies for many years because they had a common problem—fear of Germany's military power.

Many plans have been suggested as a compromise so as to take care of the apprehensions of the French. One plan calls for a German army which would be intergrated into an allied force and would have top-level commanders from the allied staff. This may be all right as a starter, but in the end it will be found that the morale of any army and its fighting spirit is more important that the uniforms or insignia allotted to them. Mercenary troops never do as well in combat as those who volunteer. It is patriotism and love of country which basically makes an army powerful.

Certain Independence Suggested

Unless the Germany army is given a certain independence and is permitted to feel that it is defending the people of Germany against Soviet attack and not just doing the bidding of foreign powers, no rearmament scheme will succeed. Conversely, if the old nazi generals are brought back and given positions of responsibility, this will antagonize various groups in Britain, France and America.

So the whole problem contains many delicate aspects and will have to be resolved on the basis of a calculated risk. The Soviet army today could march across Germany and into France without difficulty. Air power, which has been counted on to stay their progress, has not much chance to succeed without substantial forces of ground troops.

The allies will have to make up their minds soon whether to risk a rearmed Germany or a sovietized Germany. For if the Germans are unable to defend themselves, the Soviet armies will occupy the country and the allies will find themselves driven from all of the continent with the possible exception of Spain, where military men say the Pyrennes mountains would provide an effective barrier against invaders.

The real answer lies in what kind of government Germany is to have and whether the allies are going to nurture a real republican Germany and give it the moral and material support which they failed to give a similar effort on the part of Germany in the early 1920's. Ultimately the German people will have to be admitted into the family of nations.

There is no reason why the German nation cannot become a part of the free world, and anti-militaristic, too. But this will not happen if the German nation is to be treated indefinitely as a vassal or as a tool for somebody else's defense.

The time to face up to the German problem has arrived. It involves far more than rearmament on a military basis. It involves the rebuilding of Germany itself as a republic with the help and material support of the Western nations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The New York Manner

THE Democrats in New York State would have nominated James Farley to the governorship had he been willing to accept, but the genial Jim is not politicking that way. It is interesting that he had the courage to denounce the current method of balancing Catholic, Protestant and Jew on the tickets of both parties. He said outright that it was Un-American to play it that way. Nevertheless, that is the way it is being played.

The Democratic candidate, Walter Lynch, a member of the House of Representatives, is hardly known outside the Bronx. In fact, he is not too well-known, outside of political circles, even in the Bronx. That in no way infers that he is incapable of being governor of the largest state in the union; but it is likely to mitigate against his election.

Three factors make it difficult for him to achieve his ambitions:

1. Judge Albert Conway, a jurist of outstanding repute, who was to have been nominated, was thrown off the ticket by Louis Hollander, state head of the CIO, who accused Judge Conway of being anti-labor, anti-negro and just a niche above Robert A. Taft. The charges were false but effective.

In Democratic circles, the question arises: Who inspired Louis Hollander to make such charges about so reputable a man? Until that question is answered, many Democrats will vote against the candidate of the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. And as long as it is believed that Herbert Lehman was in on the deal, a great many Democrats will stay away from the polling booths.

2. As a member of Congress for 12 years, Lynch has been a faceless representative, voting strictly as a rubber stamp. Ordinarily, this would have stood him in good stead in a state where organization politics helps a candidate.

But the Korean war is raising many questions regarding national and international policies, and the new deal and the fair deal (why these are cited separately, I don't know) are not as popular as they used to be. There is much explaining to do, and Herbert Lehman's opposition to the McCarran Anti-Communist Bill will not get him the communist or left-wing vote.

3. Thomas E. Dewey has never been a popular man but he has always been respected for his competence, efficiency and integrity. The voters of the state are accustomed to what is generally called his "coldness," which sometimes gives the impression of egocentricity, but they like his achievements, his hard work and the decency of his administration, which compares favorably with much that happens in Washington as well as New York City.

Mr. Lynch will have difficulty in attacking that record. On the other hand, Lynch will be supported by the so-called Liberal party, which is a mildly socialist outfit managed by David Dubinsky and adequately financed. This group has, in the past, been able to poll about 400,000 votes. They may do better than that in this campaign because many who used to vote for the communists on the vehicle of the American Labor Party may vote the Liberal party as the easiest way to soothe their progressive consciences.

Nevertheless, at this stage, nobody doubts that Thomas E. Dewey will be re-elected as governor. Whether he will be able to carry Joe Hanley, his former lieutenant-governor, into the United States Senate against Herbert Lehman is not so certain.

Until a week before the Republican convention, Hanley was the candidate for governor and the Republicans expected to be defeated. He removed himself to make room for Thomas E. Dewey and was given the senatorial nomination. However, Lehman is a wonderful vote-gatherer by the New York device of playing the minorities. And there are a large number of minorities in New York and they all have votes. The very factors in Herbert Lehman's record which would damage him in other parts of the country, serve him well in this cosmopolitan state. So, he may win.

Against him is a weariness with what someone called "The Men of Yalta." It was this idea which eliminated Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Oscar Ewing. It is the idea that there has been something very wrong during the past 10 years and that men associated with power during that decade are not electable.

I should not be surprised if this becomes the issue of the 1950 campaign.

Mean What You Say And Say What You Mean

This year's congressional election is likely to be decided on the basis of what the American electorate thinks about the Korean War. Every politician realizes that this is true—that domestic issues will play a subordinate part—and the argument over who is to blame for what has already begun.

It will go on and on because it is inevitable and because almost any number of questions can be listed under the general heading.

Before it becomes too involved and too confused, however, there may be a chance to point out some lessons that the United States must learn in order to play this game of power politics in which it is involved on a global scale.

One of these lessons is that any nation taking a hand in this game needs to know what it wants and just how specific problems fit into the general framework of its policy. It must not try to do more than it can. And it must make its intentions clear. To say that its aim is peace and that it supports the United Nations is not enough to avert such situations as the one in Korea.

For the truth is that the average American did not realize that this country would fight to defend South Korea until the North Korean army had moved across the Thirty-eighth Parallel. Earlier this year, when the whole question of U. S. policy in the Far East was under hot discussion, Secretary Acheson said that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines were vital to U. S. security. The inference was that Formosa was not, and he did not mention Korea.

If Washington had known what it meant to do, preparations could have been made to stop the war quickly should it come. If there had been less vacillation in Washington, Russia might not have precipitated the attack. If the government knew its own mind, and failed to reveal it, that was as bad as not knowing its mind.

It is the business of the party in power to think these things through. But what Americans need to realize, whether they hold official positions or not, can be put in some well-worn words: The nation must learn to mean what it says, and to say what it means.

The Virus And The Ion

The advent of the atomic age and the rapid advance in radio and its related fields in the last few years have added some strange words to the reading vocabulary of the layman. He has learned to recognize such terms as electron, proton, neutron, ion, fission, fusion and confusion. The last named was already well known, but such a significant addition has been made lately that it is worth mentioning in any list of the terms of the atomic era.

Now some scientists have notions of fooling around with the ions and such in the human body. The medical sciences also have put some new words before the public in the last few years, and one of the most arresting of these is virus. We are told that viruses cause poliomyelitis, influenza, one kind of pneumonia, measles, mumps, and maybe the common cold. Prof. Theodore T. Puck, of the University of Colorado Medical Center, reports that he has discovered a relation between the activity of a virus and the behavior of ions, which are particles of matter carrying an electric charge. Certain kinds of ions are necessary to the attack of a virus on body cells, other kinds of ions can prevent it. This is only a fragmentary beginning, yet even by belittling it Puck suggests the idea that someday ions might be used to ward off virus diseases.

There is an immediate and sore temptation to tell the professor that he can mess around in his laboratory to his heart's content, but should leave our personal ions alone. But if he can find a way to guard us from a cold in the head, come January, he is more than welcome to our ions.

Still Punching

What has been happening in Korea for more than a week has provided a strong antidote to any easy optimism. A front that was supposed to have been stabilized has been shot through with holes by ferocious North Korean drives. An enemy who was supposed to have only one punch left has mustered the manpower and armor to mount the greatest offensive of the war and is now regrouping his forces for still another drive.

It is encouraging to find high-ranking U. S. officers in Korea and in Tokyo still showing guarded optimism about the ability of the American line to hold despite these latest reverses. They should be in the best position to know the facts of the situation.

But it is obvious that, though hostilities do not spread beyond Korea, the U. S. still has a long, hard and bloody fight ahead on that peninsula. After almost three months of fighting, U. S. forces still are on the defensive, and have all but run out of terrain. The North Koreans still have enough power to blast deep breaches in MacArthur's lines. U. S. forces need many more men and weapons before they can begin a counter-offensive.

There is also the constant danger that the Russians may start a war on another front while most of this nation's combat strength is tied up in Korea.

Rearming The Germans

The West German Federal Republic will not be an unarmed state much longer. Soon it will receive permission from the occupying powers to create and possess military strength. Just how this is to be done is still to be determined—but the decision to do it can be considered as made.

John J. McCloy, U. S. High Commissioner for Germany, has been in consultation with high government officials in Washington. McCloy has been stressing the danger inherent in the so-called police forces the Russians are building in East Germany. He has been urging steps to counter this threat.

Figures on the size of the East German forces vary somewhat. McCloy estimates there are 100,000 men in the "police" and perhaps 50,000 in the "alert" units now being trained in the use of heavy weapons. Some informed guesses are higher. But McCloy's figures are high enough to cause concern. They indicate that Russia has plans to make Germany into another Korea.

In the face of that potential peril, Allied policy toward Germany is undergoing rapid changes.

Some people seem to think they have a sound argument because they are noisy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Measles According To Schedule

MEASLES is on the rampage thruout several parts of the country. In Illinois, for example, in the first six months of this year, 14,964 cases were reported in contrast to a total of 5,820 cases in the entire year of 1949.

The malady is one of the most contagious of childhood diseases and statistics reveal that all except about three per cent of the population encounter it at some time in life. Apparently there is no natural immunity except in infants under six months of age. Babies acquire enough protection from their mothers to hold them over this period.

Measles often descends upon a community in epidemic proportions and in New York City, for example, this is likely to take place on the even years. In addition, the ailment is more prevalent in cold weather and, if it follows its usual course, reaches ebb tide in September. Transmission occurs through direct contact with any one who is ill. The air surrounding the victim is contagious, more so if the child has been coughing. The bedclothing and dishes also carry the virus but the organisms do not live long in the open air. As a result, it is virtually impossible for a third party to acquire the disease from one who has visited a patient in the hospital or the home across the street.

Symptoms vary considerably but in a case that is running true to form fever develops on the tenth day after exposure. This is the first sign of the malady and most mothers think the little one is coming down with a cold. Twelve hours later, the eyes become inflamed and irritated and 12 hours from then nasal catarrh appears. These are not necessarily clews that measles is in the making and at this stage there still is every reason to believe that a cold is responsible.

The physician, however, will look along the inside of the cheeks, opposite the first molars, for Koplik's spots: tiny light dots surrounded by small red inflamed halos. These lesions occur only in measles and develop from 36 to 48 hours ahead of the skin rash. All physicians look for them because, when discovered, the youngster can be isolated a day or two ahead of time. This means less contact for the child and fewer cases in the neighborhood.

The rash comes last and, when it arises on schedule, usually makes it debut 14 days after the initial exposure. The eruption begins on the face and frequently behind the ears and spreads in a downward direction; by the third day the entire body is covered. The lesions fade in the order of their appearance and, as a rule, are gone within five days.

When recovery begins, it often proceeds rapidly. A father may bid goodbye to his ailing son or daughter in the morning when he leaves for work; on his return home at dinnertime the tot virtually will be cured. The temperature drops, catarrh begins to clear up, the miserable feelings disappear, and appetite returns. The older the child, the better the outlook. For this reason, gamma globulin generally is reserved for younger members of the family. This serum may not prevent the disease but will lighten its course.

Tomorrow: Malnutrition in the midst of plenty.

HEMATURIA AFTER COLD

C. R. writes: On three occasions when I caught cold I have had blood in the urine. It appears at no other time. May I have your opinion?

REPLY

These are recurrent attacks of kidney infection, which have been precipitated by your colds. This situation is difficult to overcome unless you make every effort to prevent the development of respiratory infections. If a long enough interval elapses between colds, the kidney disorder may have an opportunity to clear up.

GOGGLES AND EYES

Mrs. G. B. writes: My 14 year old son likes swimming and deep diving. He wears water goggles and they must fit tight. Do you think they would affect his eyes in any way.

No, unless water seeps thru them. In the circumstances, the ensuing irritation may cause redness, burning, and tearing.

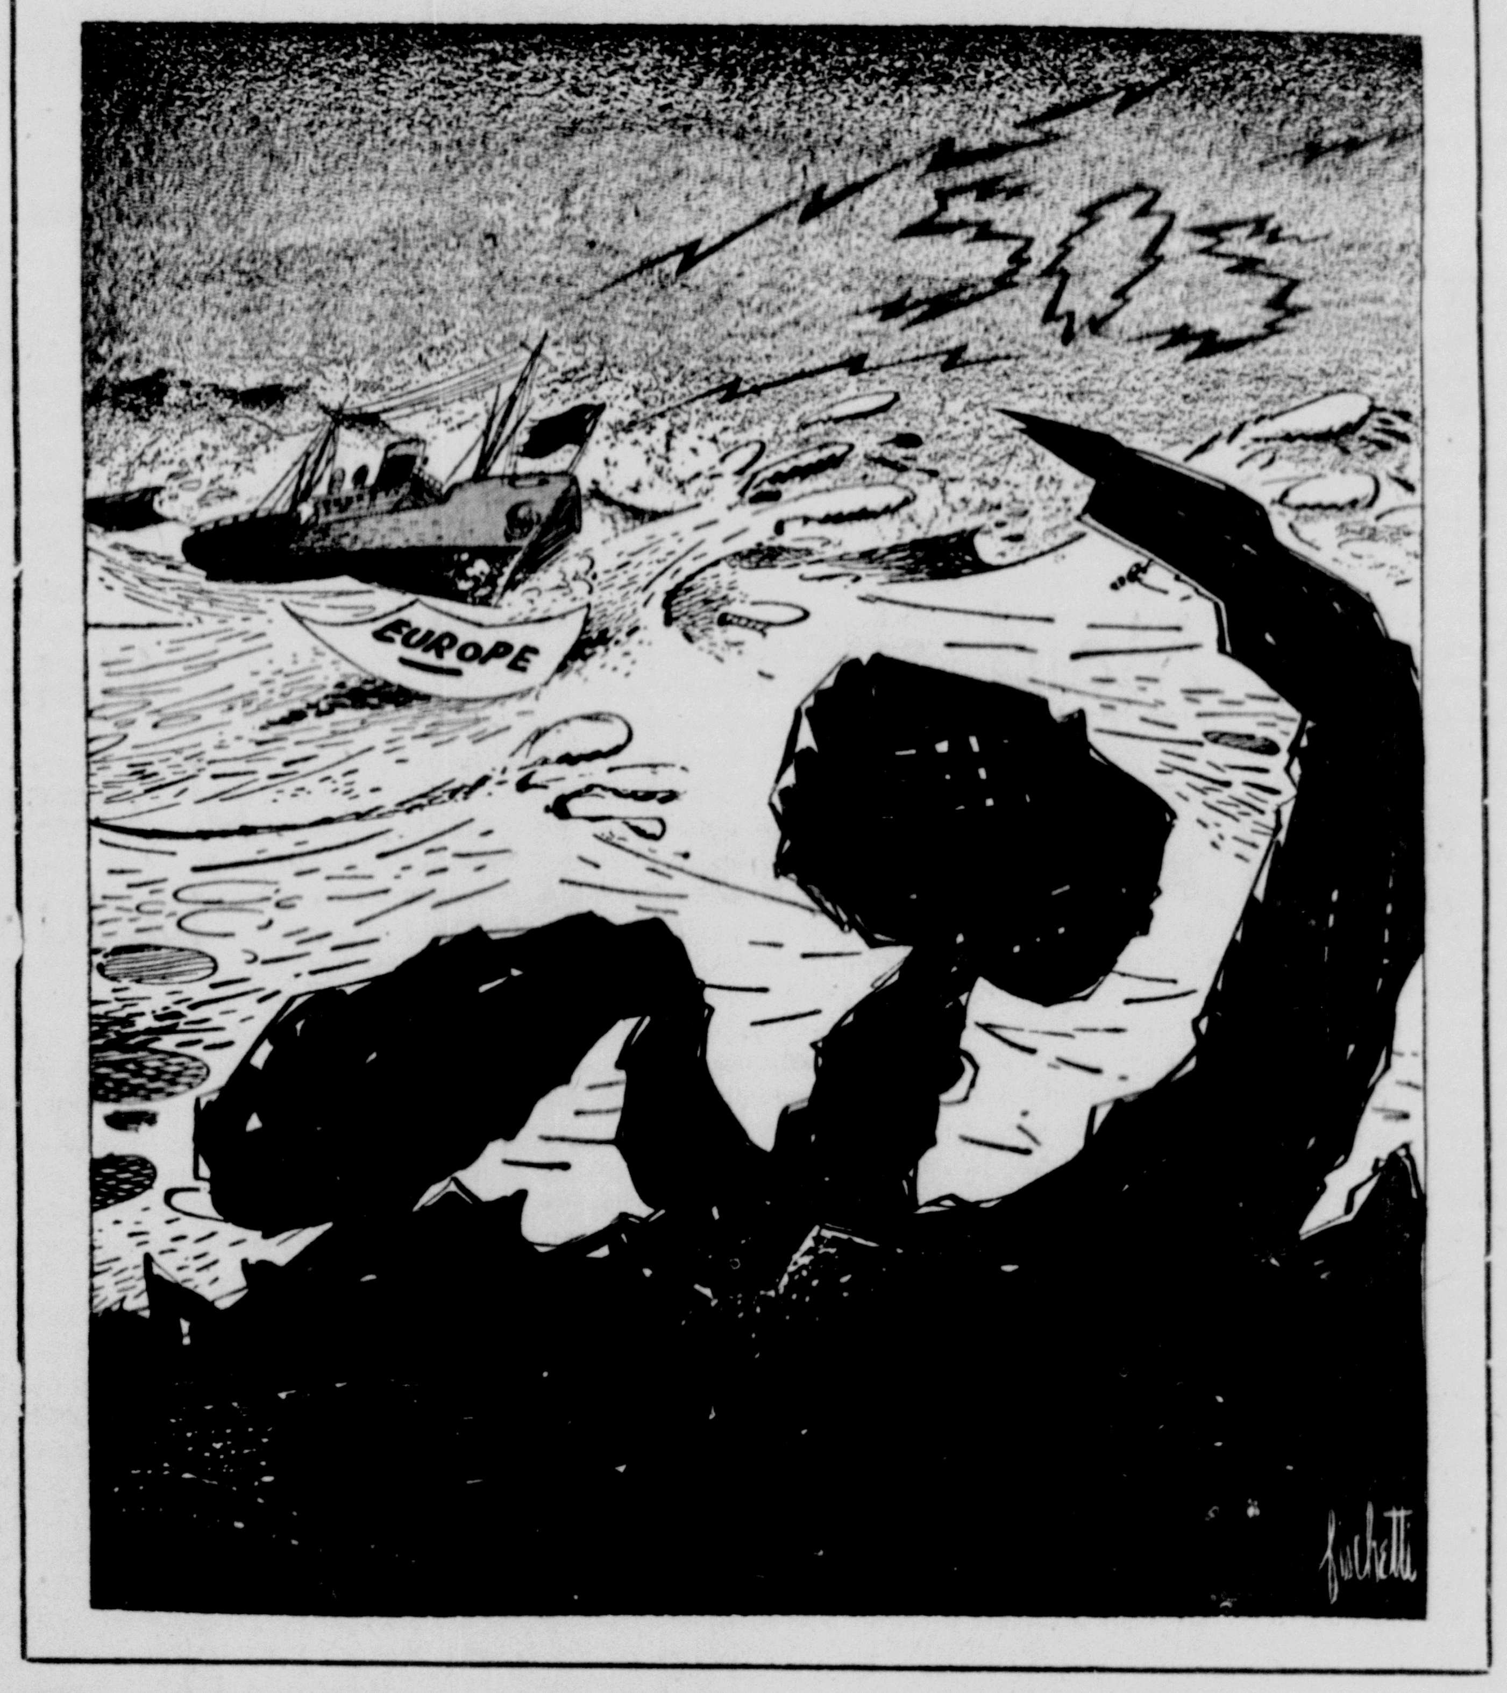
The truth is, I don't know but the sedative is not difficult to administer and I presume that any one of them could give it if the treatment is indicated.

TREACHEROUS REEF



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Sometimes the President's off-the-record remarks that never reach the papers are his best. Those present thought this was the case when Truman addressed the joint session of the AFL-CIO last week.

Speaking without notes and obviously straight from the heart, the President made a plea for tolerance in wartime.

To a considerable extent is was a historical speech. The President reviewed the different periods of hysteria which have gripped the country—the Alien and Sedition Act in the early days of the republic, the Know-Nothing party, and Ku Klux Klanism.

He pointed out that the Know-Nothing party had been anti-Mason. The Klan, he recalled, was first against the negro; then when revived in the 1920's, against the Jew and the Catholic.

These were evidences of intolerance which did not truly represent the American people, he said, and he was absolutely confident that the good judgment of the American people would always win out.

The President did not mention the Mundt-Nixon Bill or the McCarran Bill, but it was obvious he had them in mind. For he referred to Congressional witch-hunters who wave the American Flag while persecuting alien immigrants and trampling on the rights of loyal Americans.

"This is the raw material of totalitarianism," he said.

While fighting the intolerance of totalitarianism, he emphasized, we must not take on the methods of totalitarianism. Recalling that totalitarian regimes had persecuted labor unions, religious groups and fraternal organizations, he pointed out that under the Alien and Sedition Act, naturalized citizens hardly dared say anything in public about the government for fear of being thrown in jail, and this, he inferred, might also happen under the Mundt-Nixon and McCarran bills.

Free Lobbying Mail

There was at least one senator who, though agreeing with the political theories of lobbyist Edward Rumely and his committee for constitutional government, refused to euchre the publi out of extra money through abuse of the franking privilege. He is Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Some senators, however, including Dick Russell of Georgia, did not object to the idea of using their free mailing privilege to send lobbying propaganda for the ex-German agent through the mails.

Here are interesting notes from the letters of Homer Dodge, Washington representative, to his boss, Dr. Rumely, convicted of being an agent of the Kaiser in World War I:

"Senator Russell was very cordial and will frank the Richberg statement if necessary. He would rather not as he is up for election this year. He referred me to Senator Eastland (Mississippi) who also is up for election but who does not expect any labor votes and does not need any. I sincerely hope we can find a new senator in Mr. Eastland who will cooperate on extensions and franking, as in an election year especially, so many members of both houses appear to be terrified of charges of misuse of privileges.

"Senator Byrd surprised me by saying there is a law against sending franked envelopes out of Washington and he will not disregard it. He mentioned what he called difficulty with the misuse of the frank by former Senator Burke. The matter of the Richberg extension is now back in Senator Eastland's hands and he is to discuss it further with Senator Russell. All three, including Byrd, think the address will be widely circulated. I rather think Senator Russell will be the one who will agree in the end."

He Told It To the Marines

Most people don't know it, but when President Truman ousted Adm. Louis Denfeld as Chief of Naval Operations last year, he also planned to oust Gen. Clifton Cates as commandant of the Marine Corps.

Cates was a strong ally of Denfeld in the B-36 row between the Navy and the Air Force. However, public reaction to Denfeld's ouster was so hot that the President changed his mind about relieving General Cates.

Net result was that no love was lost between Mr. Truman and the Marine Corps commander; so that the President—who has a long memory for those who ever cross him—was not anxious to eat crow last week.

When General Cates was called to the White House, therefore, he got a formal though polite greeting. Speaking a little stiffly, the Commander-in-Chief told the Marine Corps commander that he was making a public apology to the Marines "for the good of the country" and the war effort. He added that he had been too hasty and his words were too strong.

However, he felt that there were some grounds for his reference to the Marines' propaganda activities. As an instance, he cited the terrific pressure he was getting to give the Marines a voice on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

NOTE — General Cates, himself, has not been averse to this pressure. If the Marines were made part of the Joint of Chiefs of Staff, he would become the Marine Corps representative on it.

Slapping a Good Neighbor

Last spring flags along Constitution Avenue read "Welcome Gonzalez Videla!" as the President of Chile paid an official visit to the U.S.A. A good part of Washington turned out, plus President Truman and all the Cabinet to greet the head of the neighbor nation which had banned communism and was considered one of the best democratic friends of the United States.

President Videla did not ask for anything when he came to Washington. He did not need to. For the State Department has long known that what Chile wants most is to have our 2 cents per pound excise tax on copper held in abeyance.

All during the war, because we needed copper badly, this tax was held in abeyance, since what it actually amounted to was a penalty against the American people and the U.S. Army-Navy.

Shortly after President Videla had gone back to Chile, however, Congress literally slapped him in the face by restoring the tax against copper. Reverberations from below the Rio Grande were painful and quite serious.

Since then the House of Representatives has voted to suspend the tax; but, despite repeated urging by President Truman, the Senate has not.

A handful of Rocky Mountain senators from copper areas is the reason why. Senators Hayden and McFarland of Arizona, where the Phelps Dodge copper mines are located, have led this bloc, and so far have been successful in stymieing about 80 other senators, plus the House of Representatives. Most interesting of all, however, is the fact that Sen. Tom Connally, who has made speech after speech championing the good neighbor policy, in this case has voted the other way.

NOTE—Unfortunate fact is that Latin Americans who don't understand the intricacies of our legislative system and think that Truman should be able to control Congress, consider the copper tax a slapdown by the entire United States.

MATTER OF FACT

Farewell To The Battalion

TOKYO.

ONE of the odder rules of war seems to be that all the good people are at the front and all the odious people are at higher headquarters. Besides the gratitude of the civilian to the fighting man, the observer also feels curiously grateful to the men in the lines for their unvarying hospitality. On leaving Korea for a few days, this reporter therefore proposes to write a sort of bread and butter letter to the members of the 1st Battalion of the 27th Infantry Regiment, who were his hosts for some time when they were brilliantly winding up a very tough job.

What makes a good battalion, is the letter's theme. Wherein lies the secret of such a fighting team? "In the men themselves," is the obvious first part of the answer.

In the 1st Battalion, there is, for example, Capt. Logan E. Weston, now wounded, but lately commander of Able Company. When Able Company was attacked by a heavy force of night-infiltrating enemy infantry, Weston rallied his men. He rushed two enemy machine guns single-handed and destroyed them with grenades. Although sorely hit, he continued to command the fight until ammunition ran short. Under heavy fire, he sought the ammunition bearer. Wounded again, he plunged back into the struggle. And only when the enemy fled at last, did he collapse from loss of blood.

Scores Of Others

Or there is Cpl. Arthur Prater, who got the Silver Star in the battalion's first action for carrying rations and water to a company that was cut off. Prater has bad feet, but prefers staying with the outfit to accepting a medical discharge. Or there is Acting Supply Sgt. Clurion Grigsby, who drove into the middle of an enemy armored column when he was bringing equipment from the rear. Grigsby seized a bazooka, leaped from his weapons carrier and got a North Korean tank at ten yards range.

Or there are many scores of others, in this small outfit of a few hundred, who are not so very different from those who have been named. At first, these men of the 1st Battalion impress you as individuals, some clever, some less clever, some mature, some incredibly young, but almost all lean, hard, good tempered and businesslike about their task of fighting. Then, as you listen to the talk among them, you are struck by the way that shared experience knits them together.

Of experience also, the 1st Battalion has had a generous helping in only six short weeks. On that first day on the Waegwan front, when Prater got his decoration, the battalion was attacked by no less than 2,000 enemy infantry, moving forward in columns behind six tanks. Baker Company's position was utterly overrun. The lead tank was halted almost at the entrance of the battalion command post.

But the battalion stood firm and shot it out until the North Koreans ran; then rapidly regrouped to meet a night attack on its flank and covered the rice paddies with North Korean dead. That, they tell you, was how the outfit was made.

Or there was the long reconnaissance in force, when the whole battalion drove into enemy territory for twenty-seven miles beyond Chindong, was cut off for twenty-four hours, and briskly fought its way back. That time, two tank drivers were killed. Volunteer replacements were called for. Two men who had once driven bulldozers stepped forward. And the tanks rumbled back into our lines with a cook and a medic at their wheels.

Good Leadership

Or there were a score of other skirmishes and actions each variously memorable, all matters of pride. Hearing these discussed, watching still another fight that would also be recalled, one gradually realized that there was yet one

Policy On Germany Will Affect Soviet Thinking

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 — The most ticklish subject in international relations today is whether or not to rearm Germany. The policy adopted by the Council of Foreign Ministers, now in session in New York, will have a more profound effect on Soviet thinking and strategy than anything that could happen in the Far East.

For the question of rearming Germany revives the age-old fears of the Russians concerning a strong standing army in Germany which could invade their territory. Fear of Germany was basic in the first alliance that Stalin made with Hitler in 1939 and fear of the restoration of German military power is probably to no small extent responsible for the buffer-state complex of the Soviets which has led to the infiltration of the Balkan countries immediately adjacent to Soviet Russia.

Military men here have speculated from time to time on the reasons why Moscow has been so anxious to control Eastern Germany as well as Poland and why she has felt that the governments of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria must be under Soviet control. A defense psychology is historically strong in Russian military planning.

Momentous Development Possible

For these reasons, the world may witness a momentous development when a policy is finally agreed upon by the United States, France and Great Britain with respect to German rearmament. It could be, on the one hand, a provocation to early military action by the Soviets in the event that they come to believe they must act now to overrun Europe before it is too late. It could, on the other hand, be the very leverage which would force an over-all agreement on world problems between the East and the West.

The North Atlantic Pact and the military assistance agreement are to the Russians mere blueprints that may never be effectively translated into standing armies. The rearming of Germany, however, is a concrete step. It could bring a climax in world affairs.

The French attitude toward rearming Germany has been negative because of the very same kind of fear that has been manifested by the Russians. Indeed, France and Russia were allies for many years because they had a common problem—fear of Germany's military power.

Many plans have been suggested as a compromise so as to take care of the apprehensions of the French. One plan calls for a German army which would be intergrated into an allied force and would have top-level commanders from the allied staff. This may be all right as a starter, but in the end it will be found that the morale of any army and its fighting spirit is more important that the uniforms or insignia allotted to them. Mercenary troops never do as well in combat as those who volunteer. It is patriotism and love of country which basically makes an army powerful.

Certain Independence Suggested

Unless the Germany army is given a certain independence and is permitted to feel that it is defending the people of Germany against Soviet attack and not just doing the bidding of foreign powers, no rearmament scheme will succeed. Conversely, if the old nazi generals are brought back and given positions of responsibility, this will antagonize various groups in Britain, France and America.

So the whole problem contains many delicate aspects and will have to be resolved on the basis of a calculated risk. The Soviet army today could march across Germany and into France without difficulty. Air power, which has been counted on to stay their progress, has not much chance to succeed without substantial forces of ground troops.

The allies will have to make up their minds soon whether to risk a rearmed Germany or a sovietized Germany. For if the Germans are unable to defend themselves, the Soviet armies will occupy the country and the allies will find themselves driven from all of the continent with the possible exception of Spain, where military men say the Pyrennes mountains would provide an effective barrier against invaders.

The real answer lies in what kind of government Germany is to have and whether the allies are going to nurture a real republican Germany and give it the moral and material support which they failed to give a similar effort on the part of Germany in the early 1920's. Ultimately the German people will have to be admitted into the family of nations.

There is no reason why the German nation cannot become a part of the free world, and anti-militaristic, too. But this will not happen if the German nation is to be treated indefinitely as a vassal or as a tool for somebody else's defense.

The time to face up to the German problem has arrived. It involves far more than rearmament on a military basis. It involves the rebuilding of Germany itself as a republic with the help and material support of the Western nations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The New York Manner

THE Democrats in New York State would have nominated James Farley to the governorship had he been willing to accept, but the genial Jim is not politicking that way. It is interesting that he had the courage to denounce the current method of balancing Catholic, Protestant and Jew on the tickets of both parties. He said outright that it was Un-American to play it that way. Nevertheless, that is the way it is being played.

The Democratic candidate, Walter Lynch, a member of the House of Representatives, is hardly known outside the Bronx. In fact, he is not too well-known, outside of political circles, even in the Bronx. That in no way infers that he is incapable of being governor of the largest state in the union; but it is likely to mitigate against his election.

Three factors make it difficult for him to achieve his ambitions:

1. Judge Albert Conway, a jurist of outstanding repute, who was to have been nominated, was thrown off the ticket by Louis Hollander, state head of the CIO, who accused Judge Conway of being anti-labor, anti-negro and just a niche above Robert A. Taft. The charges were false but effective.

In Democratic circles, the question arises: Who inspired Louis Hollander to make such charges about so reputable a man? Until that question is answered, many Democrats will vote against the candidate of the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. And as long as it is believed that Herbert Lehman was in on the deal, a great many Democrats will stay away from the polling booths.

2. As a member of Congress for 12 years, Lynch has been a faceless representative, voting strictly as a rubber stamp. Ordinarily, this would have stood him in good stead in a state where organization politics helps a candidate.

But the Korean war is raising many questions regarding national and international policies, and the new deal and the fair deal (why these are cited separately, I don't know) are not as popular as they used to be. There is much explaining to do, and Herbert Lehman's opposition to the McCarran Anti-Communist Bill will not get him the communist or left-wing vote.

3. Thomas E. Dewey has never been a popular man but he has always been respected for his competence, efficiency and integrity. The voters of the state are accustomed to what is generally called his "coldness," which sometimes gives the impression of egocentricity, but they like his achievements, his hard work and the decency of his administration, which compares favorably with much that happens in Washington as well as New York City.

Mr. Lynch will have difficulty in attacking that record. On the other hand, Lynch will be supported by the so-called Liberal party, which is a mildly socialist outfit managed by David Dubinsky and adequately financed. This group has, in the past, been able to poll about 400,000 votes. They may do better than that in this campaign because many who used to vote for the communists on the vehicle of the American Labor Party may vote the Liberal party as the easiest way to soothe their progressive consciences.

Nevertheless, at this stage, nobody doubts that Thomas E. Dewey will be re-elected as governor. Whether he will be able to carry Joe Hanley, his former lieutenant-governor, into the United States Senate against Herbert Lehman is not so certain.

Until a week before the Republican convention, Hanley was the candidate for governor and the Republicans expected to be defeated. He removed himself to make room for Thomas E. Dewey and was given the senatorial nomination. However, Lehman is a wonderful vote-gatherer by the New York device of playing the minorities. And there are a large number of minorities in New York and they all have votes. The very factors in Herbert Lehman's record which would damage him in other parts of the country, serve him well in this cosmopolitan state. So, he may win.

Against him is a weariness with what someone called "The Men of Yalta." It was this idea which eliminated Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Oscar Ewing. It is the idea that there has been something very wrong during the past 10 years and that men associated with power during that decade are not electable.

I should not be surprised if this becomes the issue of the 1950 campaign.

Williams Road Contract To Go To Local Firm

The contract for rebuilding one mile of Williams Road was awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Commissioner James Holmes made the motion to accept the low bid of $166,799.40 and it was seconded by Commissioner William H. Lemmert, acting chairman in the absence of Board President Charles N. Wilkinson.

The other bid on the project was $172,273.85, submitted by the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company, this city.

In a letter from the State Roads Commission, Morris M. Brodsky, assistant comptroller, advised the board to accept the low bid, although it was over $20,000 higher than the state's estimate. He pointed out that the increase was due to the rising costs of labor and materials.

This project, the commissioners pointed out, is the last of the federal aid road projects under which the county can participate.

Under the program, Commissioner Lemmert stated, the federal government contributes a sizeable amount of the funds.

In the two other Federal aid projects in which the county has participated, Mill Run Road and Lower Town Creek Road, the overall cost was $134,781.03.

Of this amount, the county has contributed slightly over $60,000. "To go ahead with the Williams Road job," Lemmert said, "is good business as far as the taxpayer is concerned."

The county will be required to pay an additional $22,896.84, plus the cost of the survey, on the Williams Road job.

Commissioners Holmes and Lemmert explained that when the county receives its share of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle funds from the state, which amounted to over $42,000 this year, it can apply the money to the cost of the project, which will not be completed until after next July.

Commissioner Holmes declared that the county is doing well to participate in this final project, as the cost of constructing roads will undoubtedly be higher in the future.

The job will eliminate a dangerous curve in addition to widening the narrow road.

Junk Dealer To Be Prosecuted

Immediate legal action against Leon Glessner, the operator of a Wright's Crossing junk yard near Frostburg, was voted yesterday by the County Commissioners for failure of Glessner to comply with the state law governing business of that type.

Glessner appeared before the County Commissioners in April and informed them that he would house his junk after residents complained, Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes announced.

The building was to be erected in 60 days. On June 1 at the end of the deadline, the commissioners pointed out, the building had been constructed, but he had not appeared to apply for a permit.

A new state law passed to cover four counties, including Allegany, requires that any one operating a junk yard within 500 feet of a residence, must house the materials and get a permit from the county commissioners.

Commissioners Holmes and Lemmert said Glessner has had since June 1 to appear before the board, and has failed to do so.

Upon contacting his attorney, Clarence Lippel, the board learned that Glessner was reported to have been sick and unable to appear.

County Attorney Gorman Getty and the two commissioners, all of whom live in the George's Creek section, said they have seen Glessner sitting in front of his place.

more ingredient in this puzzling entity, the 1st Battalion. And this ingredient of course was good leadership.

From the wiry, unpretentious little battalion commander, Lt. Col. G. J. Check, down to Baker Company's massive, fatherly 1st Sgt. George S. Hearn, the 1st Battalion's leaders sedulously avoid any appearance of panache, preferring a good salty joke to any military heroics. But by the hard, poorly rewarded, unremitting work of these men, the battalion's companies organize each new position as though by instinct; the rifle platoons flinch from no shadows but are always ready, day and night; the tank crews and the mortars cooly aim their fire, whether the battle goes well or ill; the bazooka teams, lonely in their forward foxholes, keep vigil until the time comes for their task. By leadership and training, with courage and experience, the battalion does its job.

Such then is the 1st Battalion, no assemblage of saints and when on occupation duty rather notoriously the opposite, but a fighting team that will go forward without counting costs; will hold an exposed position against heavy odds; will uncomplainingly endure great hardships; will see its own men fall and quietly close the ranks. Many have fallen. When this reporter watched the blanket covered litters being brought down the mountainside, he found himself recalling Simonides' great epitaph on the Spartans at Thermopylae. It was inscribed on the mounment erected in the pass by the Lacedaemonian state. The dead speak:

> "Go stranger and in Lacedaemon tell
> "That here, obedient to the laws, we fell."

But these men were not Spartans, drilled, beautiful and unthinking. They were Americans, fighting not for iron laws, but for a good life and a good society. And if perchance the good life and the good society survive in this now-darkening world, it will be to such men as these, simple, perhaps, inarticulate perhaps, but bold, tough, ingenious and free, that the great debt will be owed.

Williams Road Contract To Go To Local Firm

The contract for rebuilding one mile of Williams Road was awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Commissioner James Holmes made the motion to accept the low bid of $166,799.40 and it was seconded by Commissioner William H. Lemmert, acting chairman in the absence of Board President Charles N. Wilkinson.

The other bid on the project was $172,273.85, submitted by the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company, this city.

In a letter from the State Roads Commission, Morris M. Brodsky, assistant comptroller, advised the board to accept the low bid, although it was over $20,000 higher than the state's estimate. He pointed out that the increase was due to the rising costs of labor and materials.

This project, the commissioners pointed out, is the last of the federal aid road projects under which the county can participate.

Under the program, Commissioner Lemmert stated, the federal government contributes a sizeable amount of the funds.

In the two other Federal aid projects in which the county has participated, Mill Run Road and Lower Town Creek Road, the overall cost was $134,781.03.

Of this amount, the county has contributed slightly over $60,000. "To go ahead with the Williams Road job," Lemmert said, "is good business as far as the taxpayer is concerned."

The county will be required to pay an additional $22,896.84, plus the cost of the survey, on the Williams Road job.

Commissioners Holmes and Lemmert explained that when the county receives its share of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle funds from the state, which amounted to over $42,000 this year, it can apply the money to the cost of the project, which will not be completed until after next July.

Commissioner Holmes declared that the county is doing well to participate in this final project, as the cost of constructing roads will undoubtedly be higher in the future.

The job will eliminate a dangerous curve in addition to widening the narrow road.

Marshall's Call To Defense Post Is Second Emergency Since War

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—The selection of Gen. George C. Marshall as Secretary of Defense is the soldier-statesman's second emergency call to high office since he sought retirement and rest after helping hammer out the victory of World War II.

And the assignment would put the civilian high command in the hands of a man who has been combating communist aggression one way or another almost since the day he laid aside his Army uniform.

The 69-year-old General of the Army, Chief of Staff in the last war, was first called out of retirement to serve as Presidential envoy to China, trying to work out a settlement of the political crisis which finally has brought nearly all the huge Oriental nation under Red domination.

He moved from that assignment to the office of Secretary of State where he had much the same job of heading off communist encroachment, on a world-wide scale.

Ill health forced him out of the latter post and since his recovery after a serious operation his "rest" has consisted of supervising, as chairman, the tremendous activities of the American Red Cross.

Quiet, soft-spoken and modest, Marshall has a friend and backer in almost every top level official and leading Congress member in Washington.

One of the most enthusiastic of these is President Truman, who has paid him high tribute for every public task he has performed in the war and since.

The President ranked him "at the head of the great commanders of history for his services in the preparations for and execution of World War II campaigns.

In reluctantly releasing him from the office of Secretary of State, Mr. Truman described Marshall as virtually an "indispensable man" and told reporters he was "the outstanding man of the war period."

One of the achievements of Marshall's administration as Secretary of State was the multi-billion dollar Marshall Plan for European Recovery, still going on. He first broached the idea in an address at Harvard University in 1947, shortly after his appointment to the Cabinet.

That program, under the Economic Cooperation Administration, has become the central framework of democratic effort in the "cold war" now turned hot in Korea and threatening to burst into flame elsewhere.

He is credited with being one of the original advocates, if not the actual author, of the North Atlantic Pact in which the western world is being organized for defense against communist threat.

Throughout his two years as Secretary of State, Marshall carried on and reinforced the "patient but firm" policy which his predecessor, James F. Byrnes had applied to Russia.

He spoke out often against Russia's hostile attitude and "brazen" propaganda, describing them as the main obstacles to peace.

He urged repeatedly that this country must have the military strength to put muscle into its diplomacy. For example he told the Senate Armed Services committee in 1948:

"Diplomatic action, without the backing of military strength in the present world, can lead only to appeasement."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—The selection of Gen. George C. Marshall as Secretary of Defense is the soldier-statesman's second emergency call to high office since he sought retirement and rest after helping hammer out the victory of World War II.

And the assignment would put the civilian high command in the hands of a man who has been combating communist aggression one way or another almost since the day he laid aside his Army uniform.

The 69-year-old General of the Army, Chief of Staff in the last war, was first called out of retirement to serve as Presidential envoy to China, trying to work out a settlement of the political crisis which finally has brought nearly all the huge Oriental nation under Red domination.

He moved from that assignment to the office of Secretary of State where he had much the same job of heading off communist encroachment, on a world-wide scale.

Ill health forced him out of the latter post and since his recovery after a serious operation his "rest" has consisted of supervising, as chairman, the tremendous activities of the American Red Cross.

Quiet, soft-spoken and modest, Marshall has a friend and backer in almost every top level official and leading Congress member in Washington.

One of the most enthusiastic of these is President Truman, who has paid him high tribute for every public task he has performed in the war and since.

The President ranked him "at the head of the great commanders of history for his services in the preparations for and execution of World War II campaigns.

In reluctantly releasing him from the office of Secretary of State, Mr. Truman described Marshall as virtually an "indispensable man" and told reporters he was "the outstanding man of the war period."

One of the achievements of Marshall's administration as Secretary of State was the multi-billion dollar Marshall Plan for European Recovery, still going on. He first broached the idea in an address at Harvard University in 1947, shortly after his appointment to the Cabinet.

That program, under the Economic Cooperation Administration, has become the central framework of democratic effort in the "cold war" now turned hot in Korea and threatening to burst into flame elsewhere.

He is credited with being one of the original advocates, if not the actual author, of the North Atlantic Pact in which the western world is being organized for defense against communist threat.

Throughout his two years as Secretary of State, Marshall carried on and reinforced the "patient but firm" policy which his predecessor, James F. Byrnes had applied to Russia.

He spoke out often against Russia's hostile attitude and "brazen" propaganda, describing them as the main obstacles to peace.

He urged repeatedly that this country must have the military strength to put muscle into its diplomacy. For example he told the Senate Armed Services committee in 1948:

"Diplomatic action, without the backing of military strength in the present world, can lead only to appeasement."

Time Capsule Is Buried In Mass. To Inform World In Year 2050

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. — (AP — I came here to gaze into my crystal ball and tell New Bedford what the world will be like one hundred years from now.

The occasion was the burial on New Bedford Common of a time capsule, the second of its kind. The first lies fifty feet deep beneath the New York World's Fair site, to be dug up in five thousand years—6940. Today's comes up in 2050, one hundred years from now.

The capsule is part of a week long celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the New Bedford Standard-Times. Among the contents is a two hundred and twenty page anniversary edition, weighing tow and a half pounds. This edition is an example of everything in the news, from Truman's talk to the nation to the last major league scores. There is art, drama, music, history, politics, foreign news, obituaries, finance and photography. There are more than two dozen documents recording 1950 activities.

There are samples of breakfast foods. Dried milk, dried potatoes and powedered coffee. There is a Bible but no whiskey.

The capsule is a copper cylinder, made by a descendant of Paul Revere. It is two and a half feet long, eight inches wide.

In 2050, American cities will have atomic power plants underground, beneath beautiful landscaping. There will be no dust, smoke, fumes or smells.

The threat of bombs will slowly change the architecture and layout of American cities. The cities will either stretch out like long matches or will be shaped like stars. The arms of the stars will be long, and slender and well separated from each other. Fast highways will parallel the strips, both above and below ground. Business, shopping and industry will be spotted at safe intervals along these highway cities.

By two thousand fifty, the airways will have made neighbors of much of the world's inhabitants.

Men then will be venturing into the strange region outside the [illegible] atmosphere, where the sun's rays are dangerous, where dust [illegible] enough to bore holes in steel and bodies lose all their earthly weight. These ships will be pioneering for flights to the moon and the planets Venus and Mars.

The great change in housing will be in comfort and in power units. The sun will do most of the winter warming, and in hot weather will be used in reverse for cooling. The power units, robot machines, will give the average family the equivalent of half a dozen servants.

A legal document gives custody of the capsule to the First National Bank of New Bedford, to a citizens committee who arranged the celebration and to the Standard-Times. They or their heirs are directed to reopen the capsule on Sept. 12, 2050.

Basil Brewer, publisher of the Standard-Times, paid tribute to the power in the thoughts of men and to that power's use in newspapers.

"Here indeed," he said, "is a lever which can move the world. This is the press."

The people of twenty fifty will be no more different from us than we are different from our grandparents.

We will like steaks, 'pretzels and drinks and mom's pies the same as now, even though we may be able to supplement our meals with pastes and crackers made from proteins, fats and sugars that will grow continuously outdoors.

THAT VERY FIRST FACIAL BLEMISH IS THE ONE FOR TEENAGERS TO WATCH; INVESTIGATE, DON'T WAIT

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

That first facial blemish is the one for teen-agers to watch. If you wait until your skin is covered with pimples and blackheads to investigate the reason for the outbreak, it will be much more difficult to get at the source. Furthermore, it will take more will power to stick to treatments.

The day you notice the first blemish or two, particularly if they look angry, red or swollen, sit down and take an inventory of your general health, diet and sleeping habit.

Many things cause skin blemishes. A schoolgirl's first allowance used for candies and sweets can do harm. The diet goes berserk. There are sessions at the sweet shop, spaghetti restaurant and chili parlor. Sometimes a girl will drink ten or more soda pops in one evening, a sudden challenge of sweets to her digestion.

As soon as blemishes appear, cut down on sweets, starches and gravies as a test. Drink more water and fruit juices. Eat more green vegetables.

Make sure you are getting enough exercise to work off the amount of sugar you are consuming. Whenever you can make a choice between riding and walking, be sure to walk. Instead of taking a bus or other transportation to classes, walk for its beneficial effects.

Young skins shouldn't be loaded down with makeup. In particular, it shouldn't be slathered over pimples and blackheads. You'll make your skin worse by adding grease and paste to overburdened skin cells.

Cleanliness is the first rule for a disturbed skin. Use soap and water lavishly and make sure that wash cloth and towel are spotless. Equip yourself with little cotton balls or cotton squares which can be used once and thrown away.

There are special cleansing preparations, such as a powdery meal which is mixed with water to make a thin paste and applied to the skin to help banish surface blackheads and flake off dull, discolored skin. This mixture dries on the skin and is flaked off with a dry washcloth. Your face can then be washed with cotton dipped in water. A cleanser such as this can be used once a week to supplement your daily soap and water scrubbing.

If you follow the rule of cleanliness, get adequate sleep, avoid emotional upsets and watch your diet, you should be able to maintain a fresh, babysoft complexion.

Never squeeze a pimple or blackhead. Besides the possibility of infection in the blemished area, you might enlarge the pores and spread the infection, causing a lifetime of skin problems. If your skin shows a number of angry looking pimples, it is best to get medical advice at once.

By MORTON DOWNEY

WHILE I was reading Edward, the Duke of Windsor's memoirs recently, I put down the magazine when I came to the part about the party Clarence Mackey gave for him when he was touring the country as Prince of Wales and slipped into my own reverie. That was the first big party I ever sang at, a memorable night for a country boy from Wallingford, Connecticut, who'd spend his time, hitherto, appearing at lodge smokers.

MORTON DOWNEY

I was with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and we drove out to the Mackey Long Island estate. I remember the long driveway up to the huge French Chateau. Every tree was lighted with Japanese lanterns and the driveway was marked with lights under glass: red, blue, yellow, green. It was the biggest house I'd ever seen. It looked as though it had 1,000 rooms.

We were shown to a balcony above the entrance hall, where the ball was to take place. It was the size of an armory and the walls were covered with suits of armor and medieval instruments of war. It was a room where seven or eight hundred persons could dance with ease. There were 1,000 guests that night.

Outdoors there were masses of searchlights, secret service men and the royal detail of Scotland Yard protectors. One of them told me that even though this dynamic prince didn't let them get much sleep they loved to be with him. His friendly interest in them and their families got them.

●—●—●

I remember the formal garden, which must have been more than an acre in size, was centered with the Prince of Wales coat-of-arms, fashioned in fresh cut flowers. Being of Irish descent I thought what a remarkable thing it was that Mr. Mackey, albeit a wealthy man and head of Potsal Telegraph, was entertaining the heir of the throne of Britain. His father had come from Ireland, supposedly with a price on his head for being a rebel!

The next time I saw the Prince I was singing at the Cafe de Paris in London. The Prince came in and the English proprietor cautioned us how to act in front of his highness: "Don't stop the music while he is dancing. If he speaks, don't put out your hand until he does. Don't sit down until he does." etc. etc. etc.

At the end of my first show he asked me over to the table. Without thinking I put out my hand, he gave me a strong handshake, asked me to sit down and ordered coffee for me. As I sat there sipping the coffee, a guy I had never seen before in my life and needless to say with a beautiful head of steam aboard, came up behind me, gave me a crack on the back that dashed the coffee all over the table and boomed: "Hi ya, Morty! I just made a bet with my friends over here that you'd introduce me to your pal, the Prince."

My first thought was: "I'll be kicked out of England." The Prince smiled and asked: "How much did you bet?" He answered: "Fifty dollars." The Prince said: "Well, we couldn't have you lose ten pounds in England." And poured him a glass of wine. Before my unbelieving eyes he picked up the drink, raised the glass and hollered the length of the room to his party: "Bottoms up, what did I tell ya?"

I suppose my regard for the Duke dates from episodes like that. I've always thought he was quite a guy. As I read his account of his abdication from the throne of England I remember that sad day in London.

I was just finishing a singing engagement there that had lasted several months and all the way home I thought about this man's plight.

I think if he'd had a good old-fashioned Tammany politician advising him there never would have been any "crisis" and he would still be King Edward VIII.

He sure had it within his power to stay on the throne, for the masses of the people idolized him and apparently would gladly accept the lovely Mrs. Simpson or anyone of his choice. But then probably he was just proving he was a King, by being big enough to prevent the slightest "split" among the people of his Empire even though the sacrifice was the throne—for a woman he really loved.

THAT VERY FIRST FACIAL BLEMISH IS THE ONE FOR TEENAGERS TO WATCH; INVESTIGATE, DON'T WAIT

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

That first facial blemish is the one for teen-agers to watch. If you wait until your skin is covered with pimples and blackheads to investigate the reason for the outbreak, it will be much more difficult to get at the source. Furthermore, it will take more will power to stick to treatments.

The day you notice the first blemish or two, particularly if they look angry, red or swollen, sit down and take an inventory of your general health, diet and sleeping habit.

Many things cause skin blemishes. A schoolgirl's first allowance used for candies and sweets can do harm. The diet goes berserk. There are sessions at the sweet shop, spaghetti restaurant and chili parlor. Sometimes a girl will drink ten or more soda pops in one evening, a sudden challenge of sweets to her digestion.

As soon as blemishes appear, cut down on sweets, starches and gravies as a test. Drink more water and fruit juices. Eat more green vegetables.

Make sure you are getting enough exercise to work off the amount of sugar you are consuming. Whenever you can make a choice between riding and walking, be sure to walk. Instead of taking a bus or other transportation to classes, walk for its beneficial effects.

Young skins shouldn't be loaded down with makeup. In particular, it shouldn't be slathered over pimples and blackheads. You'll make your skin worse by adding grease and paste to overburdened skin cells.

Cleanliness is the first rule for a disturbed skin. Use soap and water lavishly and make sure that wash cloth and towel are spotless. Equip yourself with little cotton balls or cotton squares which can be used once and thrown away.

There are special cleansing preparations, such as a powdery meal which is mixed with water to make a thin paste and applied to the skin to help banish surface blackheads and flake off dull, discolored skin. This mixture dries on the skin and is flaked off with a dry washcloth. Your face can then be washed with cotton dipped in water. A cleanser such as this can be used once a week to supplement your daily soap and water scrubbing.

If you follow the rule of cleanliness, get adequate sleep, avoid emotional upsets and watch your diet, you should be able to maintain a fresh, babysoft complexion.

Never squeeze a pimple or blackhead. Besides the possibility of infection in the blemished area, you might enlarge the pores and spread the infection, causing a lifetime of skin problems. If your skin shows a number of angry looking pimples, it is best to get medical advice at once.

A top-salaried executive who globe-trots ceaselessly, he has friends and fans in the four corners . . . Charms any and all, especially important Democrats and Republicans, out of any trees they may be in.

He never drinks, but eats ice-cream and sips cokes like a kid . . . His own passel of kids he has brought up with love, kindness and good sense, and oh, I almost forgot! He has made a pile in the stock market and several extra million for whistling — just whistling and singing Irish songs. AUSTINE.

• — • — •

By MORTON DOWNEY

WHILE I was reading Edward, the Duke of Windsor's memoirs recently, I put down the magazine when I came to the part about the party Clarence Mackey gave for him when he was touring the country as Prince of Wales and slipped into my own reverie.

That was the first big party I ever sang at, a memorable night for a country boy from Wallingford, Connecticut, who'd spend his time, hitherto, appearing at lodge smokers.

MORTON DOWNEY

I was with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and we drove out to the Mackey Long Island estate. I remember the long driveway up to the huge French Chateau. Every tree was lighted with Japanese lanterns and the driveway was marked with lights under glass: red, blue, yellow, green. It was the biggest house I'd ever seen. It looked as though it had 1,000 rooms.

We were shown to a balcony above the entrance hall, where the ball was to take place. It was the size of an armory and the walls were covered with suits of armor and medieval instruments of war. It was a room where seven or eight hundred persons could dance with ease. There were 1,000 guests that night.

• — • — •

Outdoors there were masses of searchlights, secret service men and the royal detail of Scotland Yard protectors. One of them told me that even though this dynamic prince didn't let them get much sleep they loved to be with him. His friendly interest in them and their families got them.

• — • — •

I remember the formal garden, which must have been more than an acre in size, was centered with the Prince of Wales coat-of-arms, fashioned in fresh cut flowers. Being of Irish descent I thought what a remarkable thing it was that Mr. Mackey, albeit a wealthy man and head of Potsal Telegraph, was entertaining the heir of the throne of Britain. His father had come from Ireland, supposedly with a price on his head for being a rebel!

The next time I saw the Prince I was singing at the Cafe de Paris in London. The Prince came in and the English proprietor cautioned us how to act in front of his highness: "Don't stop the music while he is dancing. If he speaks, don't put out your hand until he does. Don't sit down until he does." etc. etc. etc.

At the end of my first show he asked me over to the table. Without thinking I put out my hand, he gave me a strong handshake, asked me to sit down and ordered coffee for me. As I sat there sipping the coffee, a guy I had never seen before in my life and needless to say with a beautiful head of steam aboard, came up behind me, gave me a crack on the back that dashed the coffee all over the table and boomed: "Hi ya, Morty! I just made a bet with my friends over here that you'd introduce me to your pal, the Prince."

My first thought was: "I'll be kicked out of England." The Prince smiled and asked: "How much did you bet?" He answered: "Fifty dollars." The Prince said: "Well, we couldn't have you lose ten pounds in England." And poured him a glass of wine. Before my unbelieving eyes he picked up the drink, raised the glass and hollered the length of the room to his party: "Bottoms up, what did I tell ya?"

I suppose my regard for the Duke dates from episodes like that. I've always thought he was quite a guy. As I read his account of his abdication from the throne of England I remember that sad day in London.

I was just finishing a singing engagement there that had lasted several months and all the way home I thought about this man's plight.

I think if he'd had a good old-fashioned Tammany politician advising him there never would have been any "crisis" and he would still be King Edward VIII.

He sure had it within his power to stay on the throne, for the masses of the people idolized him and apparently would gladly accept the lovely Mrs. Simpson or anyone of his choice. But then probably he was just proving he was a King, by being big enough to prevent the slightest "split" among the people of his Empire even though the sacrifice was the throne—for a woman he really loved.

Road Workers Will Not Have Monday Off With Pay

The Allegany County road workers will not have Monday, election day, off with pay, the Board of Allegany County Commissioners announced yesterday.

The request for the employes was made by two of the workers' union representatives, R. C. Simmons, of the Laborers' Union, and Robert Jones, of the Operating Engineers, in an appearance before Commissioners James Holmes and Acting Board President William H. Lemmert.

The union spokesmen stated the men had voted the action at a recent meeting. Simmons pointed out that the workers had lost considerable work this year.

The county road department went out on strike in June for three weeks when the county commissioners refused to grant them additional paid holidays.

Commissioner Lemmert stated that the subject of primary election day being a paid holiday came up at the last meeting.

After a check of the payroll records, it was found that it was not a legal holiday, he said, as the Court House and state offices will be open on that day.

From this, Lemmert and Holmes said, they could not see how the request could be granted. They added that if workers want to take the day off they could do so and then complete their 40 hours by working on Saturday.

Simmons and Jones stated they would take the decision back to the employes.

Addition Planned At Speelman Plant

A permit has been granted in the city engineer's office for construction of a one-story addition at the rear of the Speelman Ice Cream Company plant at 148 Bedford Street.

Carl A. Winfield, who secured the permit, said the $5,000 project involves constructing two walls. The addition will measure 50 by 30 feet and will have a concrete foundation, brick walls and steel beams to support the concrete roof. Work will be done by sub-contracts.

Robinson Is Promoted By The B. And O.

The former assistant master mechanic for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, L. L. Robinson, Jr., has been promoted to general supervisor of locomotive maintenance for the system.

Six other promotions were announced Tuesday by A. K. Galloway, general superintendent of motive power and equipment for the line.

F. B. Rykoskey was made superintendent of motive power at Pittsburgh; Guy F. Wiles, appointed assistant to Galloway; J. J. Ekin, Jr., replaces Rykoskey as supervisor of shops for the system; E. A. Campney, new supervisor of lubrication; J. D. Cavey, promoted to regional motive power inspector, and W. C. Brown, made regional Diesel supervisor.

Demos Postpone Picnic

The basket picnic of the Young Democrats Club of Allegany County, which was scheduled for 6:15 p. m. yesterday, was postponed because of unfavorable weather. Another date will be set for the affair.

Safety School Begins For City Firemen

Lynn Walker, safety inspector of the State Industrial Accident Commission, has announced that the first in a series of safety lectures for city employes started yesterday in the four Cumberland fire houses.

The safety inspector spoke of rules on housekeeping in the stations and the importance of maintenance of equipment.

He said the Fire and Police Departments are the city's safety organizations. He told the men that safety is nothing more than "good old horse sense," adding that it "means keeping your mind on your work and thinking out your problems before acting."

The initial safety session of the Police Department will be held Friday morning and meetings of other city departments will follow.

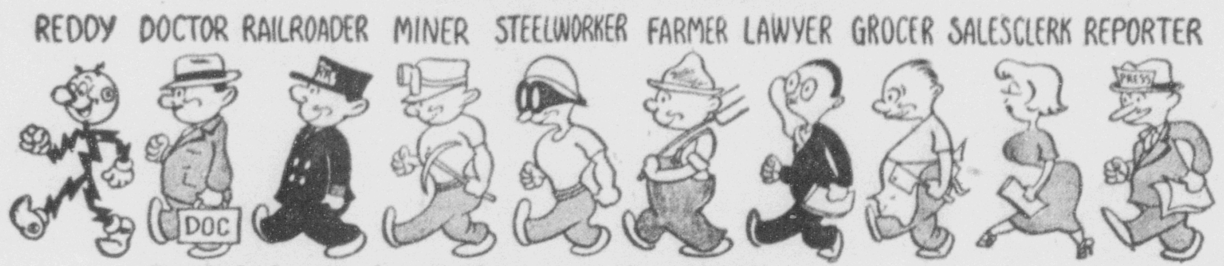
THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS



Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

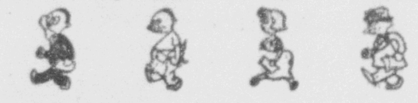
Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix.
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

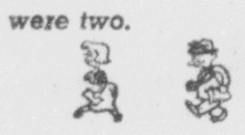
Six little free workers till the day did arrive
The steel mills, too, were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.



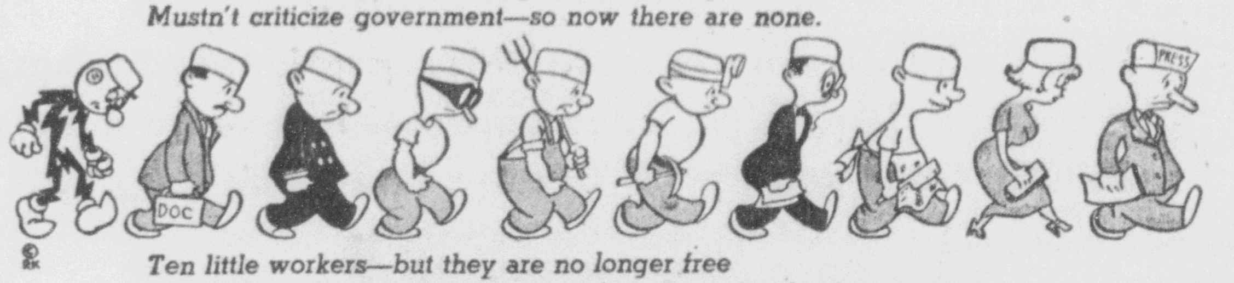
Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.



Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.



Ten little workers—but they are no longer free
They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see,
And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree
And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"

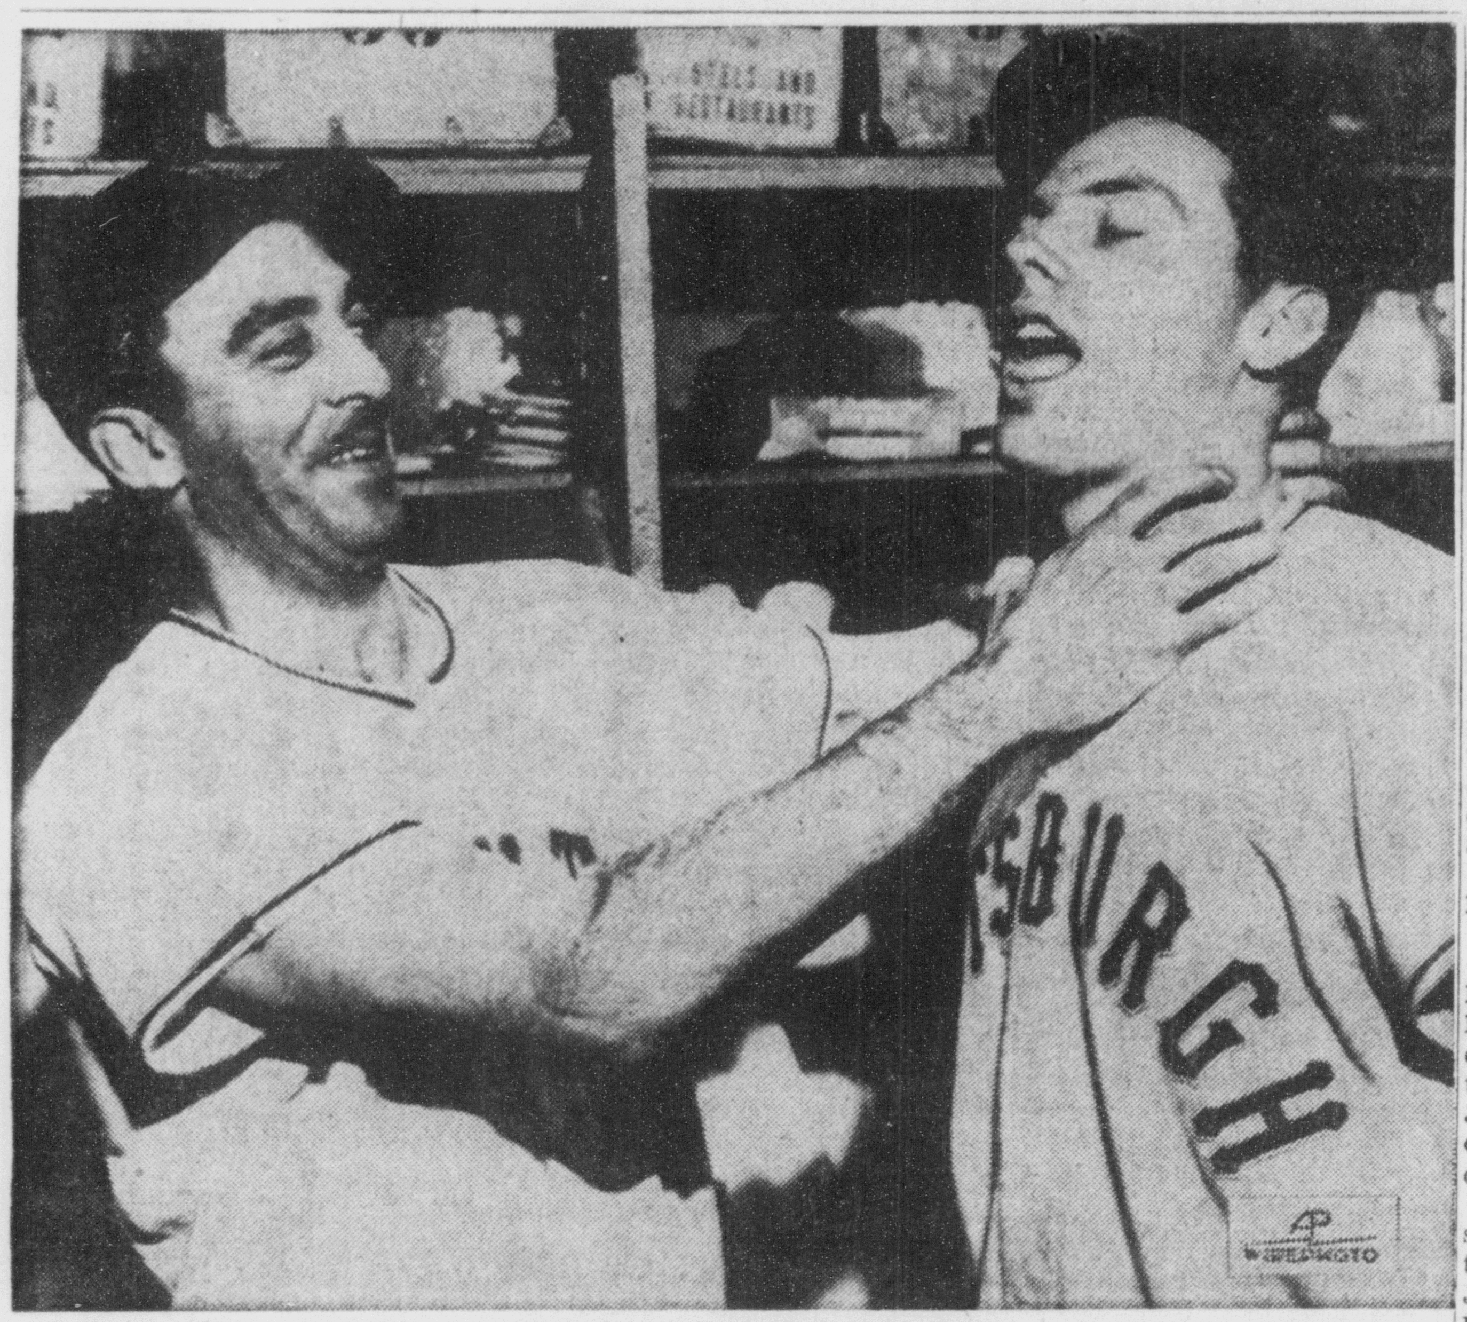
Inter-City Bouts Set Here Tonight; Lamotta Wins By KO



HOMER BREAKS STREAK—Sal Maglie (left) of the New York Giants makes like he would enjoy choking Gus Bell, Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder, in the Polo Grounds dressing room yesterday after Bell ended Maglie's shutout streak at 45 innings with a Chinese homerun which hit the foul pole 257 feet from home plate in the seventh inning of the first game of a scheduled double bill which was won by the Giants, 3 to 1. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of rain and the second game was postponed. Maglie was only five putouts short of setting a new National League record for consecutive scoreless innings and had tied the record of four consecutive shutout games.

LaSalle High School's Explorers will journey to the suburbs of Pittsburgh (Pa.) to battle its second 1950 gridiron opponent when they meet St. Wendelin High in an 8 p. m. clash under the arcs at Brentwood Stadium.

The locals opened their season last week by dropping a 47-13 decision to Romney (W. Va.) High's Class B defending champions in Fort Hill stadium.

The Explorers will leave the school by bus at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon to travel to Pittsburgh for the game.

Brother Joseph announced last night that the full squad of 33 players would make the trip.

Dan Staley, William Spangler, William "Bee" Orndorff and John Shelton will be the officials as Fort Hill puts its long home undefeated streak on the line against the powerful Generals.

Game time will be 8 p. m.

Hahn stated last night that the bad weather this week has hampered his squad's drills but that it appears to be in good shape with Don Brake returning after suffering a hip injury. "Red" Hull, regular halfback, will probably miss the game because of an ankle injury.

Chinese Homer Breaks Maglie's Runless Streak

Bell Hits Fluke As N. Y. Tops Pirates 3-1

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—One of the shortest, flukiest, wettest home runs ever hit in any ball park deprived Sal Maglie of a large helping of pitching immortality today.

The Giants righthander was only five putouts from shattering Carl Hubbell's National League record of 46⅓ consecutive scoreless innings. Then Gus Bell, Pittsburgh outfielder, plunked the sodden pellet against the screen bordering the right field foul line at the polo grounds, 257 feet from home plate. It was the only Pirate run, as New York won the game, called on account of rain after seven innings 3-1.

Had the ball hit two feet to the right, it would have been a foul ball. A foot lower and it would have struck the wall and been held to a harmless single. But it hit the narrow screen which is placed there to assist the umpire in telling foul balls from fair and fell back at the feet of Don Mueller, New York outfielder.

Bell had been the first batter to face Maglie in the seventh inning. Sal swallowed his disappointment and retired the next three Pittsburgh batters in order.

So Maglie, the former Mexican leaguer, salvaged his 16th victory of the year — his 11th straight — against three losses, even though he failed to inscribe his name in the records as the first National League pitcher ever to hurl five straight shutouts or to eclipse Hubbell's 17-year-old record. Goss, Mann Appear In Top Bouts

Penn Field Is Scene Of 7 Matches Between Locals And Johnstown

Boxing, a sport that has been dormant in Cumberland during the summer months, comes to life tonight when Matchmaker Albert "Bobby" Green presents a program of seven amateur matches, topped off by a pair of five-rounders, at Penn Avenue Field at 8:15 o'clock.

The show will be the fourth of the year under the Green banner and the 15th for the one-time professional welterweight boxer since he entered the promotional business in September 1947. Green's other shows this year, all indoor, were held February 27, April 3 and May 1.

Mann, Goss In Top Bouts

In the double windup, Billy Mann, local middleweight, will engage in his 24th amateur match when he collides with Joe Martino, of Johnstown, while Phil Christmas of Johnstown, will tangle with Bobby Goss, local bantamweight, in the other five-rounder.

Mann will be angling for his 4th straight win when he opposes Martino, recent conquerer of Tojo Wade, Johnstown's clowning middleweight. Billy hung up his 15th win in 22 bouts on May 1 when he shipped Paul Simms of Johnstown at the local armory on the card headed by Norvel Lee and Harry Mazick.

Goss, who has been fighting since 1946, but will be showing here for the first time since October 25, 1948, when he TKO'd Ray Harris of Pittsburgh, will be gunning for his 21st victory. Bobby has won 20 out of 29 contests.

The five supporting bouts on tonight's card are three-rounders in which leather pushers of the Metzger A. C., Johnstown, Pa., will trade wallops with Cumberland mittmen.

The fur is expected to fly when Jim Childress, the rough and tumble local middleweight, battles Chester Wiley of Johnstown, who belted out Harry Stewart in three heats in his other appearance here.

Jake Returns To Ring

Jake Koelker, local lightweight, who has been in the ring wars since 1946, is paired with Frankie Spinnatti, Johnstown, in another three. Jake's record is 15-5, his last shot here being a win over Chuck Collins, Pittsburgh, January 17, 1949.

Jack Evans gets his fourth amateur test tonight against Junior Flanagan, of Johnstown. In three previous engagements, Evans split even with Lee Stevens and dropped a decision to Jimmy Getson of Lonaconing.

Other bouts rounding out the Liberty Athletic Club card are Jimmy Roby, of the Royale A. C., Cumberland, versus Slick Dorsey, Metzger A. C. fighter, and Gary Dawson versus Danny Coleman, also of the Johnstown team.

Good Turnout Expected

The advance sale of tickets indicates that there will be a good turnout for the opening show of the 1950-51 season. Jim Kelley will be the third man in the ring for all matches, Nelson W. Russler will be the announcer, Dr. Arthur Jones, medical examiner, and the judges will be chosen before the show gets under way. Gates at Penn Avenue Field will open at 7 o'clock. In case of rain, the show will be held on Monday.

Woods' Homer Wins

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 (AP) — Ken Wood's ninth-inning home run put the St. Louis Browns across for a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight — their seventh victory in a string. The A's tied it with two runs in their part of the ninth, but Wood, leading off, parked Carl Scheib's first pitch and Scheib was charged with the loss. Score:

Berra Smashes Ball As Yanks Blast Tribe 10-3

Yogi Gets Homerun, 2 Singles Off Lemon

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (AP)—Yogi Berra led the hitting barrage as the New York Yankees overwhelmed the Cleveland Indians, 10-3, today to keep pace in the sizzling American League pennant race.

Detroit defeated Washington 6-1 to maintain a half game lead over the Yankees. Tomorrow the Yankees open a three game series in Detroit that could prove decisive.

Berra hit his 22nd home run of the year into the right field stands in the third, came up with vital singles in the first and sixth, and smashed the ball off Al Rosen's glove in the fourth to score Johnny Hopp.

Rosen was charged with an error, but the play apparently upset Cleveland's ace pitcher, Bob Lemon, who was seeking his 21st victory. Lemon immediately let loose a wild pitch on which Hank Bauer scored from third. Then Cliff Mapes' single brought Berra home. Jess Flores replaced Lemon at this point with the Yankees leading, 8-0.

Luke Easter, hero of last night's thriller when his three-run ninth-inning homer with two out brought victory to Cleveland, 8-7, laced another terrific blow today. His homer in the sixth—this time with the bases empty—landed just six feet short of the 463-foot marker on the bleacher wall in the deepest right-center field portion of the huge Municipal Satdium. The weather which has kept the Terps indoors most of the practice season isn't his only worry. Injuries keep piling up.

Tatum learned today Fullback Kerney Scioscis has a fractured wrist and will be out for some time. And Joe Petruzzo sophomore halfback has several bruised ribs and may not see action the rest of the week.

Budnick Hurls One-Hitter As LaVale Cops, 5-0

Corriganville Drops Playoff Opener

Adam Budnick tossed a one-hitter yesterday as LaVale got the jump in the opener of the semi-final playoff series for the County Softball League championship by downing Corriganville 5-0 at Narrows Park field.

Bill Thompson's single in the fifth inning was the only safe blow allowed by the league-leader's ace, as he walked only three and struck out one batsman.

LaVale put the game on ice early in the contest scoring single runs in the first and second frames and adding three more in the fifth.

Gene Basilio paced the winners' attack with a double and triple while Milt Wertz and Buddy Giles each had two singles in the nine-hit assault on Glen Kauffman.

The two teams will resume the best-of five games series Friday at 6 p. m. at Corriganville.

Wellersburg and Potomac Valley, other first division finishers, will open their semi-final series today at Wellersburg begnning at 5:45 p. m. Hayden Phillips of the Cubs and Frank Toler of Wellersburg will likely be the mound opponents. Wellersburg copped six straight decisions during regular season play with the Cubs.

The game tentatively is scheduled to be played at Penn Avenue field beginning at 8 p. m. Friday. The two teams will play their regular contest in Corriganville before journeying to Cumberland for the benefit tilt. The score:

World Series Plans Underway At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13 (AP) — They'll set the dates for the world series here tomorrow, but baseball's bosses will not know who will play in it.

Participating in the meeting will be Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the presidents of the National and American Leagues, and representatives of the first division teams in each circuit.

The pennant races are so close that the fourth place clubs have a mathematical chance to win, thus making it uncertain what teams will play in the big series.

Commissioner Chandler has invited Detroit, New York, Boston and Cleveland of the American League, to send representatives here.

Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston and New York of the National League, have been asked to send men to the session.

The series probably will begin in the National League winner's park on Oct. 3. The first two games will be played there, then, following a day off for travel, the next three contests will take place in the park of the American League champion.

Hyndman-Keyser Tilt Rained Out; To Play Today

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 13—For the second time in a row the scheduled first playoff game between Hyndman and Keyser of the Bi-State Baseball League has been postponed because of rain. Jupe Pluvius forced postponement of the contest until tomorrow at 5 p. m. here.

The two teams played the first game of their Shaughnessy playoff series last week and battled to an 8-8 tie in 14 innings before being halted by darkness. Since then inclement weather has halted all attempts to play the game.

The two teams are scheduled to play the second game of the best-of-five games series Saturday at Hyndman beginning at 3 p. m. The third game will return to Keyser Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Nats Drop 6-1 Tilt To Detroit

Hutchinson Wins 16th; Tigers Hold AL Lead

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (INS) — Detroit blasted out ten hits today to beat the Washington Senators, 6 to 1, and maintain its half-game lead in the American League over the New York Yankees, who won, 10 to 3, at Cleveland.

The Tigers scored their first run in the second when Gerald Priddy's single scored Johnny Groth who had walked.

They pushed over two more in the fourth on singles by Groth, Joe Ginsberg and pitcher Freddy Hutchinson.

Detroit hung up its last three runs in the eighth on two more singles, a walk and two Senator errors.

The Senators scored their only run in the eighth on Gil Coan's double, and singles by Eddie Yost and Ed Stewart.

Hutchinson received credit for the victory, his 16th of the season, although he needed relief from Ted Gray. Box:

Jake Floors Dauthuille In 15th Round

Challenger Ahead On Points Before Champ Stages Rally

By JACK HAND

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (AP) — Squat Jake LaMotta dramatically saved his world middleweight title from a long trip to France tonight by coming from behind in the final 13 seconds to knock out Laurent Dauthuille in 2:47 of the 15th round.

While a crowd of 11,424 that paid $71,694 to enter the Olympia Stadium was ready to crown a new champ, the brawler from New York's teeming Bronx smashed the over-confident Frenchman to the canvas with a flurry of blows.

The cards of all three officials showed Dauthuille, a vastly underrated 11 to 5 underdog, ahead before the stunning ending. The AP score card showed the Frenchman out front 8-6 going into the 15th.

Staggering around the ring in the well-known LaMotta style, pretending to be hurt worse than he really was, durable Jake stunned the weary Parisian with a wild flurry in the closing seconds. Unable to take the punishment, Dauthuille toppled halfway through the ropes and tumbled to the floor.

Dauthuille tried to scrape his carcass off the mat at the count of nine. He was almost up at 10, but the referee, who had warned LaMotta repeatedly to step up the action, ruled the bout was over.

Referee Handler had Dauthuille leading 72-68. Judge Joe Lenahan had the Frenchman out front 74-66 and Judge Jack Aspery had it 73-67. Under Michigan rules, the point system is scored with kayo points split between the contestants in each round.

Dauthuille was within a half minute of scoring a stunning upset victory, when the New York champion caught him with a blistering attack in LaMotta's corner and dropped him against the ropes.

Dauthuille staggered to his feet just as Referee Lou Handler counted to 10, but the fight was over at 2:47 of the final round.

ANDY SEMINICK, 'GRANDPA WHIZ,' IS KEY TO PHILS' PENNANT CHASE

By JAMES R. KELLEY
Central Press Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—Every baseball club that is fighting down the wire in a hot pennant chase must have a key man.

In the case of the Fighting Phillies, it is Andy Seminick, the club's able backstop. And the first to admit it is Manager Eddie Sawyer.

Seminick, always a great competitor, has really come into his own. He has been behind the plate in most of the club's games, in many cases playing with a bad ankle and bad knee.

"A new change has come over Andy this year," says the genial Phillies' manager. "He's what we call in the trade a take-charge guy. Andy's been in on every play and is in control of the game at all times."

"When one of our pitchers starts to go sour, Andy is ready at once to give a call to the bullpen," Sawyer adds. "I'm pleased with his work. For a long time I tried to get him to make the necessary decisions and this year he has really come along."

Another thing about Andy is his hitting. His average has been around the .300 mark for most of the season. A goodly number of his clouts have been for extra bases and have come at crucial moments.

Andy is almost 30 and virtually bald. He came to the Phillies in 1943 and is the oldest member on the squad in service. This has led many of his teammates to nickname him "Grandpa Whiz."

• — • — •

ROBIN ROBERTS, Curt Simmons, Bob Miller and Bubba Church are sold on the maskman. His patience in times of stress has been one of the main factors in developing the Phils' mound staff into one of the best in the majors.

The Elizabethton, Tenn., catcher is a hard worker and a colorful player. The cheers that ring out today for the bandy-legged receiver are rightly deserved, but it wasn't always so.

When Siminick first came to the Phillies, he found the going rough.

Andy Seminick . . . big guy with the Phils

The Phillies had never gone anywhere since 1915 and for the most part spent year in and year out in the National league cellar.

Everytime Andy threw a ball over the infielder's head, it was a sign for boos from the Shibe Park fans. Likewise, his lack of hitting failed to endear him to the blacherites. Undismayed by it all, Andy kept on plugging. The results are shown in today's box scores.

He has gained the confidence he needed and with a better ball club to play with, he has been one of the Phillies' best moves.

• — • — •

GABBY STREET, former St. Louis Cardinals' manager and quite a catcher himself in the old days, is really high on Andy. He calls him the best catcher in the league.

"Andy is a fine receiver," Street says. "He can throw, he can hit and he can think. He slows up the pitchers when they get into a jam and always gives them a target to shoot for."

"He reminds one of the old-time catchers and there is no doubt his blocking of runners at the plate has helped to save games," the old Sarge concluded.

• — • — •

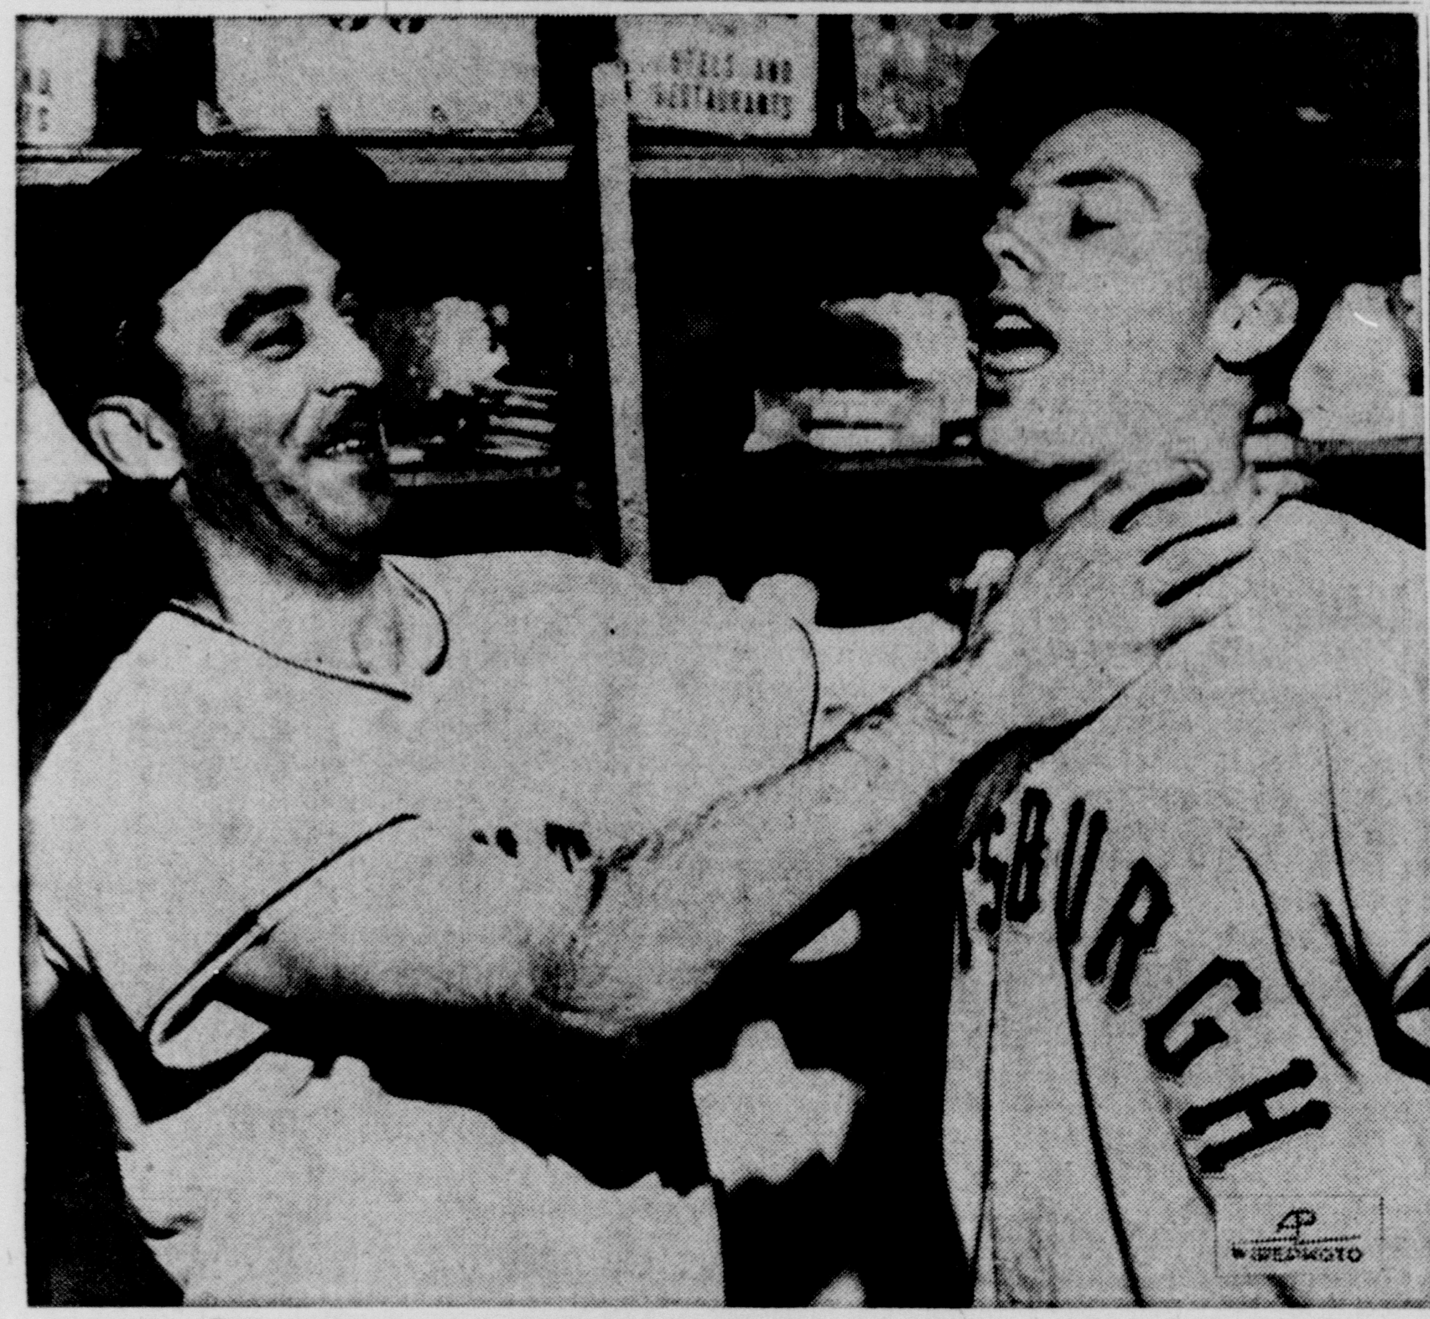
ANDY came to the Phillies from Knoxville where he was a catcher, outfielder and first baseman. The Phils were undecided where to play him and after a brief trial sent him to Buffalo. When he returned to the club in 1945, both Ben Chapman, Phils' manager, and Coach Freddie Fitzsimmons did some experimenting. Ben liked the fact that Seminick could play several positions and always felt that catching would be secondary for Andy.

When Eddie Sawyer took over the leader's post in 1948, Seminick was still on the outside looking in. Eddie was high on Stan Lopata, present second stringer on the Phillies. Lopata didn't last long and the 5-foot 11-inch 190-pounder took over. He caught 124 games that year.

Last year Lopata was once more named as first string backstop, but it was Seminick who took over in a hurry. This year there was never any doubt. The sturdy receiver was on his way. A bear for work, his name has appeared in almost every game.

The fans no longer jeer the husky guy. His play has been the spark and might well continue to be the boost that will push the Phillies home in front for the first time in 35 years.

Inter-City Bouts Set Here Tonight; Lamotta Wins By KO



HOMER BREAKS STREAK—Sal Maglie (left) of the New York Giants makes like he would enjoy choking Gus Bell, Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder, in the Polo Grounds dressing room yesterday after Bell ended Maglie's shutout streak at 45 innings with a Chinese homerun which hit the foul pole 257 feet from home plate in the seventh inning of the first game of a scheduled double bill which was won by the Giants, 3 to 1. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of rain and the second game was postponed. Maglie was only five putouts short of setting a new National League record for consecutive scoreless innings and had tied the record of four consecutive shutout games.

LaSalle High School's Explorers will journey to the suburbs of Pittsburgh (Pa.) to battle its second 1950 gridiron opponent when they meet St. Wendelin High in an 8 p. m. clash under the arcs at Brentwood Stadium.

The locals opened their season last week by dropping a 47-13 decision to Romney (W. Va.) High's Class B defending champions in Fort Hill stadium.

The Explorers will leave the school by bus at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon to travel to Pittsburgh for the game.

Brother Joseph announced last night that the full squad of 33 players would make the trip.

Coach Bill Hahn of the Fort Hill High Sentinels announced last night that four officials would handle the Scarlet and White eleven's second home game of the season Friday night at the Greenway Avenue stadium when Washington and Lee High of Arlington, Va., makes its appearance here.

Dan Staley, William Spangler, William "Bee" Orndorff and John Shelton will be the officials as Fort Hill puts its long home undefeated streak on the line against the powerful Generals.

Game time will be 8 p. m.

Hahn stated last night that the bad weather this week has hampered his squad's drills but that it appears to be in good shape with Don Brake returning after suffering a hip injury. "Red" Hull, regular halfback, will probably miss the game because of an ankle injury.

Flood Threat Postpones Races At Marlboro

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Sept. 13 (AP)—Threatening overflow of a creek over the only road leading to the Marlboro track today caused postponement of horse racing tomorrow and Friday.

Ed O'Hara, general manager, said the Maryland Racing Commission had approved scheduling of the two racing programs on Sept. 25 and 26. The half-mile track originally was scheduled to end its 10-day meeting on Sept. 23.

Chinese Homer Breaks Maglie's Runless Streak

Bell Hits Fluke As N. Y. Tops Pirates 3-1

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—One of the shortest, flukiest, wettest home runs ever hit in any ball park deprived Sal Maglie of a large helping of pitching immortality today.

The Giants righthander was only five putouts from shattering Carl Hubbell's National League record of 46⅓ consecutive scoreless innings. Then Gus Bell, Pittsburgh outfielder, plunked the sodden pellet against the screen bordering the right field foul line at the polo grounds, 257 feet from home plate. It was the only Pirate run, as New York won the game, called on account of rain after seven innings 3-1.

Had the ball hit two feet to the right, it would have been a foul ball. A foot lower and it would have struck the wall and been held to a harmless single. But it hit the narrow screen which is placed there to assist the umpire in telling foul balls from fair and fell back at the feet of Don Mueller, New York outfielder.

Bell had been the first batter to face Maglie in the seventh inning. Sal swallowed his disappointment and retired the next three Pittsburgh batters in order.

So Maglie, the former Mexican leaguer, salvaged his 16th victory of the year—his 11th straight—against three losses, even though he failed to inscribe his name in the records as the first National League pitcher ever to hurl five straight shutouts or to eclipse Hubbell's 17-year-old record. Box:

Goss, Mann Appear In Top Bouts

Penn Field Is Scene Of 7 Matches Between Locals And Johnstown

Boxing, a sport that has been dormant in Cumberland during the summer months, comes to life tonight when Matchmaker Albert "Bobby" Green presents a program of seven amateur matches, topped off by a pair of five-rounders, at Penn Avenue Field at 8:15 o'clock.

The show will be the fourth of the year under the Green banner and the 15th for the one-time professional welterweight boxer since he entered the promotional business in September 1947. Green's other shows this year, all indoor, were held February 27, April 3 and May 1.

Mann, Goss In Top Bouts

In the double windup, Billy Mann, local middleweight, will engage in his 24th amateur match when he collides with Joe Martino, of Johnstown, while Phil Christmas of Johnstown, will tangle with Bobby Goss, local bantamweight, in the other five-rounder.

Mann will be angling for his 4th straight win when he opposes Martino, recent conqueror of Tojo Wade, Johnstown's clowning middleweight. Billy hung up his 15th win in 22 bouts on May 1 when he shipped Paul Simms of Johnstown at the local armory on the card headed by Norvel Lee and Harry Mazick.

Goss, who has been fighting since 1946, but will be showing here for the first time since October 25, 1948, when he TKO'd Ray Harris of Pittsburgh, will be gunning for his 21st victory. Bobby has won 20 out of 29 contests.

The five supporting bouts on tonight's card are three-rounders in which leather pushers of the Metzger A. C., Johnstown, Pa., will trade wallops with Cumberland mittmen.

The fur is expected to fly when Jim Childress, the rough and tumble local middleweight, battles Chester Wiley of Johnstown, who belted out Harry Stewart in three heats in his other appearance here.

Jake Returns To Ring

Jake Koelker, local lightweight, who has been in the ring wars since 1946, is paired with Frankie Spinnatti, Johnstown, in another three. Jake's record is 15-5, his last shot here being a win over Chuck Collins, Pittsburgh, January 17, 1949.

Jack Evans gets his fourth amateur test tonight against Junior Flanagan, of Johnstown. In three previous engagements, Evans split even with Lee Stevens and dropped a decision to Jimmy Getson of Lonaconing.

Other bouts rounding out the Liberty Athletic Club card are Jimmy Roby, of the Royale A. C., Cumberland, versus Slick Dorsey, Metzger A. C. fighter, and Gary Dawson versus Danny Coleman, also of the Johnstown team.

Good Turnout Expected

The advance sale of tickets indicates that there will be a good turnout for the opening show of the 1950-51 season. Jim Kelley will be the third man in the ring for all matches, Nelson W. Russler will be the announcer, Dr. Arthur Jones, medical examiner, and the judges will be chosen before the show gets under way. Gates at Penn Avenue Field will open at 7 o'clock. In case of rain, the show will be held on Monday.

Berra Smashes Ball As Yanks Blast Tribe 10-3

Yogi Gets Homerun, 2 Singles Off Lemon

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (AP)—Yogi Berra led the hitting barrage as the New York Yankees overwhelmed the Cleveland Indians, 10-3, today to keep pace in the sizzling American League pennant race.

Detroit defeated Washington 6-1 to maintain a half game lead over the Yankees. Tomorrow the Yankees open a three game series in Detroit that could prove decisive.

Berra hit his 22nd home run of the year into the right field stands in the third, came up with vital singles in the first and sixth, and smashed the ball off Al Rosen's glove in the fourth to score Johnny Hopp.

Rosen was charged with an error, but the play apparently upset Cleveland's ace pitcher, Bob Lemon, who was seeking his 21st victory. Lemon immediately let loose a wild pitch on which Hank Bauer scored from third. Then Cliff Mapes' single brought Berra home. Jess Flores replaced Lemon at this point with the Yankees leading, 8-0.

Luke Easter, hero of last night's thriller when his three-run ninth-inning homer with two out brought victory to Cleveland, 8-7, laced another terrific blow today. His homer in the sixth—this time with the bases empty—landed just six feet short of the 463-foot marker on the bleacher wall in the deepest right-center field portion of the huge Municipal Satdium. Corriganville Drops Playoff Opener

Adam Budnick tossed a one-hitter yesterday as LaVale got the jump in the opener of the semi-final playoff series for the County Softball League championship by downing Corriganville 5-0 at Narrows Park field.

Bill Thompson's single in the fifth inning was the only safe blow allowed by the league-leader's ace, as he walked only three and struck out one batsman.

LaVale put the game on ice early in the contest scoring single runs in the first and second frames and adding three more in the fifth.

Gene Basilio paced the winners' attack with a double and triple while Milt Wertz and Buddy Giles each had two singles in the nine-hit assault on Glen Kauffman.

The two teams will resume the best-of five games series Friday at 6 p. m. at Corriganville.

World Series Plans Underway At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13 (AP) — They'll set the dates for the world series here tomorrow, but baseball's bosses will not know who will play in it.

Participating in the meeting will be Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the presidents of the National and American Leagues, and representatives of the first division teams in each circuit.

The pennant races are so close that the fourth place clubs have a mathematical chance to win, thus making it uncertain what teams will play in the big series.

Commissioner Chandler has invited Detroit, New York, Boston and Cleveland of the American League, to send representatives here.

Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston and New York of the National League, have been asked to send men to the session.

The series probably will begin in the National League winner's park on Oct. 3. The first two games will be played there, then, following a day off for travel, the next three contests will take place in the park of the American League champion.

Hyndman-Keyser Tilt Rained Out; To Play Today

Nats Drop 6-1 Tilt To Detroit

Hutchinson Wins 16th; Tigers Hold AL Lead

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (INS) — Detroit blasted out ten hits today to beat the Washington Senators, 6 to 1, and maintain its half-game lead in the American League over the New York Yankees, who won, 10 to 3, at Cleveland.

The Tigers scored their first run in the second when Gerald Priddy's single scored Johnny Groth who had walked.

They pushed over two more in the fourth on singles by Groth, Joe Ginsberg and pitcher Freddy Hutchinson.

Detroit hung up its last three runs in the eighth on two more singles, a walk and two Senator errors.

The Senators scored their only run in the eighth on Gil Coan's double, and singles by Eddie Yost and Ed Stewart.

Hutchinson received credit for the victory, his 16th of the season, although he needed relief from Ted Gray. Box:

Jake Floors Dauthuille In 15th Round

By JACK HAND

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (AP) — Squat Jake LaMotta dramatically saved his world middleweight title from a long trip to France tonight by coming from behind in the final 13 seconds to knock out Laurent Dauthuille in 2:47 of the 15th round.

While a crowd of 11,424 that paid $71,694 to enter the Olympia Stadium was ready to crown a new champ, the brawler from New York's teeming Bronx smashed the over-confident Frenchman to the canvas with a flurry of blows.

The cards of all three officials showed Dauthuille, a vastly under-rated 11 to 5 underdog, ahead before the stunning ending. The AP score card showed the Frenchman out front 8-6 going into the 15th.

Staggering around the ring in the well-known LaMotta style, pretending to be hurt worse than he really was, durable Jake stunned the weary Parisian with a wild flurry in the closing seconds. Unable to take the punishment, Dauthuille toppled halfway through the ropes and tumbled to the floor.

Dauthuille tried to scrape his carcass off the mat at the count of nine. He was almost up at 10, but the referee, who had warned LaMotta repeatedly to step up the action, ruled the bout was over.

Referee Handler had Dauthuille leading 72-68. Judge Joe Lenahan had the Frenchman out front 74-66 and Judge Jack Aspery had it 73-67. Under Michigan rules, the point system is scored with kayo points split between the contestants in each round.

Dauthuille was within a half minute of scoring a stunning upset victory, when the New York champion caught him with a blistering attack in LaMotta's corner and dropped him against the ropes.

Dauthuille staggered to his feet just as Referee Lou Handler counted to 10, but the fight was over at 2:47 of the final round.

Dauthuille, using a rapier-like left hand, had cut and nearly closed LaMotta's left eye and seemed on the verge of winning the title his countryman, the late Marcel Cerdan, lost to LaMotta in 1949 but Jake's powerful closing rush wound up the fight.

ANDY SEMINICK, 'GRANDPA WHIZ,' IS KEY TO PHILS' PENNANT CHASE

By JAMES R. KELLEY
Central Press Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—Every baseball club that is fighting down the wire in a hot pennant chase must have a key man.

In the case of the Fighting Phillies, it is Andy Seminick, the club's able backstop. And the first to admit it is Manager Eddie Sawyer.

Seminick, always a great competitor, has really come into his own. He has been behind the plate in most of the club's games, in many cases playing with a bad ankle and bad knee.

"A new change has come over Andy this year," says the genial Phillies' manager. "He's what we call in the trade a take-charge guy. Andy's been in on every play and is in control of the game at all times."

"When one of our pitchers starts to go sour, Andy is ready at once to give a call to the bullpen," Sawyer adds. "I'm pleased with his work. For a long time I tried to get him to make the necessary decisions and this year he has really come along."

Another thing about Andy is his hitting. His average has been around the .300 mark for most of the season. A goodly number of his clouts have been for extra bases and have come at crucial moments.

Andy is almost 30 and virtually bald. He came to the Phillies in 1943 and is the oldest member on the squad in service. This has led many of his teammates to nickname him "Grandpa Whiz."

ROBIN ROBERTS, Curt Simmons, Bob Miller and Bubba Church are sold on the maskman. His patience in times of stress has been one of the main factors in developing the Phils' mound staff into one of the best in the majors.

The Elizabethton, Tenn., catcher is a hard worker and a colorful player. The cheers that ring out today for the bandy-legged receiver are rightly deserved, but it wasn't always so.

When Siminick first came to the Phillies, he found the going rough.

Andy Seminick . . . big guy with the Phils

The Phillies had never gone anywhere since 1915 and for the most part spent year in and year out in the National league cellar.

Everytime Andy threw a ball over the infielder's head, it was a sign for boos from the Shibe Park fans. Likewise, his lack of hitting failed to endear him to the blacherites. Undismayed by it all, Andy kept on plugging. The results are shown in today's box scores.

He has gained the confidence he needed and with a better ball club to play with, he has been one of the Phillies' best moves.

• — • — •

GABBY STREET, former St. Louis Cardinals' manager and quite a catcher himself in the old days, is really high on Andy. He calls him the best catcher in the league.

"Andy is a fine receiver," Street says. "He can throw, he can hit and he can think. He slows up the pitchers when they get into a jam and always gives them a target to shoot for."

"He reminds one of the old-time catchers and there is no doubt his blocking of runners at the plate has helped to save games," the old Sarge concluded.

ANDY came to the Phillies from Knoxville where he was a catcher, outfielder and first baseman. The Phils were undecided where to play him and after a brief trial sent him to Buffalo. When he returned to the club in 1945, both Ben Chapman, Phils' manager, and Coach Freddie Fitzsimmons did some experimenting. Ben liked the fact that Seminick could play several positions and always felt that catching would be secondary for Andy.

When Eddie Sawyer took over the leader's post in 1948, Seminick was still on the outside looking in. Eddie was high on Stan Lopata, present second stringer on the Phillies. Lopata didn't last long and the 5-foot 11-inch 190-pounder took over. He caught 124 games that year.

Last year Lopata was once more named as first string backstop, but it was Seminick who took over in a hurry. This year there was never any doubt. The sturdy receiver was on his way. A bear for work, his name has appeared in almost every game.

The fans no longer jeer the husky guy. His play has been the spark and might well continue to be the boost that will push the Phillies home in front for the first time in 35 years.

Briar White Is Homebred Purse Winner

Culmone Up As 8,994 See Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP)—Mrs. William W. Vaughan's Briar White won his first stake race in the featured Homebred Handicap at Atlantic City today before a crowd of 8,994.

The son of Neddie, bred by his Red Bank, N. J. owner, registered by 3½ lengths in the one mile test for New Jersey foals.

The estate of William G. Helis furnished the second and fourth horses with Mendicant and Yogi, respectively. The pair was separated by Woodland Farm's Picture Card which missed the place award by a head.

The second running of the event which was being contested on the turf course for the first time was truly run despite a thoroughly water-soaked mile oval. Briar White, victor in four of 18 starts this season earned $5,725 front money.

The overnight field of ten Jersey-breds lost much of its lustre when Overexposed was withdrawn. The Woodland Farm colorbearer was the highweight of the eligibles under 130 pounds. The field was reduced to eight when Fighting Fool also declined.

Joe Culmone, who was registering his third win of the day in the Homebred, handled Briar White in clever fashion. The 5-year-old chestnut was next to last in the run down the backstretch but began moving up after leaving the half-mile marker.

Culmone wisely moved to the outside with Briar White and picked up his rivals with a rush to take the lead at head of the stretch. There was no letup on Briar White until he flashed under the wire.

Away Away Is Winner

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP)—Woodvale Farm's Away Away sloshed through the goo at Aqueduct today to win his first race, but it was a big one, the 28th running of the $20,000 added Cowdin Stakes for 2-year-olds.

Away Away, a son of Whirlaway-Dorimar, had started seven times before and had never finished better than second, but today he was a running horse, with juveniles going six and a half furlongs for the first time this season on the New York wheel.

Never worse than third once the field was straightened after the start, Away Away picked up his pace-setting stablemate, Iamarelic, and then Mohammedan, to assume command inside the sixteenth pole and win by three lengths, going away.

Brookmead Stable's Safety, far back in the early part, also showed late foot, to take second money a length to the van of Iamarelic, who was a neck ahead of I. J. Collins' Mohammedan.

Briar White Is Homebred Purse Winner

Culmone Up As 8,994 See Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP)—Mrs. William W. Vaughan's Briar White won his first stake race in the featured Homebred Handicap at Atlantic City today before a crowd of 8,994.

The son of Neddie, bred by his Red Bank, N. J. owner, registered by 3½ lengths in the one mile test for New Jersey foals.

The estate of William G. Helis furnished the second and fourth horses with Mendicant and Yogi, respectively. The pair was separated by Woodland Farm's Picture Card which missed the place award by a head.

The second running of the event which was being contested on the turf course for the first time was truly run despite a thoroughly water-soaked mile oval. Briar White, victor in four of 18 starts this season earned $5,725 front money.

The overnight field of ten Jersey-breds lost much of its lustre when Overexposed was withdrawn. The Woodland Farm colorbearer was the highweight of the eligibles under 130 pounds. The field was reduced to eight when Fighting Fool also declined.

Joe Culmone, who was registering his third win of the day in the Homebred, handled Briar White in clever fashion. The 5-year-old chestnut was next to last in the run down the backstretch but began moving up after leaving the half-mile marker.

Culmone wisely moved to the outside with Briar White and picked up his rivals with a rush to take the lead at head of the stretch. There was no letup on Briar White until he flashed under the wire.

Away Away Is Winner

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP)—Woodvale Farm's Away Away sloshed through the goo at Aqueduct today to win his first race, but it was a big one, the 28th running of the $20,000 added Cowdin Stakes for 2-year-olds.

Away Away, a son of Whirlaway-Dorimar, had started seven times before and had never finished better than second, but today he was a running horse, with juveniles going six and a half furlongs for the first time this season on the New York wheel.

Never worse than third once the field was straightened after the start, Away Away picked up his pace-setting stablemate, Iamarelic, and then Mohammedan, to assume command inside the sixteenth pole and win by three lengths, going away.

Brookmead Stable's Safety, far back in the early part, also showed late foot, to take second money a length to the van of Iamarelic, who was a neck ahead of I. J. Collins', Mohammedan.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE GRECIAN GIFTS

"Beware of Greeks bearing gifts" is a slogan that dates from the days of Homerian mythology. But it fits plenty of modern situations, including our game of bridge. Once in a blue moon you will see a canny declarer make a play which looks like a mistake to one defender. The latter promptly pounces upon the opportunity gratuitously offered him. A bit later, he realizes he had been hoodwinked and had fallen for a stratagem that would have been futile without his gullibility.

You will seldom find jerkier bidding than that, in which each partner apparently almost signed off the hand with his second bid and they then went on to a slam. South explained his 4-No Trumps on the basis that he did not rate his opponents highly. He proved right.

West, recalling that the bidding portended a cross-ruff of the minors, decided to spike it with a lead of trumps, picking the 7. South quickly saw the difficulties of his situation, including the impossibility of ruffing enough diamonds. So he centered on bringing in the clubs, with a difficult entry situation which could be handled only with some luck plus co-operation by the defense. So he went for it.

Winning the spade lead with the Q, he next scored the club K and A, then led the club 10. He purposely ruffed it with his lowest trump, the 2, which he had saved for the purpose. West was overjoyed. He pounced on that with his spade 5, remarking: "You sent a boy on a man's errand." The diamond return was won by the A, the spade J cleared trumps and the clubs furnished discards of the losing diamonds. Note that, if West had discarded instead of over-ruffing, South could never have reached dummy to use the clubs after the trumps were out.

Commercial Dux Loop Opens 22nd Season Tonight

The Commercial Bowling League will open its 22nd season on the alleys tonight at the Savoy Alleys when the Times-News keglers meet Eiler Chevrolet, Naborhood Market crosses Potomac Edison and Rosenbaum's pinmen face Queen City Paint and Glass team.

Rosenbaum's and Times-News teams are two of the charter members of the circuit, being the only two teams which have been in the loop since its inception.

The Times-News outfit is the defending champion, having copped the title last year.

Tattenham Cops New Haven Purse

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Robert Cramer's Tattenham scored a surprising half length victory in today's featured New Haven purse at Narragansett Park.

Tattenham, virtually overlooked in the betting, paid $55.40, $18.20 and $8.20 after running the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 on the slow track.

Mrs. H. S. Clark's Puppett tried hard to catch the winner but had to be content with second and paid $6.20 and $4.20. Ralph Lowe's Chancescript was third and paid $3.40.

The 11,123 crowd made the entry of Judy's Runner and Lefty Jim, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gushen, the favorite. But the nearest either got was fifth for the filly after Lefty Jim started off as the early leader.

The double paid $36.80 to holders of 838 tickets which paired John Bove's Reynard and Ralph Lowe's Mary Migirl.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE GRECIAN GIFTS

"Beware of Greeks bearing gifts" is a slogan that dates from the days of Homerian mythology. But it fits plenty of modern situations, including our game of bridge. Once in a blue moon you will see a canny declarer make a play which looks like a mistake to one defender. The latter promptly pounces upon the opportunity gratuitously offered him. A bit later, he realizes he had been hoodwinked and had fallen for a stratagem that would have been futile without his gullibility.

You will seldom find jerkier bidding than that, in which each partner apparently almost signed off the hand with his second bid and they then went on to a slam. South explained his 4-No Trumps on the basis that he did not rate his opponents highly. He proved right.

West, recalling that the bidding portended a cross-ruff of the minors, decided to spike it with a lead of trumps, picking the 7. South quickly saw the difficulties of his situation, including the impossibility of ruffing enough diamonds. So he centered on bringing in the clubs, with a difficult entry situation which could be handled only with some luck plus co-operation by the defense. So he went for it.

Winning the spade lead with the Q, he next scored the club K and A, then led the club 10. He purposely ruffed it with his lowest trump, the 2, which he had saved for the purpose. West was overjoyed. He pounced on that with his spade 5, remarking: "You sent a boy on a man's errand." The diamond return was won by the A, the spade J cleared trumps and the clubs furnished discards of the losing diamonds. Note that, if West had discarded instead of over-ruffing, South could never have reached dummy to use the clubs after the trumps were out.

Late Rains Give State Farmers Better Outlook

University Reports On Harvest Conditions

COLLEGE PARK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Rains which have been helping to produce good crops elsewhere in Maryland finally came to sections of the eastern shore today.

Steady showers pelted the area around Salisbury. It is in this general area that farmers, for weeks, have been hoping for drenching rains to perk up dry crops.

Crops reports for last week still were listing the central section of the Maryland-Delaware peninsula as "comparatively dry," and added that many communities in that area needed more rain for good development of fall crops.

It was the second straight week the area had been in the "dry" column but the current rains could change the picture if they continue.

Meanwhile, the weekly crop report said other sections of the state were doing fine. Favorable weather spurred on fall pastures and meadows and helped late corn, soybeans, late tobacco and late vegetables.

Harvest of late sweet corn, tomatoes and lima beans continued in good volume and farmers continued preparation of ground for fall planting.

The tobacco harvest was slowed and tomato blight increased as the result of last week's slightly cooler weather and increased rainfall.

Fall Seeding Started

In some areas fall seeding of small grains was started.

The report covered the week ending Sept. 9. Prepared at the University of Maryland Extension Service offices, it gave this crop-by-crop summary for the week:

Corn: Weather conditions slowed up ripening of early corn in most sections but the late crop made good progress. In some areas on the shore late corn continued to fire badly.

Soybeans: In the big soybean area on the shore vines were drying up but elsewhere they made good progress.

Potatoes-seed potatoes: Weather was good for late potatoes in Western Maryland and some small patches on the shore. Around Salisbury, the sweets harvest continued in light volume with quality and yield good. Digging started elsewhere on the shore.

Tobacco: Weather retarded curing but helped growth of late crop.

Pastures-Hay: Rain sparked pastures everywhere except the central part of the Del-Mar Peninsula. Dry weather helped produce a good crop of Lespedeza and Soybean Hay on the Shore.

Beans: Around Baltimore and Salisbury a small volume of late snap beans were marketed but the Salisbury area needed more rain. Baby limas on the shore continued to be of good quality.

Corn Yield High

Sweet Corn: In the northern section of the state harvest of the late crop was drawing to a close with quality and yield good.

Tomatoes: Peak of the harvest was reached in some northern areas but in the south the crop was about over. Quality this season has been very good.

Melons: In the Hurlock area a small supply will be available through this week.

Other Truck Crops: Weather helped peppers to size well and they moved to Shore canners in increased volume. Cauliflower, broccoli and late cabbabe showed well except in the Central Del-Mar Area.

Apples-Peaches: A good supply of late apples will be availble and the quality looks very good. Harvest of the good main peach crop was about over.

Late Rains Give State Farmers Better Outlook

University Reports On Harvest Conditions

COLLEGE PARK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Rains which have been helping to produce good crops elsewhere in Maryland finally came to sections of the eastern shore today.

Steady showers pelted the area around Salisbury. It is in this general area that farmers, for weeks, have been hoping for drenching rains to perk up dry crops.

Crops reports for last week still were listing the central section of the Maryland-Delaware peninsula as "comparatively dry," and added that many communities in that area needed more rain for good development of fall crops.

It was the second straight week the area had been in the "dry" column but the current rains could change the picture if they continue.

Meanwhile, the weekly crop report said other sections of the state were doing fine. Favorable weather spurred on fall pastures and meadows and helped late corn, soybeans, late tobacco and late vegetables.

Harvest of late sweet corn, tomatoes and lima beans continued in good volume and farmers continued preparation of ground for fall planting.

The tobacco harvest was slowed and tomato blight increased as the result of last week's slightly cooler weather and increased rainfall.

Fall Seeding Started

In some areas fall seeding of small grains was started.

The report covered the week ending Sept. 9. Prepared at the University of Maryland Extension Service offices, it gave this crop-by-crop summary for the week:

Corn: Weather conditions slowed up ripening of early corn in most sections but the late crop made good progress. In some areas on the shore late corn continued to fire badly.

Soybeans: In the big soybean area on the shore vines were drying up but elsewhere they made good progress.

Potatoes-seed potatoes: Weather was good for late potatoes in Western Maryland and some small patches on the shore. Around Salisbury, the sweets harvest continued in light volume with quality and yield good. Digging started elsewhere on the shore.

Tobacco: Weather retarded curing but helped growth of late crop.

Pastures-Hay: Rain sparked pastures everywhere except the central part of the Del-Mar Peninsula. Dry weather helped produce a good crop of Lespedeza and Soybean Hay on the Shore.

Beans: Around Baltimore and Salisbury a small volume of late snap beans were marketed but the Salisbury area needed more rain. Baby limas on the shore continued to be of good quality.

Corn Yield High

Sweet Corn: In the northern section of the state harvest of the late crop was drawing to a close with quality and yield good.

Tomatoes: Peak of the harvest was reached in some northern areas but in the south the crop was about over. Quality this season has been very good.

Melons: In the Hurlock area a small supply will be available through this week.

Other Truck Crops: Weather helped peppers to size well and they moved to Shore canners in increased volume. Cauliflower, broccoli and late cabbabe showed well except in the Central Del-Mar Area.

Apples-Peaches: A good supply of late apples will be availble and the quality looks very good. Harvest of the good main peach crop was about over.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13—(INS)—Irving Allen, who produced "The Man On The Eiffel Tower," one of the best independent pictures made last year, tells me he has Anton Walbrook and Trevor Howard, two top British actors signed.

MARGARET SULLAVAN

He left tonight for Europe to make arrangements to film "The Man Who Watched The Trains Go By" in Holland and France with these two actors as his stars.

Allen tells me he is still negotiating with Nina Foch for the female lead. She's listening with an attentive ear because she wants to return to her native Holland for a visit.

Margaret Sullavan, honeymooning at the English estate of her bridegroom, Kenneth Wagg, will be in Hollywood in six weeks.

Her agent, Paul Small, says she will do "Homeward Borne," Ruth Chatterton's best seller, for Columbia. There's a possibility that Maggie will bring all seven of the children with her—her own three and her bridegroom's four.

She's not giving up the screen as has been printed, even though her bridegroom is vice-president of Horlick's Malted Milk. She spends a great deal of time in the United States, so she'll make a picture now and then.

I have seen a great picture. "All About Eve" is one of the most dramatic, and one of the greatest achievements of the current year. After I sneaked into a projection room and saw two or three scenes with Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, I just had to see the whole picture.

"All About Eve" can be put down in your little black book as a strong Academy contender. Darryl Zanuck has a winner.

Joseph Mankiewicz, who wrote the brilliant dialogue, is also the director of this distinguished story of the theatre which has a number of fine performers. To name just a few of them—George Sanders, Anne Baxter, Celeste Holm, Hugh Marlowe, Gregory Ratoff. It's a movie that will be the talk of the country when it's released this winter.

The most unglamorous role of the year goes to Edith Meiser in "Horsie," the Dorothy Parker story about a sentimental woman who looks like a horse! Already Miss Meiser is having her teeth "bucked" and other unbeautiful things done so she'll be just right for this chapter in the "Queen For A Day" This youngish character actress has quite an enviable reputation on Broadway. For fifteen years she wrote and directed "Sherlock Holmes" for the radio and also stage directed two shows for Mark Hellinger.

'Cheaper By The Dozen' Family Heads East

DENVER, Sept. 13 (AP) — The "cheaper by the dozen" family of Denver's William E. Walsh today mass-migrated eastward.

One son, William, is with the Army, but that still left the two parents and 11 children who boarded an airliner here, stowed two pet dogs in the luggage compartments, and headed for daddy's new job as a professor at Detroit's Mercy College.

Walsh has managed to raise and maintain his large family while going to school. He recently received a degree of doctor of philosophy from Denver University.

Czech Soldiers' Heads Shaved Like Soviets

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 13 (AP) — Czechoslovakia soldiers soon will have their heads shaved like Soviet troops, the Prague army newspaper Obrana Libu reported today.

Lt. Jaroslav Jenicek, who wrote the article, said one private, who already had had his head shaved in accordance with regulations, told how "his girl burst into tears when she saw him without hair."

Lt. Jenicek advised the soldier to forget the girl "because she evidently cares only for his hair and not that he is a defender of our people's democratic homeland."

He said the new order was for hygienic reasons.

Two Automobiles Are Damaged By Fire

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company was called to extinguish two automobile fires recently.

A car owned by Chester W. Kinser caught fire as the result of a short circuit in electrical wiring about 3:30 p. m. Monday at Bowman's Addition. The firemen were called, but the fire was under control upon arrival. Damage to the car was estimated at $15.

Tuesday, at 7:45 p. m., a car owned by Homer Deneen caught fire as the result of a short circuit of the battery cable. The Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company extinguished the fire with a soda acid extinguisher. Charles Jones was in charge of the engine. Damage to the car was slight.

Long Favors Anti-Red Classes

Democracy classes in area high schools should benefit by the anti-communist ordinance adopted September 5 by unanimous action of the Mayor and City Council, according to an opinion voiced by Police Commissioner John J. Long, who sponsored the measure in council.

Commissioner Long said he has written letters to school heads in the city and county offering them copies of the ordinance "if they can be of use to you in democracy or Americanism classes."

The ordinance against red activities requires registration of communist party members and prohibits dissemination of communist publications on the streets of the city.

Passage of the law was opposed by officials of Maryland's communist party, but much favorable comment has been received from labor and civic organizations .

Paper Firm Makes Dividend Payments

A year-end dividend of $3 a share on common stock has been declared by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, payable September 25 to holders of record September 21, the Associated Press has reported.

Action on the year-end dividend brings payment for the fiscal year ending October 31 to $5 a share. This compares with $3 a share in the preceding fiscal year, when $1 additional was paid at the year end.

Columbia Gas System Holds Annual School

The Columbia Gas System is holding its annual school at the C. and A. Gas Company Building and 19 home service supervisors from five states covered by the company are attending.

Flora G. Dowler, head supervisor of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, is in charge of the session which began Monday and will run through Friday.

Miss Dowler said the year's program for supervisors is being reviewed by giving demonstrations of the latest in gas equipment, food preparation, refrigerator arrangement, and laundry technique.

Group Favors Test Of Parking Plan

The City Traffic and Parking Commission Tuesday night deferred definite action on the question of one or two-way parking on South Mechanic Street, due to lack of a quorum.

Members present, however, recommended that one-way traffic be continued for at least a substantial time in view of the recommendations of the SRC traffic survey.

The commission also heard a report from its Parking Lot Committee which is trying to work out an adequate plan for off-street parking here.

Several proposals were discussed and opinions given that some plan can be worked out in the near future.

Frank Martin, chairman, presided at the meeting attended by about one-third of the 30-man committee

Commissioners Invited To Two Meetings

The County Commissioners yesterday received an invitation to send a representative to the meeting of the Allegany County Advisory Council for Civil Defense Friday at 7:30 p. m., at the Naval and Marine Reserve Training Center.

William G. Barger, chairman of the county defense unit, stated that information of a survey of emergency facilities will be consolidated.

The board also had notification of a meeting of the sub-committee on property taxes of the Tax Survey Commission of the state.

The group will hold an open hearing on the question of valuation of real estate for assessment purposes at 10 a. m. Wednesday, September 20, in the City Hall, Baltimore.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Columbia Gas System Holds Annual School

The Columbia Gas System is holding its annual school at the C. and A. Gas Company Building and 19 home service supervisors from five states covered by the company are attending.

Flora G. Dowler, head supervisor of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, is in charge of the session which began Monday and will run through Friday.

Miss Dowler said the year's program for supervisors is being reviewed by giving demonstrations of the latest in gas equipment, food preparation, refrigerator arrangement, and laundry technique.

Group Favors Test Of Parking Plan

The City Traffic and Parking Commission Tuesday night deferred definite action on the question of one or two-way parking on South Mechanic Street, due to lack of a quorum.

Members present, however, recommended that one-way traffic be continued for at least a substantial time in view of the recommendations of the SRC traffic survey.

The commission also heard a report from its Parking Lot Committee which is trying to work out an adequate plan for off-street parking here.

Several proposals were discussed and opinions given that some plan can be worked out in the near future.

Frank Martin, chairman, presided at the meeting attended by about one-third of the 30-man committee

Commissioners Invited To Two Meetings

The County Commissioners yesterday received an invitation to send a representative to the meeting of the Allegany County Advisory Council for Civil Defense Friday at 7:30 p. m., at the Naval and Marine Reserve Training Center.

William G. Barger, chairman of the county defense unit, stated that information of a survey of emergency facilities will be consolidated.

The board also had notification of a meeting of the sub-committee on property taxes of the Tax Survey Commission of the state.

The group will hold an open hearing on the question of valuation of real estate for assessment purposes at 10 a. m. Wednesday, September 20, in the City Hall, Baltimore.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

The Glory Of Eddie's Past

AFTER a great deal of huffing and puffing, plus an extraordinary amount of self-congratulation at its own daring, NBC last Sunday unveiled the first of its Sunday night parlay (NBC-TV 8 p. m. EDT) on which Eddie Cantor, Martin and Lewis and Fred Allen will alternate on successive nights.

John Crosby

NBC had already rather overreached itself in titling its big Saturday night review "The Show of Shows," thereby leaving no very sweeping monicker for its Sunday night extravagance. It's called simply the "Colgate Comedy Theater" — after the well-known university, I expect. NBC thus is casting down the gauntlet for CBS, which has the Ed Sullivan show on at the same time. Apart from the spectacular differences in the personalities, experience and general know-how of Mr. Sullivan and Messrs. Cantor, Martin and Lewis and Allen, the shows are pretty much alike and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if a hoofer who is with Mr. Sullivan one week would be over with the Colgate people the next. If you missed any of the sketches brought by guest comics to the Sullivan show, I'm sure you'll be able to catch up with them some time this winter on the Colgate show.

• — • — •

There was a superstition in the early days of TV, all of three years ago, that this medium would murder the vaudevillian, that his act would be dead as mutton after a single television performance. This turned out to be wholly false. The average vaudeville act, it seems, can play television almost as long as it did the old Keith-Albee circuit, the only difference being that it's playing to the same audience. We have already memorized the routines and are rapidly becoming experts on the techniques. "You should have seen him last week on the Berle show," you find yourself saying. "He arched his left eyebrow first, then delivered the snapper—half-face to the camera. Got more spin on it that way."

The Colgate show is by no means the last of NBC's efforts at super-variety. On Wednesday nights, starting in October, it will offer another big one on which Ed Wynn, Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante will be rotated week after week. N.B.C. seems to be staking its television future on the memories of its bright radio past. It is assuming that the comedian—especially the veteran Radio comedian—will be the top dog of video as he was of audio. C.B.S., on the other hand, is backing the hour-long drama. Personally, I think C.B.S. is on the right track, N.B.C. on the wrong one.Only time will tell which is the more far-sighted.

The Cantor show opens, as do so many of them these days, with a line of pretty girls in scanties singing and dancing like crazy as an interminate procession of credit lines rolls upwards on your screen. "Staged by..," "Costumes designed by...," "Stitched by..," 'Shoes by ...," (The bare feet in the closing ballet are the property of the girls.)

• — • — •

In the dear, dead days of Flo Ziegfeld and later with Sam Goldwyn, Mr. Cantor was always knee-deep in pretty, leggy girls, and he hasn't departed from that tradition on N.B.C.-TV. However, in the interval between Ziegfeld and N.B.C., Mr. C. has become what the army used to call a Very Important Person and he gets the VIP treatment.

From the opening number, when the chorus sings about how nice it is to have him back on Broadway, to the closing, when he sings a selection of his old songs, the program dwelt almost exclusively on the glories of Eddie's past. At one point, Mr. Cantor and the doorman of the doorman of the New Amsterdam Theater, where Eddie once held sway, reminsced about the old days of W. C. Fields, Will Rogers and, of course, Mr. Cantor.

Even the sketches were haunted by ghosts. Mr. Cantor participated in one as a disheveled army private driving a general out of his wits, which sounds like something out "Yip Yip Yaphank," and in another the clothing merchant who tries to sell a customer a lot of clothes he doesn't want which sounded suspiciously like Minsky's. Cantor, who has been on the stage virtually since enormous stage presence; he still the days of Brinsley Sheridan, has sings the old songs—"We're Having a Baby," "Now's The Time To Fall In Love," "Ain't She Sweet," "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me," and "Charlie, My Boy" — with an exuberance and vitality unmatched by any one except Al Jolson.

But I've never found him very funny, and I strongly advise him to get the smell of moth-balls out of his material if he expects to stand up against the very bright young comics on TV. The rest of the show is handsomely mounted, contains excellent dance numbers and a few songs from a young lady named Yma Sumac who is billed as possessing a "most remarkable vocal range." She has, too, and she also has remarkably expressive eyes, if you like that sort of thing. However, the first essay of the Colgate Comedy Theater is not anything you are going to hug to your breast for any length of time, and it leaves television about where it was — which is to say in the Milton Berle or Paleozoic Era.

NBC had already rather overreached itself in titling its big Saturday night review "The Show of Shows," thereby leaving no very sweeping monicker for its Sunday night extravagance. It's called simply the "Colgate Comedy Theater" — after the well-known university, I expect. NBC thus is casting down the gauntlet for CBS, which has the Ed Sullivan show on at the same time. Apart from the spectacular differences in the personalities, experience and general know-how of Mr. Sullivan and Messrs. Cantor, Martin and Lewis and Allen, the shows are pretty much alike and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if a hoofer who is with Mr. Sullivan one week would be over with the Colgate people the next. If you missed any of the sketches brought by guest comics to the Sullivan show, I'm sure you'll be able to catch up with them some time this winter on the Colgate show.

There was a superstition in the early days of TV, all of three years ago, that this medium would murder the vaudevillian, that his act would be dead as mutton after a single television performance. This turned out to be wholly false. The average vaudeville act, it seems, can play television almost as long as it did the old Keith-Albee circuit, the only difference being that it's playing to the same audience. We have already memorized the routines and are rapidly becoming experts on the techniques. "You should have seen him last week on the Berle show," you find yourself saying. "He arched his left eyebrow first, then delivered the snapper—half-face to the camera. Got more spin on it that way."

The Colgate show is by no means the last of NBC's efforts at super-variety. On Wednesday nights, starting in October, it will offer another big one on which Ed Wynn, Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante will be rotated week after week. N.B.C. seems to be staking its television future on the memories of its bright radio past. It is assuming that the comedian—especially the veteran Radio comedian—will be the top dog of video as he was of audio. C.B.S., on the other hand, is backing the hour-long drama. Personally, I think C.B.S. is on the right track, N.B.C. on the wrong one.Only time will tell which is the more far-sighted.

The Cantor show opens, as do so many of them these days, with a line of pretty girls in scanties singing and dancing like crazy as an interminate procession of credit lines rolls upwards on your screen. "Staged by..," "Costumes designed by...," "Stitched by..," 'Shoes by ...," (The bare feet in the closing ballet are the property of the girls.)

• — • — •

In the dear, dead days of Flo Ziegfeld and later with Sam Goldwyn, Mr. Cantor was always knee-deep in pretty, leggy girls, and he hasn't departed from that tradition on N.B.C.-TV. However, in the interval between Ziegfeld and N.B.C., Mr. C. has become what the army used to call a Very Important Person and he gets the VIP treatment.

From the opening number, when the chorus sings about how nice it is to have him back on Broadway, to the closing, when he sings a selection of his old songs, the program dwelt almost exclusively on the glories of Eddie's past. At one point, Mr. Cantor and the doorman of the doorman of the New Amsterdam Theater, where Eddie once held sway, reminsced about the old days of W. C. Fields, Will Rogers and, of course, Mr. Cantor.

Even the sketches were haunted by ghosts. Mr. Cantor participated in one as a disheveled army private driving a general out of his wits, which sounds like something out "Yip Yip Yaphank," and in another the clothing merchant who tries to sell a customer a lot of clothes he doesn't want which sounded suspiciously like Minsky's. Cantor, who has been on the stage virtually since enormous stage presence; he still the days of Brinsley Sheridan, has sings the old songs—"We're Having a Baby," "Now's The Time To Fall In Love," "Ain't She Sweet," "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me," and "Charlie, My Boy" — with an exuberance and vitality unmatched by any one except Al Jolson.

But I've never found him very funny, and I strongly advise him to get the smell of moth-balls out of his material if he expects to stand up against the very bright young comics on TV. The rest of the show is handsomely mounted, contains excellent dance numbers and a few songs from a young lady named Yma Sumac who is billed as possessing a "most remarkable vocal range." She has, too, and she also has remarkably expressive eyes, if you like that sort of thing. However, the first essay of the Colgate Comedy Theater is not anything you are going to hug to your breast for any length of time, and it leaves television about where it was — which is to say in the Milton Berle or Paleozoic Era.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

97-Pound Redhead Cools Off Wrestler

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (AP)—A 97-pound redhead told deputies today that she won an unscheduled bout with a six-foot-three-inch-270-pound wrestler who sports a page boy bob.

Furthermore, Evalyn Ruth Sloann, 23, a Hollywood private detective, wants Orbie Cleghorn, 35, prosecuted for conduct unbecoming a gentleman in a parked car.

Miss Sloan, a judo expert, said that Cleghorn tried some holds on her that are barred and strictly ungentlemanly. But, she told deputies:

"I clamped a few arm bars on him. That cooled him off and he let me alone."

Cleghorn, an operatic student who bills himself as "the Pagliacci of the Ring," told reporters a different story:

"She insisted on sitting on my lap."

Meanwhile, the sheriff's office said they will arrest the wrestler on a warrant charging assault with intent to commit rape.

Market Hits Four-Year High With Rails At 19-Year Peak

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The stock market lunged ahead to a new four-year high today. Rails on average highballed to a 19-year peak.

Gains ranged to around $2 a share. About 135 issues established new 1950 highs during the day while only two touched bottom for the period.

Trading volume ballooned as buyers clamored for stocks. Sales totaled 2,600,000 shares, largest in around seven weeks, and compared with 1,600,000 Tuesday.

Hard-hitting buying swept into the exchange the second the opening bell sounded. The crush of orders was so heavy that for a brief time the ticker tape fell behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped .8 of one point to 81.1. This was a top of Tuesday's rise of 1.1 point.

The market was the broadest since July 12 with 1,173 individual issues traded. Of these 783 advanced and 170 declined.

Pennsylvania R. R. headed the most active list, gaining ⅜ at 19⅝. Canadian Pacific was in second place, up ½ at 19⅝, and N. Y. Central in third, up ⅜ at 15½.

Other rails ahead included Frisco, Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Air Line, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific and Nickel Plate.

Callahan Zinc was the only loser among the 15 most active shares, dipping ⅛ to 2⅞. The company, a marginal producer, touched a 1950 high Tuesday, helped by booming prices for non-ferrous metals.

Western Union was unusually strong with a gain of 2½ at 39¼.

97-Pound Redhead Cools Off Wrestler

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (AP)—A 97-pound redhead told deputies today that she won an unscheduled bout with a six-foot-three-inch-270-pound wrestler who sports a page boy bob.

Furthermore, Evalyn Ruth Sloann, 23, a Hollywood private detective, wants Orbie Cleghorn, 35, prosecuted for conduct unbecoming a gentleman in a parked car.

Miss Sloan, a judo expert, said that Cleghorn tried some holds on her that are barred and strictly ungentlemanly. But, she told deputies:

"I clamped a few arm bars on him. That cooled him off and he let me alone."

Cleghorn, an operatic student who bills himself as "the Pagliacci of the Ring," told reporters a different story:

"She insisted on sitting on my lap."

Meanwhile, the sheriff's office said they will arrest the wrestler on a warrant charging assault with intent to commit rape.

Market Hits Four-Year High With Rails At 19-Year Peak

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The stock market lunged ahead to a new four-year high today. Rails on average highballed to a 19-year peak.

Gains ranged to around $2 a share. About 135 issues established new 1950 highs during the day while only two touched bottom for the period.

Trading volume ballooned as buyers clamored for stocks. Sales totaled 2,600,000 shares, largest in around seven weeks, and compared with 1,600,000 Tuesday.

Hard-hitting buying swept into the exchange the second the opening bell sounded. The crush of orders was so heavy that for a brief time the ticker tape fell behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped .8 of one point to 81.1. This was a top of Tuesday's rise of 1.1 point.

The market was the broadest since July 12 with 1,173 individual issues traded. Of these 783 advanced and 170 declined.

Pennsylvania R. R. headed the most active list, gaining ⅝ at 19⅝. Canadian Pacific was in second place, up ½ at 19⅝, and N. Y. Central in third, up ⅜ at 15½.

Other rails ahead included Frisco, Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Air Line, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific and Nickel Plate.

Callahan Zinc was the only loser among the 15 most active shares, dipping ⅛ to 2⅞. The company, a marginal producer, touched a 1950 high Tuesday, helped by booming prices for non-ferrous metals.

Western Union was unusually strong with a gain of 2½ at 39¼.

Kitzmiller Man Blames Politics For Indictments

Warrants Issued In School Strike

Dr. Ralph Calendrella, Kitzmiler, last night termed "a cheap political trick" indictments returned against six Kitzmiller residents on charges of conspiring to keep children of that area out of school.

He said he is a candidate for county commissioner on the Republican ticket while Earl Shank, another member of the committee, is seeking nomination for house of delegates on the Republican slate.

Warrants charging six residents of that area with conspiring to keep children out of school were being served yesterday by the office of Sheriff Juniper Teats.

Sheriff Teats said the men indicted were Dr. Calendrella, Carl Schell, Shank, Charles McIntyre, Frank Damon and Kenneth Bray.

Dr. Cadendrella reported last night at 8:30 o'clock that he had not received a summons.

He said he had not had time to confer with other members of the committee but clearly stated the group will put up a fight and said he presumed it will seek counsel to fight the charge "but not in Oakland."

When asked about the committee's attitude toward the continuance of the strike, Dr. Calendrella said the committee has nothing at all to do with the children being in or out of school since that is up to the parents.

He said, however, that the parents are still bitter about the situation and that the indictments will only increase the hard feelings.

Yesterday morning, only 22 of the anticipated 300 students turned up for school at Kitzmiller. At nearby Shallmar, eight of 45 students reported. West Vindex had six of 80 students in classes and at East Vindex, none of the 80 students answered roll call.

Opposition to a school reorganization program which would force Kitzmiller area students to travel to Oakland and demands for improvements in the Kitzmiller schools precipitated a dispute which led to a strike at Kitzmiller school last week.

The committee had asked the Garrett County School Board for a guarantee that Kitzmiller High School be eliminated from a program calling for all high school instruction at two new centers, one at Oakland and the other in The Cove section.

Petersburg Area Flood Passes

A flood scare which hit the Petersburg, W. Va., section earlier this week had abated yesterday as the Potomac River (South Branch) and Lunice Creek receded and rainfall diminished.

Both streams had risen to five and six feet above normal. Water crossed two state highways and a number of secondary roads. The road between Petersburg and Elkins, W. Va., was washed out in several places making one-way traffic necessary.

In everyone's mind were the sudden torrents in June of 1949, when nine lost their lives and damage ran into hundreds of thousands. Since then there has been a fear of high water at night.

The fire siren at Petersburg was blown when the streams rose early yesterday after a five-hour rain.

About 50 persons, many of them children, were evacuated from homes in the low-lying sections of South Petersburg Tuesday night. They moved into the schoolhouse. State police squads patrolled the area all night.

The evacuees moved back home after daylight came, along with assurances that the streams had crested. The heavy rain turned into a drizzle.

It has rained off and on since Sunday — 3.6 inches of rain.

West Virginia routes 28, in the Cabins section near Petersburg, and 42, between Petersburg and Maysville, were under water for a time. All roads were open to travel, however.

The high water also was reported at Franklin and Springfield.

Yule Decoration Plan Is Approved

Plans for new Christmas decorations on Baltimore Street were approved yesterday by directors of the Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

No decision was made, however, on the parade pending a canvass of merchants who would underwrite the activity.

CAP Meeting To Be Held Tonight

A second organization meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Cumberland Municipal Airport to discuss the formation of a local Civil Air Patrol wing.

They are Capt. Wood and Col. Andrews. CAP wings are organized as a part of national defense on a civilian basis, in cooperation with the Army Air Force.

All persons interested in flying are invited to attend, whether or not they are pilots.

The local group would be a part of the Martinsburg CAP Wing since the airport is located in West Virginia.

Senate Passes Parkway Bill

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway bill passed the U. S. Senate yesterday, according to a telegram the News received from Senator Millard E. Tydings.

The measure provides for the government to accept gifts of land to add to the present parkway site from Great Falls to Cumberland.

The House passed a companion measure several days ago. Now any differences in the two bills must be reconciled and then it will go to the President for signature.

The new lands would increase the width of the present parkway area along the old canal to an average of 100 acres per mile, and make other adjustments in the 150-mile long tract.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, this district, is the original sponsor of the idea for the parkway which will include a two-lane highway and vast recreation and sportsmen's areas along the low-level route from Cumberland to the nation's capital.

Bridge Club Will Hold Special Series

A "Queen City Special" series will be inaugurated tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom by the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club.

The special series will run consecutively for six weeks, to and including Thursday evening, October 19.

Besides the regular master points certificates issued at the weekly games, additional master points will be given to the two winners of the special series.

For the benefit of those unable to attend the entire session, only scores for the top four weeks out of the six will be counted.

Season tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Norman Taylor or from A. D. Heacox. Tickets are also on hand at the Fort Cumberland office.

Experts Seek Simple Terms To Describe Types Of Land

Experts of the Soil Conservation Service of this area began a conference here yesterday to devise down-to-earth descriptions of the types of land found in the Eastern United States.

The work is under the direction of O. C. Bruce, Upper Darby, Pa., regional chief of operations of the Soil Conservation Service.

Assisting are Dr. J. G. Steele, Washington; H. R. Adams, Upper Darby; Boyd J. Patton, Morgantown, W. Va., and M. F. Hershberger, College Park, all soil scientists.

The Allegany Soil Conservation District was represented by W. W. Nace, conservationist, David Crocker, unit conservationist, and Stuart Delbrook and Martin Gordon, conservation aides.

Bruce said the group is attempting to work out more effective ways of describing types of land.

Heretofore, virtually all information on land has been in technical language. What is being attempted is to work out a system for translating such scientific information into the language used by the farmers who will put suggested conservation plans into practice.

All of the work of the Allegany Soil Conservation District is based on aerial photographs indicating the topography of a present land use.

Information from the photos, plus surveys by soil scientists, provides complete maps of each farm, with types of soil and suggested land use clearly indicated.

For example, some of the level, well drained bottom land of Alleagny County can be farmed with little attention paid to conservation practices if it is not subject to floods.

On sloping land of the same character, however, farmers must use strip cropping and some fertilizer.

Sloping lands underlaid by shale is generally rather acid and needs fairly heavy applications of lime to grow good alfalfa and similar grasses.

Limestone land on slopes, Bruce said, is generally better land but is subject to erosion and needs more intensive conservation practices.

If the system devised here to indicate more of the possibilities and limitations of types of soils works out, it may be adopted over the Northeastern region, Bruce said.

Exchange Club Votes $300 For Brace Clinics

Service Club Aids Handicapped Children

A donation of $300 was voted by the Cumberland Exchange Club at a meeting Tuesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to continue its aid to handicapped children.

This was reported yesterday by W. D. Newberry, club president.

For the second consecutive year, the club will sponsor brace clinics held by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

This involves payment of $30 each for the ten clinics held throughout the year to cover expenses of the bracemaker, C. D. Denison, who comes here from Baltimore to each clinic.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the League, said that average attendance at the clinics last year was 30 children.

Ninety new braces were fitted and delivered at the clinics, and approximately 300 adjustment and repair jobs were done.

Meanwhile, Newberry also announced yesterday that the Exchange Club has purchased three "walkers" and two invalid chairs.

In addition, the club hopes to purchase two wheel chairs.

All will be available to the public on a loan basis without charge.

One of the "walker" devices, which are designed to aid persons who have been ill to learn to walk again, is adjustable so that it can be used by a child or an adult.

The "walkers" cost about $100 each and the chairs about $90 each.

Loan of the devices can be obtained by contacting the Exchange Club committee in charge, which includes Boston Sherwood, J. Walter Byer and Charles L. George.

Newberry also reported that the club is planning to place penny candy vending machines in various business places throughout the city in the next week or so.

The club will receive 10 per cent of the gross sales from the 60 machines, with the funds to be used for its welfare work.

Similar machines have been used in Baltimore by the Maryland School for the Blind and have proved quite successful, Newberry said.

R. C. Burkhart, president and a member of the wage negotiation committee, said the negotiations opened Monday. He termed the meeting a preliminary one devoted to a presentation of the union's request for the increase suggested by the URCLPWA policy committee.

That included a request for a 25 cent increase to take care of economic conditions as of July, a flexible plan for subsequent cost of living increases and six cents an hour for inequities at the Kelly plant.

Wage talks will resume today at 10 a. m., he added.

Also slated at Saturday's meeting is a report of the CIO summer school from Stanley Zorick and Patrick Atkinson.

Chas. H. Knotts Is Freed On Old Larceny Charge

Charles H. Knotts, of this city, was freed yesterday by Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown in connection with a five-year-old larceny charge.

Knotts had been arrested in a car theft charge here and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. He escaped, was arrested in a second car theft case and given two more years, plus a year for escape.

He got out this week and was taken to Hagerstown for trial before Judge Mish on the larceny charge.

The larceny case involved a theft at the P. T. Little and Sons General Store, Honcock, in 1945. About $95 worth of merchandise was taken and an attempt made to steal a safe.

Judge Mish said he believed the man had served enough time and five years imprisonment was enough to pay for experiences resulting from the original offense.

The Weather

If you thought yesterday was wet, you were perfectly right. The skies deposited 1.14 inches of rainfall on the city over a 24-hour period, the heaviest since back in July. However, the ground is still dry and there was little runoff. The mercury got in a rut and stayed there, varying only three degrees from the high of 63 to the overnight reading of 60. Today should be rather cloudy and slightly warmer, with scattered showers.

Word has been received here that Lt. Comdr. Robert J. Durette, 33, a Navy combat veteran and jet plane pilot, has been missing since Monday on a flight from Pomona Naval Air Station near Atlantic City, N. J.

Comdr Durette is a native of New Hampshire and attended the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis prior to World War II. He served in the Pacific Theater for several years.

Mrs. Burke went to Pleasantville as soon as word was received that her son-in-law was missing. No details are available; however authorities said the missing veteran was on a routine flight with two other jet planes. He failed to return although the other planes landed safely.

County Poultry Producers To Make Area Tour

Event Scheduled For September 25

Invitations have been mailed to approximately 100 poultry producers in Allegany County to attend a tour and demonstration on Monday, September 25.

This was announced yesterday by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

One or two school buses, depending on attendance, will be chartered for the trip, starting from the Court House that morning at 9:30.

The group will go first to the farm of Roy and James Twigg at Spring Gap, where a large laying flock will be inspected and a demonstration given of proper feeding methods.

Next stop will be at the Paul Robinette farm on Murleys Branch Road to inspect a flock of over 1,000 laying pullets.

There a talk will be given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, on "Flock Management for Egg Production."

The group will make its final stop at the Richard Stegmaier farm on Williams Road, where Stegmaier conducts a business of producing eggs for hatching. The farm has 400 breeding hens and over 1,000 breeding pullets.

A program will be conducted at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at City Hall by Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company here.

Richardson will give a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

In the event of rain, poultry producers will meet at 9:30 a. m. at City Hall, where Rice and Richardson will give their talks and motion pictures will be shown.

Action Deferred On School Job

Action on additions to Flintstone School must be deferred until definite information is received on the costs of three mandated schools, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, announced yesterday.

Construction of the first, at Mt. Savage, is well under way.

Plans for a new school at Lonaconing are in the final stages and preliminary work on a third school at Ellerslie is progressing, he said.

When bids on the Flintstone construction project were opened recently, the George Construction Company here submitted a low bid of $550,380.90.

Dr. Kopp said the fact that the bids were some $200,000 more than the estimated costs led school officials to conclude that building costs have advanced materially.

The board, he said, decided it could not proceed with the project until all facts on cost and available funds are compiled.

Freight Car Shortages Cited

Freight car shortages are beginning to show up in various sections of the country, members of the Tri-State Traffic Club were told last night at their dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The causes, as developed in a panel discussion, are due to a combination of sharp increase in demand, slight decrease in supply, and serious loss in the utilization of cars, principally because of the prevalence both in industry and on the railroads of the working week of five days instead of six.

Increased demand is the result of greater military requirements, increased stockpiling and inventory buying, and consumer purchasing.

Orders for new freight cars show a total of 122,000 now on order, and assurances of governmental and industry assistance in obtaining steel for such a program have been received.

Interstate commerce commission directives to bring partial restoration of war time heavier loading, higher demurrage charges and other restrictions on the use of freight cars are to be expected, it was stated.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of C. Eugene Howell, Clarence E. Gehr, Andrew N. Phillips, W. J. Armbruster and John L. Carnochan.

Kitzmiller Man Blames Politics For Indictments

Warrants Issued In School Strike

Dr. Ralph Calendrella, Kitzmiler, last night termed "a cheap political trick" indictments returned against six Kitzmiller residents on charges of conspiring to keep children of that area out of school.

He said he is a candidate for county commissioner on the Republican ticket while Earl Shank, another member of the committee, is seeking nomination for house of delegates on the Republican slate.

Warrants charging six residents of that area with conspiring to keep children out of school were being served yesterday by the office of Sheriff Juniper Teats.

Sheriff Teats said the men indicted were Dr. Calendrella, Carl Schell, Shank, Charles McIntyre, Frank Damon and Kenneth Bray.

Dr. Cadendrella reported last night at 8:30 o'clock that he had not received a summons.

He said he had not had time to confer with other members of the committee but clearly stated the group will put up a fight and said he presumed it will seek counsel to fight the charge "but not in Oakland."

When asked about the committee's attitude toward the continuance of the strike, Dr. Calendrella said the committee has nothing at all to do with the children being in or out of school since that is up to the parents.

He said, however, that the parents are still bitter about the situation and that the indictments will only increase the hard feelings.

Yesterday morning, only 22 of the anticipated 300 students turned up for school at Kitzmiller. At nearby Shallmar, eight of 45 students reported. West Vindex had six of 80 students in classes and at East Vindex, none of the 80 students answered roll call.

Opposition to a school reorganization program which would force Kitzmiller area students to travel to Oakland and demands for improvements in the Kitzmiller schools precipitated a dispute which led to a strike at Kitzmiller school last week.

The committee had asked the Garrett County School Board for a guarantee that Kitzmiller High School be eliminated from a program calling for all high school instruction at two new centers, one at Oakland and the other in The Cove section.

Petersburg Area Flood Passes

A flood scare which hit the Petersburg, W. Va., section earlier this week had abated yesterday as the Potomac River (South Branch) and Lunice Creek receded and rainfall diminished.

Both streams had risen to five and six feet above normal. Water crossed two state highways and a number of secondary roads. The road between Petersburg and Elkins, W. Va., was washed out in several places making one-way traffic necessary.

In everyone's mind were the sudden torrents in June of 1949, when nine lost their lives and damage ran into hundreds of thousands. Since then there has been a fear of high water at night.

The fire siren at Petersburg was blown when the streams rose early yesterday after a five-hour rain.

About 50 persons, many of them children, were evacuated from homes in the low-lying sections of South Petersburg Tuesday night. They moved into the schoolhouse. State police squads patrolled the area all night.

The evacuees moved back home after daylight came, along with assurances that the streams had crested. The heavy rain turned into a drizzle.

It has rained off and on since Sunday — 3.6 inches of rain.

West Virginia routes 28, in the Cabins section near Petersburg, and 42, between Petersburg and Maysville, were under water for a time. All roads were open to travel, however.

The high water also was reported at Franklin and Springfield.

Stream Samplers

Shown above standing on the Baltimore Street bridge over Wills Creek are two men who are working with the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, taking stream samples in this section. They are lowering an ordinary pressure cooker into the water to get their samples. The survey is primarily concerned with industrial wastes in the river from the Garrett County line to a point above Paw Paw, W. Va. It will be completed tomorrow.

Yule Decoration Plan Is Approved

Plans for new Christmas decorations on Baltimore Street were approved yesterday by directors of the Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

L. V. Shinnamon, chairman, said an entirely new scheme of Yule decorations will be used.

Still under consideration is a huge balloon parade to usher in the Christmas season here.

No decision was made, however, on the parade pending a canvass of merchants who would underwrite the activity.

CAP Meeting To Be Held Tonight

A second organization meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Cumberland Municipal Airport to discuss the formation of a local Civil Air Patrol wing.

Two officers from the Martinsburg, W. Va., Wing, CAP Squadron, will discuss the method of setting up such a group and what equipment is available.

They are Capt. Wood and Col. Andrews. CAP wings are organized as a part of national defense on a civilian basis, in cooperation with the Army Air Force.

All persons interested in flying are invited to attend, whether or not they are pilots.

The local group would be a part of the Martinsburg CAP Wing since the airport is located in West Virginia.

Officers are expected to be appointed at tonight's meeting.

Experts Seek Simple Terms To Describe Types Of Land

Experts of the Soil Conservation Service of this area began a conference here yesterday to devise down-to-earth descriptions of the types of land found in the Eastern United States.

The work is under the direction of O. C. Bruce, Upper Darby, Pa., regional chief of operations of the Soil Conservation Service.

Assisting are Dr. J. G. Steele, Washington; H. R. Adams, Upper Darby; Boyd J. Patton, Morgantown, W. Va., and M. F. Hershberger, College Park, all soil scientists.

The Allegany Soil Conservation District was represented by W. W. Nace, conservationist, David Crocker, unit conservationist, and Stuart Delbrook and Martin Gordon, conservation aides.

Bruce said the group is attempting to work out more effective ways of describing types of land.

Heretofore, virtually all information on land has been in technical language. What is being attempted is to work out a system for translating such scientific information into the language used by the farmers who will put suggested conservation plans into practice.

All of the work of the Allegany Soil Conservation District is based on aerial photographs indicating the topography of a present land use.

Information from the photos, plus surveys by soil scientists, provides complete maps of each farm, with types of soil and suggested land use clearly indicated.

For example, some of the level, well drained bottom land of Allegany County can be farmed with little attention paid to conservation practices if it is not subject to floods.

On sloping land of the same character, however, farmers must use strip cropping and some fertilizer.

Sloping lands underlaid by shale is generally rather acid and needs fairly heavy applications of lime to grow good alfalfa and similar grasses.

Limestone land on slopes, Bruce said, is generally better land but is subject to erosion and needs more intensive conservation practices.

If the system devised here to indicate more of the possibilities and limitations of types of soils works out, it may be adopted over the Northeastern region, Bruce said.

Senate Passes Parkway Bill

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway bill passed the U. S. Senate yesterday, according to a telegram the News received from Senator Millard E. Tydings.

The measure provides for the government to accept gifts of land to add to the present parkway site from Great Falls to Cumberland.

The House passed a companion measure several days ago. Now any differences in the two bills must be reconciled and then it will go to the President for signature.

The new lands would increase the width of the present parkway area along the old canal to an average of 100 acres per mile, and make other adjustments in the 150-mile long tract.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, this district, is the original sponsor of the idea for the parkway which will include a two-lane highway and vast recreation and sportsmen's areas along the low-level route from Cumberland to the nation's capital.

Bridge Club Will Hold Special Series

A "Queen City Special" series will be inaugurated tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom by the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club.

For the benefit of those unable to attend the entire session, only scores for the top four weeks out of the six will be counted.

Season tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Norman Taylor or from A. D. Heacox. Tickets are also on hand at the Fort Cumberland office.

Exchange Club Votes $300 For Brace Clinics

Service Club Aids Handicapped Children

A donation of $300 was voted by the Cumberland Exchange Club at a meeting Tuesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to continue its aid to handicapped children.

This was reported yesterday by W. D. Newberry, club president.

For the second consecutive year, the club will sponsor brace clinics held by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

This involves payment of $30 each for the ten clinics held throughout the year to cover expenses of the bracemaker, C. D. Denison, who comes here from Baltimore to each clinic.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the League, said that average attendance at the clinics last year was 30 children.

Ninety new braces were fitted and delivered at the clinics, and approximately 300 adjustment and repair jobs were done.

Meanwhile, Newberry also announced yesterday that the Exchange Club has purchased three "walkers" and two invalid chairs.

In addition, the club hopes to purchase two wheel chairs.

All will be available to the public on a loan basis without charge.

One of the "walker" devices, which are designed to aid persons who have been ill to learn to walk again, is adjustable so that it can be used by a child or an adult.

The "walkers" cost about $100 each and the chairs about $90 each.

Loan of the devices can be obtained by contacting the Exchange Club committee in charge, which inludes Boston Sherwood, J. Walter Byer and Charles L. George.

Newberry also reported that the club is planning to place penny candy vending machines in various business places throughout the city in the next week or so.

The club will receive 10 per cent of the gross sales from the 60 machines, with the funds to be used for its welfare work.

Similar machines have been used in Baltimore by the Maryland School for the Blind and have proved quite successful, Newberry said.

R. C. Burkhart, president and a member of the wage negotiation committee, said the negotiations opened Monday. He termed the meeting a preliminary one devoted to a presentation of the union's request for the increase suggested by the URCLPWA policy committee.

That included a request for a 25 cent increase to take care of economic conditions as of July, a flexible plan for subsequent cost of living increases and six cents an hour for inequities at the Kelly plant.

Wage talks will resume today at 10 a. m., he added.

Also slated at Saturday's meeting is a report of the CIO summer school from Stanley Zorick and Patrick Atkinson.

Chas. H. Knotts Is Freed On Old Larceny Charge

Charles H. Knotts, of this city, was freed yesterday by Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown in connection with a five-year-old larceny charge.

Knotts had been arrested in a car theft charge here and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. He escaped, was arrested in a second car theft case and given two more years, plus a year for escape.

He got out this week and was taken to Hagerstown for trial before Judge Mish on the larceny charge.

The larceny case involved a theft at the P. T. Little and Sons General Store, Honcock, in 1945. About $95 worth of merchandise was taken and an attempt made to steal a safe.

Judge Mish said he believed the man had served enough time and five years imprisonment was enough to pay for experiences resulting from the original offense.

County Poultry Producers To Make Area Tour

Event Scheduled For September 25

Invitations have been mailed to approximately 100 poultry producers in Allegany County to attend a tour and demonstration on Monday, September 25.

This was announced yesterday by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

One or two school buses, depending on attendance, will be chartered for the trip, starting from the Court House that morning at 9:30.

The group will go first to the farm of Roy and James Twigg at Spring Gap, where a large laying flock will be inspected and a demonstration given of proper feeding methods.

There a talk will be given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, on "Flock Management for Egg Production."

The group will make its final stop at the Richard Stegmaier farm on Williams Road, where Stegmaier conducts a business of producing eggs for hatching. The farm has 400 breeding hens and over 1,000 breeding pullets.

A program will be conducted at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at City Hall by Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company here.

Richardson will give a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

In the event of rain, poultry producers will meet at 9:30 a. m. at City Hall, where Rice and Richardson will give their talks and motion pictures will be shown.

Action Deferred On School Job

Action on additions to Flintstone School must be deferred until definite information is received on the costs of three mandated schools, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, announced yesterday.

Construction of the first, at Mt. Savage, is well under way.

Plans for a new school at Lonaconing are in the final stages and preliminary work on a third school at Ellerslie is progressing, he said.

When bids on the Flintstone construction project were opened recently, the George Construction Company here submitted a low bid of $550,380.90.

Dr. Kopp said the fact that the bids were some $200,000 more than the estimated costs led school officials to conclude that building costs have advanced materially.

The board, he said, decided it could not proceed with the project until all facts on cost and available funds are compiled.

Freight Car Shortages Cited

Freight car shortages are beginning to show up in various sections of the country, members of the Tri-State Traffic Club were told last night at their dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The causes, as developed in a panel discussion, are due to a combination of sharp increase in demand, slight decrease in supply, and serious loss in the utilization of cars, principally because of the prevalence both in industry and on the railroads of the working week of five days instead of six.

Increased demand is the result of greater military requirements, increased stockpiling and inventory buying, and consumer purchasing.

Orders for new freight cars show a total of 122,000 now on order, and assurances of governmental and industry assistance in obtaining steel for such a program have been received.

Interstate commerce commission directives to bring partial restoration of war time heavier loading, higher demurrage charges and other restrictions on the use of freight cars are to be expected, it was stated.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of C. Eugene Howell, Clarence E. Gehr, Andrew N. Phillips, W. J. Armbruster and John L. Carnochan.

U. N. FORCES ATTACK TO SEAL GAP

House Group Due To Act Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee today promptly approved a special bill to let Gen. George C. Marshall serve as Secretary of Defense, but House committeemen decided to think it over a couple of days.

President Truman personally asked Congress to write an exception—in Marshall's case alone—into the existing law which bars a military man from holding the No. 1 civilian defense post.

The Senate committee approved the bill requested by the White House, 10 to 2. The House Armed Servies Committee, headed by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), postponed action until Friday. Several members were out of town, and Vinson said he considered the matter so important he wanted the full committee on hand.

House Unit's Approval Seen

Nevertheless, informal expressions of opinion from members of the House unit indicated the legislation would go through there, too, although some lawmakers were reluctant to cast aside the tradition of civilian control over the nation's military establishment.

The President, taking note of these objects, wrote Vinson and Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the Senate Armed Services Committee: "I am a firm believer in the general principle that our defense establishment should be headed by a civilian. However, in view of the present critical circumstances and of Gen. Marshall's unusual qualifications. I believe that the national interest will be served best by making an exception in this case."

Tydings told newsmen it was clear that Mr. Truman wanted the exception to apply to no other person than Marshall, to no other circumstances, and to no other time in the future.

Marshall Succeeds Johnson

Under the 1947 unification law, an officer who has served in the armed forces within the past 10 years is ineligible to become Secretary of Defense.

The clause was originally written to safeguard civilian control over national defense and prevent a military dictatorship.

However, most Congress members agreed that Marshall, with his record as a former secretary of state, ranks high in the category of civilian-statesmen as well as being a great military leader.

Mr. Truman named the 69-year-old General to succeed Louis A. Johnson, long a stormy petrel in the defense post, late yesterday afternoon. Johnson has served 18 months, succeeding the late James V. Forrestal.

Showdown Due In House Today On Profits Levy

32 Republicans Ask Immediate Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—Thirty-two House Republicans joined today in an announcement that they will oppose any adjournment of Congress without action on an excess profits tax.

They did not insist, however, that such a super-tax on business necessarily be incorporated in the pending $4,508,000,000 tax increase bill which leaders are seeking to send to a joint Senate-House conference for final adjustment. They would be satisfied with action in a separate measure—just so the action was taken before Congress quit.

Showdown Due

The Democratic leadership has been talking about an excess profits tax only in terms of action after a vacation, probably in January. And Scott Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader in the Senate, said again today he is going to try to wind up business in that body Saturday.

The fight over the issue comes to a head tomorrow. Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) served notice in the House today that he will move to insert the profits levy into the general tax bill. The prospects are for a slam bang battle.

The 32 Republicans favoring immediate action on excess profits served notice that some of their group will vote against sending the tax bill to conference "unless the Democratic leadership gives positive assurance that Congress will not adjourn before voting on an excess profits tax bill."

3 Democrats Urge Action

Explaining their view, the Republican members said:

"It is intolerable to send American youth into battle, or even to freeze wages and prices, without at the same time removing the excess profits resulting from war."

Almost simultaneously with the Republican statement, Eberharter and three other Democrats—Young of Ohio, Carroll of Colorado and King of California—sent a joint letter to all House members urging action now.

Ten Arrested As FBI Smashes Big Lottery Ring

Tickets Offered For Sale In Maryland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Acting on a tip by Canadian Mounties, the FBI today arrested 10 persons to smash what was described as a $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests following a series of pickups extending from California to New York.

Nine men were named in Hoover's announcement, and the FBI in Los Angeles later announced the arrest of the tenth, identified as the son of one of the principals.

Hoover said an estimated $2,000,000 in sweepstakes tickets based on the running Dec. 26 of the Christmas two-year-old stakes race at Knutsford Park, Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I., had been printed by a Miami, Fla., printing concern and shipped to distributors in Canada, New York, California, Ohio, Texas, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Special FBI agents in Miami yesterday seized from a printing concern, which was not identified, lottery tickets having a face value of $450,000, Hoover said. At Miami the firm was identified as the Franklin Press.

Plates from which the tickets were made were seized, Hoover said, and the arrests of persons he described as "world agents" and "exclusive agents" for tickets sales in several states followed today.

Hoover's statement said the action of the FBI took place before the lottery tickets could be put on sale in any quantity. He said the tickets were offered for sale for $1.25 and $1.50 in Canada.

The announcement said all those arrested are being charged with conspiracy to violate the federal law against interstate transportation of lottery tickets.

Man Who Posed As Doctor Jailed

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A man who posed as a doctor for five years, held jobs in a half-dozen hospitals and delivered hundreds of babies — with no doctor's license and no medical education — went to jail for one year today.

William R. MacLeod, 37, pleaded guilty to illegal practice of medicine after he was tracked down and investigated for a lesser offense — not making payments on an automobile.

A Canadian who never had any more education than elementary school in Brownsville, Me., and high school in Quebec, MacLeod had been a railway clerk and held other odd jobs before he entered the U. S. Army in 1941.

Becoming a private, first class, in the Army Medical Corps he spent his spare time reading medical books. After leaving the Army in 1945, he decided he was ready to practice.

With forged diplomas from two European medical schools, MacLeod got himself registered with a recognized medical agency here.

SEATTLE, Sept. 13 (AP)—A Scholarly research job at the University of Washington was called off today because parents objected to the photographing of their daughters in the nude.

A university spokesman said it was all the result of a "misunderstanding." But he added that the 300 negatives taken so far would be destroyed.

Sponsors said the project had been going on for 15 years at a dozen different schools and referred to it as the "somatotype" (type of body build) project.

But to parents of the girls it was just full length, nude photographs of their daughters — both front and profile views.

University officials said the misunderstanding arose from the fact that because of a heavy registration the girls had not been told, as planned, that the photographing during routine physical examinations was purely voluntary.

The photos were being taken by Miss Barbara Honeyman, executive director of the Constitution Laboratory at the Columbia University medical school. In New York, the university said similar photographs had been taken earlier at such schools as Chicago, Iowa, Harvard and Columbia.

Engineer Says "Spirit" Ran Through Stop Light Before Crashing Into Troop Train

Streamliner Going Too Fast, Probe Told

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad's "Spirit of St. Louis" was running late, going too fast and ran through a stop signal as it ripped into a stalled troop train, its ashen engineer testified today.

William E. Eller, 68-year-old railroad veteran with 48 years' service, was the key witness at an inquiry into the predawn Ohio tragedy that killed 33 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen Monday.

The open hearing—conducted by the railroad, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Ohio Public Utility Commission and the Army—lasted nearly five hours.

Report Will Be Written

ICC Commissioner W. J. Patterson said at its conclusion:

"When we get the record, a report will be written and made public.

"If it turns out any law was violated that is administered by the commission, then we can take punitive action."

A parade of witnesses occupied the stand in the dingy hearing room on the ninth floor of the Pennsylvania's ancient terminal and office building.

But none took the spotlight from Eller, a spare, bespectacled graying man who has been under a doctor's care since the crash.

Streamliner Half-Hour Late

He said his New York to St. Louis passenger streamliner left Pittsburgh 29 minutes late and lost another minute enroute. He said he reduced his speed but "not enough" at the first signal approach block before the stalled train near Coshocton, Ohio.

Railroad regulations require that speed be reduced to 30 miles an hour at an approach block preparatory to coming to a complete halt at the next stop and proceed sign.

Eller said he "guessed" he was going 50 miles an hour at the time.

A tape taken from a speed recording machine in the Spirit's Diesel engine and introduced as evidence showed the train was moving at approximately 70 miles an hour just prior to the crash and at 50 miles an hour after the emergency brakes were applied.

Jersey Minister Aims To Be Fair

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP)—Rev. Earl H. Devanny, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said today he aims to be fair about discussion of future life.

On Sunday his sermon topic will be, "What Is Heaven Like and How To Get In."

His topic the following Sunday will be, "What Is Hell Like and How To Get In."

Contempt Action Against 3 Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committe asked today for a contempt of Congress action against Earl Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Philip Jaffe, who refused to answer questions in the committee's communist injury.

The proposal, originally made by the subcommittee which investigated charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of red infiltration in the State Department, goes to the Senate. If that body approves, the citation will be referred to the U. S. district attorney here for prosecution. Conviction carries a penalty of a year in jail plus a fine.

Neither Browder, one-time leader of U. S. communists, nor the other witnesses could be reached immediately for comment.

Committee action against the three, voted 9 to 0, came as Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) predicted that public opinion will force President Truman to sign his catch-all anti-communist bill.

That measure was passed by the Senate yesterday, 70 to 7. Mr. Truman has said he would not sign the original McCarran bill and the major change in that measure as it went through the Senate was addition of a section to put communists in internment camps in case of war, invansion or insurrection.

Takes Drastic Action

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A woman whose husband said she was despondent over house cleaning took her own life yesterday.

Mrs. Natalie Cusick, 34, was found in the kitchen of her Queens apartment overcome by gas fumes from the stove.

Poland Protests

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Poland protested to the United States today that American authorities are "discriminating" against the Polish liner Batory in New York harbor.

Polish Ambassador Jozef Winiewicz complained at the State Department that the liner's crew is not permitted ashore and is exposed to "chicanery" (trickery) when questioned by U. S. immigration authorities.

Unified Europe Defense Given Big 3 Backing

Eventual German Participation Seen

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Big Three foreign ministers were reported tonight to have reached substantial agreement on the principle of forming a unified military force for the defense of Western Europe.

Sources close to the secret conversations here said that creation of a combined force for such a defense must take precedence over any organization of German military units.

These German military units, however, when and if finally created, would be expected to participate in the defense force in some manner.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France talked for almost six hours today in morning and afternoon meetings.

After the conversations informed sources said that the three ministers appeared to be approaching decisions along the following lines:

1. Agreement on measures for German internal security by strengthening the German police force and retaining basic control of that force in the state government.

2. Organization of a unified military staff to set up what Bevin wants to call "the forces of the free world for the defense of Europe."

3. Probable eventual German military participation on some carefully controlled system in the European defense forces.

The question of organizing German military units is so delicate, however, that there was a possibility that the meeting of the three ministers might end next week without announcement of any decision along that line.

Ministers To Review Far Eastern Policies

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — A sweeping review of Far Eastern policies, including the divisive issue of relations with Red China, is now set for the Big Three foreign ministers meeting here in the next day or so.

European problems of defense and German rearmament are taking so much time that the ministers have had to move back their schedule and Asian questions for today at least were put aside. Secretary of State Acheson, however, has brought in a staff of experts and advisers headed by Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and including authorities on Northeast Asia, China-Formosa and Southeast Asia.

The British-French-American attack on Far Eastern problems will not be aimed so much at producing agreement as it will be at preventing the Russians from making present disagreement worse.

Actor Defends Adoption Agency

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP)—The spotlight on a Memphis, Tenn., adoption agency—under investigation for reportedly selling infants at a profit—swung today toward filmland.

Several movie notables, among them Joan Crawford and a famous married couple, June Allyson and Dick Powell, have adopted children from the institution—the Tennessee Children's Home Society.

Today Powell issued a statement in which he strongly denied that he paid an exorbitant sum for the child the Powells adopted in 1948. A Tennessee welfare official yesterday asserted that the traffic in babies ran to $1,000,000 and some foster parents "have paid sums of as much as $750 in each case while the average cost of transporting the babies has been less than $100."

Powell's statement said:

"The Tennessee children's home of Memphis, Tenn., is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the world. I know this to be a fact as June and I got our baby, Pamela, there. I have every confidence in Georgia Pann, who is in charge of the home.

"I did not pay one cent for the privilege of adopting Pamela, other than transportation to and from Memphis for Mrs. Alma Walton who works with Mrs. Pann and who came to Hollywood to investigate my background before the adoption of Pamela was possible."

Actor Cabot To Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP) — Actor Bruce Cabot said today he plans to marry Francesca De Scaffa, Portuguese beauty, next Sunday at the ranch of a friend near Houston, Tex.

U. S. Planes Salvo Rockets, Destroy 71 Enemy Tanks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Air Force said today that planes salvoing eight armor-piercing rockets at a time destroyed 71 North Korean tanks from Sept. 1 to Sept. 12.

Lt. Gen. George Stratemeyer, commander of the Far Eastern Air Forces, has made his report to Gen. Hoyt S. Vanderberg, Air Force chief of staff. The report said the confirmed score during the period was 71 tanks destroyed and 73 damaged.

Stratemeyer said these victories were scored by planes of the 5th Air Force.

An Air Force spokesman said these results indicate that the Air Force's new tactic of firing all eight of a plane's rockets simultaneously is proving more effective than anything else tried to date.

Emergency Arms Bill Is Approved By Senate Group

Legislation Carries Estimated 17 Billion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee tonight unanimously approved an emergency defense bill carrying an estimated $17,185,000,000 to bolster the United States and friendly nations abroad against aggression.

The committee added about $414,000,000 to the total in the bill approved by the House Aug. 26 by a vote of 310 to 1.

The House bill would provide $16,771,000,000. The Senate figure was fixed tentatively at $17,185,000,000, pending recapitulation of last-minute changes made by the committee.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), committee chairman, reported the bill immediately to the Senate, which probably will begin debate on it tomorrow. Speedy passage is expected.

The bill meets almost fully President Truman's request for emergency funds to finance the fighting in Korea and to prepare against communist aggression wherever it might crop up.

In addition to about $11,640,000,000 to build America's own defenses, the bill carries $4,000,000,000 to help arm friendly nations abroad.

The measure provides cash for 5,333 new war planes.

The Senate bill adds about $93,000,000 to the House total for American defense. The increase includes $40,000,000 more for replacement of Navy ships, $18,000,000 for Army medical and hospital care, $10,000,000 for Navy medical care, and $25,000,000 for an air engineering development center near Tullahoma, Tenn.

One item in the proposed Senate legislation is $76,000 for the Secret Service to provide greater protection for the President and his family.

In a series of actions, the committee:

1. Rejected President Truman's request for $139,800,000 to move key government offices outside the range of an a-bomb attack on the nation's capital.

2. Approved $60,000,000 for administration of the new economic controls law, signed by Mr. Truman last week, and $6,000,000 for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

300-Lb. Unlocked, Empty Safe Stolen

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP) — Thieves could have saved themselves a lot of trouble at a ready-mix cement plant early today.

They broke in through a window, carried out a 300-pound safe, loaded it in a truck and drove away.

The safe was unlocked, company officials said.

Besides, there was no money in it.

Drive Opened About 35 Miles East Of Taegu

Walker Promises Early Offensive

TOKYO, Sept. 14 (Thursday) (INS)—Big guns from cruisers and destroyers of the American and British fleets began pounding the port of Inchon Wednesday 160 miles from the present ground fighting in the United Nations South Korean beachhead.

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 14 (AP) — United Nations forces attacked today on the northern front, striving for a solid defense line to protect a buildup for a promised offensive against the Korean Reds.

Cheered by the U. N. field commander's word that they will break out of their defense box soon, Americans and South Koreans drove eastward this morning. Their mission was to close a gap of four and one-half miles on the eastern end of the northern wall.

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price said South Korean infantry was shoving ahead with support from American planes and artillery. He placed the action about 35 miles east of Taegu, cornerstone of the U. N. defense.

The hole that needed plugging was just west of Red-held Angang where the communists broke through 11 days ago, then unaccountably failed to exploit it.

The attack was a continuation of what the U. S. Eighth Army communique this morning called an effort to "establish a strong line."

South Koreans Advance

To this end during the past 24 hours, the communique said, the South Koreans Third and Capital Divisions, aided by American units, strengthened defensive positions along the road linking Angang with the Red-held east coast port of Pohang. These units, it said, made "limited attacks to gain tactical objectives."

The South Korean Eighth Division, the communique added, advanced 2,000 to 3,000 yards north and east of the area around Yongchon, 20 miles east of Taegu.

On the close approaches to Taegu, U. N. forces and the Reds see-sawed in bitter but small actions for control of the hills north and northwest of the key communications center.

The communique said U. S. First Cavalry Division troopers made "successful" attacks Wednesday afternoon for hills about seven miles northwest of Taegu and another one nine miles to the north. However, a Red counterattack forced the Americans to give up two hills southeast of Waegwan, it said. Waegwan is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

Trap Closed On 3,000 Reds

Artillery shells fell four miles southwest of Taegu this morning. It was believed a Red assault was under way until it was learned the shells came from practicing South Korean batteries.

In a frontline tour over muddy roads on a rainy Wednesday, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker told U. N. troops "we will take the offensive in a very short period of time."

Plane pilots this morning spotted Reds retreating north across a river in the vicinity of Yonil, south of Red-held Pohang on the east coast. It was in this general area— between Pohang and Angang — that a former West Point football star led a task force in closing a trap yesterday on 3,000 Reds.

At the southern end of the front Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said a Red attack at 8:30 a. m. (6.30 p. m., EST, Wednesday) overran a platoon of the U. S 25th Division. The Americans immediately launched a counterattack. Swinton said the battle was continuing.

Beer-For-GIs-In-Korea Row Foams Up On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—A beer-for-the-boys in-Korea controversy foamed up on Capitol Hill today.

On one side, Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) proposed a daily beer ration for every fighting man on the house—at the taxpayers' expense, that is.

On the other side, Rep. Bryson (D-SC) urged that everybody — soldiers and civilians alike—go on the wagon for the duration.

Both proposals came on the morning after an Army order in Tokyo stopped the distribution of a can of beer a day, for free, to every combat man who wanted one. It seems there had been complaints from some people back home.

Army officials quickly modified the ban after howls of anguish arose. Hereafter, no beer will be bought with public funds. But the can-a-day system will continue — for front-line troops only—and will be financed from such sources as post exchange profits.

This didn't satisfy Dingell.

"Water in Korea is deadlier than bullets," he declared, and went on to list the maladies that might overtake a confirmed water drinker — typhus . . . cholera . . . dysentery.

Introducing a bill to provide free beer, the Michigan Democrat asserted:

"To force our American troops to drink dangerously polluted water is the equivalent of an attack from the rear by infiltration."

Bryson contended nobody should touch the stuff—beer, that is—in times like these. He already has introduced a bill to outlaw alcoholic beverages in time of emergency.

Five Senators Renominated

[By The Associated Press]

Five senators — three Republicans and two Democrats — have been renominated in primary elections that just about complete major party slates for nationwide voting Nov. 7.

Every House member seeking renomination also was successful in Tuesday's contests involving 41 House seats in eight widely scattered states.

In the hottest Senate fight, Sen. Charles W. Tobey squeezed out a 1,127-vote victory over 34-year-old Wesley Powell for the GOP nomination in New Hampshire. Tobey, 70, hailed the result as "a victory for a forward-looking brand of Republicanism."

Powell called for a recount.

The only other senator with a primary fight was Arizona Democrat Carl Hayden. He trimmed two opponents.

Renominated without opposition were Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash), George D. Aiken (R-Vt) and Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo).

Primaries later this month in Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Wisconsin will complete the ballot for the November voting.

Navy Plans To Reopen Bainbridge, Md., Base

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said today that plans are underway to reactivate Bainbridge, Md., as a naval training base.

The Air Force has asked the Navy for the big World War Two training base for its own use, Tydings said, but the Navy itself plans to reopen the grounds.

The 1,100-acre tract on the Susquehanna River at its peak during the war had 35,000 officers and enlisted men.

Violent Earthquake Again Rocks Assam

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 13 (AP)—Reports from North Assam said a 90-minute series of earth tremors more violent than the Aug. 15 earthquake shook the area today.

Seismographs registered the Aug. 15 quake as the world's fifth severest shock. Unofficial counts placed last month's death toll at 5,000, but Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said after a flying tour of the stricken area that he doubted that more than 1,000 had lost their lives.

Monaghan Criticizes Marshall Appointment

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Hugh J. Monaghan, campaigning for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate, today criticized President Truman's appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall to head the Department of Defense.

Monaghan said it endangered Gen. MacArthur's position in the Far East.

"It must be recalled," he declared, "that Gen. Marshall sided with 'Vinegar Joe' Stilwell in his feud with Nationalist China, and as presidential 'expediter,' Mr. Marshall was responsible for the 18-month embargo on Nationalist China that ended in the Chinese communist conquest of the mainland of China."

3 Women Injured When Cable Falls

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—A seven block long section of a heavy cable fell to the street in Queens today, injuring three women shoppers and smashing tops and hoods of four parked cars.

One woman suffered a broken arm, the others cuts and bruises.

The cable supplied current to an elevated section of subway trackage and was suspended beneath the elevated. Police said it had been sagging and came tumbling down while repairmen were trying to fix it. The weight of the cable—not electricity—did the damage.

Senate Unit Endorses O'Dwyer's Nomination

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — William O'Dwyer, who resigned as mayor of New York to accept nomination as ambassador to Mexico, got an 8 to 0 endorsement today from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) voted "present."

The Iowan had taken up the greater part of the committee's sessions yesterday and today questioning O'Dwyer about his record as Brooklyn district attorney before he became mayor.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters that Hickenlooper's inquiries today related principally to a gangster murder case, and whether there had been "neglect" in its prosecution.

Last Leader Of GAR Dies At Age Of 101

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 13 (AP)—The Grand Army of the Republic's last commander, Theodore A. Penland, died today at the age of 101.

He entered the veterans hospital yesterday and died of a failing heart at 11 a. m. today.

The Civil War veteran, full of chuckles and spry until very recent years, attended a Los Angeles convention of the affiliated orders of the GAR last week.

Penland was elected commander of the GAR at the 1948 encampment at Grand Rapids, Mich. It was decided then that the handful of veterans would meet just once more—their 83rd meeting—and then call it quits. That last convention was held in Indianapolis where the first was held.

Stripper's Accuser Won't Present Proof

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP)—Edward Clamage, the Chicago legionnaire who publicly questioned Gypsy Rose Lee's political views, said today he does not plan to present any proof of charges against her.

In a statement issued through the American Legion's Illinois Department office, Clamage said "my statement to x x x the American Broadcasting Company was based on information contained in the publication, Red Channels, copyrighted by American Business Consultants, Inc. x x x

"The entire matter could be easily clarified and the answer should come from the publishers of Red Channels."

Clamage told the Illinois Legion convention Monday that Miss Lee was reported to be "a close associate of x x x traitors."

Mean What You Say And Say What You Mean

This year's congressional election is likely to be decided on the basis of what the American electorate thinks about the Korean War. Every politician realizes that this is true—that domestic issues will play a subordinate part—and the argument over who is to blame for what has already begun.

It will go on and on because it is inevitable and because almost any number of questions can be listed under the general heading.

Before it becomes too involved and too confused, however, there may be a chance to point out some lessons that the United States must learn in order to play this game of power politics in which it is involved on a global scale.

One of these lessons is that any nation taking a hand in this game needs to know what it wants and just how specific problems fit into the general framework of its policy. It must not try to do more than it can. And it must make its intentions clear. To say that its aim is peace and that it supports the United Nations is not enough to avert such situations as the one in Korea.

For the truth is that the average American did not realize that this country would fight to defend South Korea until the North Korean army had moved across the Thirty-eighth Parallel. Earlier this year, when the whole question of U. S. policy in the Far East was under hot discussion, Secretary Acheson said that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines were vital to U. S. security. The inference was that Formosa was not, and he did not mention Korea.

If Washington had known what it meant to do, preparations could have been made to stop the war quickly should it come. If there had been less vacillation in Washington, Russia might not have precipitated the attack. If the government knew its own mind, and failed to reveal it, that was as bad as not knowing its mind.

It is the business of the party in power to think these things through. But what Americans need to realize, whether they hold official positions or not, can be put in some well-worn words: The nation must learn to mean what it says, and to say what it means.

The Virus And The Ion

The advent of the atomic age and the rapid advance in radio and its related fields in the last few years have added some strange words to the reading vocabulary of the layman. He has learned to recognize such terms as electron, proton, neutron, ion, fission, fusion and confusion. The last named was already well known, but such a significant addition has been made lately that it is worth mentioning in any list of the terms of the atomic era.

Now some scientists have notions of fooling around with the ions and such in the human body. The medical sciences also have put some new words before the public in the last few years, and one of the most arresting of these is virus. We are told that viruses cause poliomyelitis, influenza, one kind of pneumonia, measles, mumps, and maybe the common cold. Prof. Theodore T. Puck, of the University of Colorado Medical Center, reports that he has discovered a relation between the activity of a virus and the behavior of ions, which are particles of matter carrying an electric charge. Certain kinds of ions are necessary to the attack of a virus on body cells, other kinds of ions can prevent it. This is only a fragmentary beginning, yet even by belittling it Puck suggests the idea that someday ions might be used to ward off virus diseases.

There is an immediate and sore temptation to tell the professor that he can mess around in his laboratory to his heart's content, but should leave our personal ions alone. But if he can find a way to guard us from a cold in the head, come January, he is more than welcome to our ions.

Still Punching

What has been happening in Korea for more than a week has provided a strong antidote to any easy optimism. A front that was supposed to have been stabilized has been shot through with holes by ferocious North Korean drives. An enemy who was supposed to have only one punch left has mustered the manpower and armor to mount the greatest offensive of the war and is now regrouping his forces for still another drive.

It is encouraging to find high-ranking U. S. officers in Korea and in Tokyo still showing guarded optimism about the ability of the American line to hold despite these latest reverses. They should be in the best position to know the facts of the situation.

But it is obvious that, though hostilities do not spread beyond Korea, the U. S. still has a long, hard and bloody fight ahead on that peninsula. After almost three months of fighting, U. S. forces still are on the defensive, and have all but run out of terrain. The North Koreans still have enough power to blast deep breaches in MacArthur's lines. U. S. forces need many more men and weapons before they can begin a counter-offensive.

There is also the constant danger that the Russians may start a war on another front while most of this nation's combat strength is tied up in Korea.

Rearming The Germans

The West German Federal Republic will not be an unarmed state much longer. Soon it will receive permission from the occupying powers to create and possess military strength. Just how this is to be done is still to be determined—but the decision to do it can be considered as made.

John J. McCloy, U. S. High Commissioner for Germany, has been in consultation with high government officials in Washington. McCloy has been stressing the danger inherent in the so-called police forces the Russians are building in East Germany. He has been urging steps to counter this threat.

Figures on the size of the East German forces vary somewhat. McCloy estimates there are 100,000 men in the "police" and perhaps 50,000 in the "alert" units now being trained in the use of heavy weapons. Some informed guesses are higher. But McCloy's figures are high enough to cause concern. They indicate that Russia has plans to make Germany into another Korea.

In the face of that potential peril, Allied policy toward Germany is undergoing rapid changes.

Some people seem to think they have a sound argument because they are noisy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Measles According To Schedule

MEASLES is on the rampage thruout several parts of the country. In Illinois, for example, in the first six months of this year, 14,964 cases were reported in contrast to a total of 5,820 cases in the entire year of 1949.

The malady is one of the most contagious of childhood diseases and statistics reveal that all except about three per cent of the population encounter it at some time in life. Apparently there is no natural immunity except in infants under six months of age. Babies acquire enough protection from their mothers to hold them over this period.

• — • — •

Measles often descends upon a community in epidemic proportions and in New York City, for example, this is likely to take place on the even years. In addition, the ailment is more prevalent in cold weather and, if it follows its usual course, reaches ebb tide in September. Transmission occurs through direct contact with any one who is ill. The air surrounding the victim is contagious, more so if the child has been coughing. The bedclothing and dishes also carry the virus but the organisms do not live long in the open air. As a result, it is virtually impossible for a third party to acquire the disease from one who has visited a patient in the hospital or the home across the street.

Symptoms vary considerably but in a case that is running true to form fever develops on the tenth day after exposure. This is the first sign of the malady and most mothers think the little one is coming down with a cold. Twelve hours later, the eyes become inflamed and irritated and 12 hours from then nasal catarrh appears. These are not necessarily clews that measles is in the making and at this stage there still is every reason to believe that a cold is responsible.

The physician, however, will look along the inside of the cheeks, opposite the first molars, for Koplik's spots: tiny light dots surrounded by small red inflamed halos. These lesions occur only in measles and develop from 36 to 48 hours ahead of the skin rash. All physicians look for them because, when discovered, the youngster can be isolated a day or two ahead of time. This means less contact for the child and fewer cases in the neighborhood.

The rash comes last and, when it arises on schedule, usually makes it debut 14 days after the initial exposure. The eruption begins on the face and frequently behind the ears and spreads in a downward direction; by the third day the entire body is covered. The lesions fade in the order of their appearance and, as a rule, are gone within five days.

When recovery begins, it often proceeds rapidly. A father may bid goodbye to his ailing son or daughter in the morning when he leaves for work; on his return home at dinnertime the tot virtually will be cured. The temperature drops, catarrh begins to clear up, the miserable feelings disappear, and appetite returns. The older the child, the better the outlook. For this reason, gamma globulin generally is reserved for younger members of the family. This serum may not prevent the disease but will lighten its course.

Tomorrow: Malnutrition in the midst of plenty.

HEMATURIA AFTER COLD

C. R. writes: On three occasions when I caught cold I have had blood in the urine. It appears at no other time. May I have your opinion?

REPLY

These are recurrent attacks of kidney infection, which have been precipitated by your colds. This situation is difficult to overcome unless you make every effort to prevent the development of respiratory infections. If a long enough interval elapses between colds, the kidney disorder may have an opportunity to clear up.

HOW CONTRACTED

B. T. writes: How is paratyphoid contracted?

REPLY

Just like typhoid: thru drinking polluted water or infected milk or eating contaminated food.

GOGGLES AND EYES

Mrs. G. B. writes: My 14 year old son likes swimming and deep diving. He wears water goggles and they must fit tight. Do you think they would affect his eyes in any way.

REPLY

No, unless water seeps thru them. In the circumstances, the ensuing irritation may cause redness, burning, and tearing.

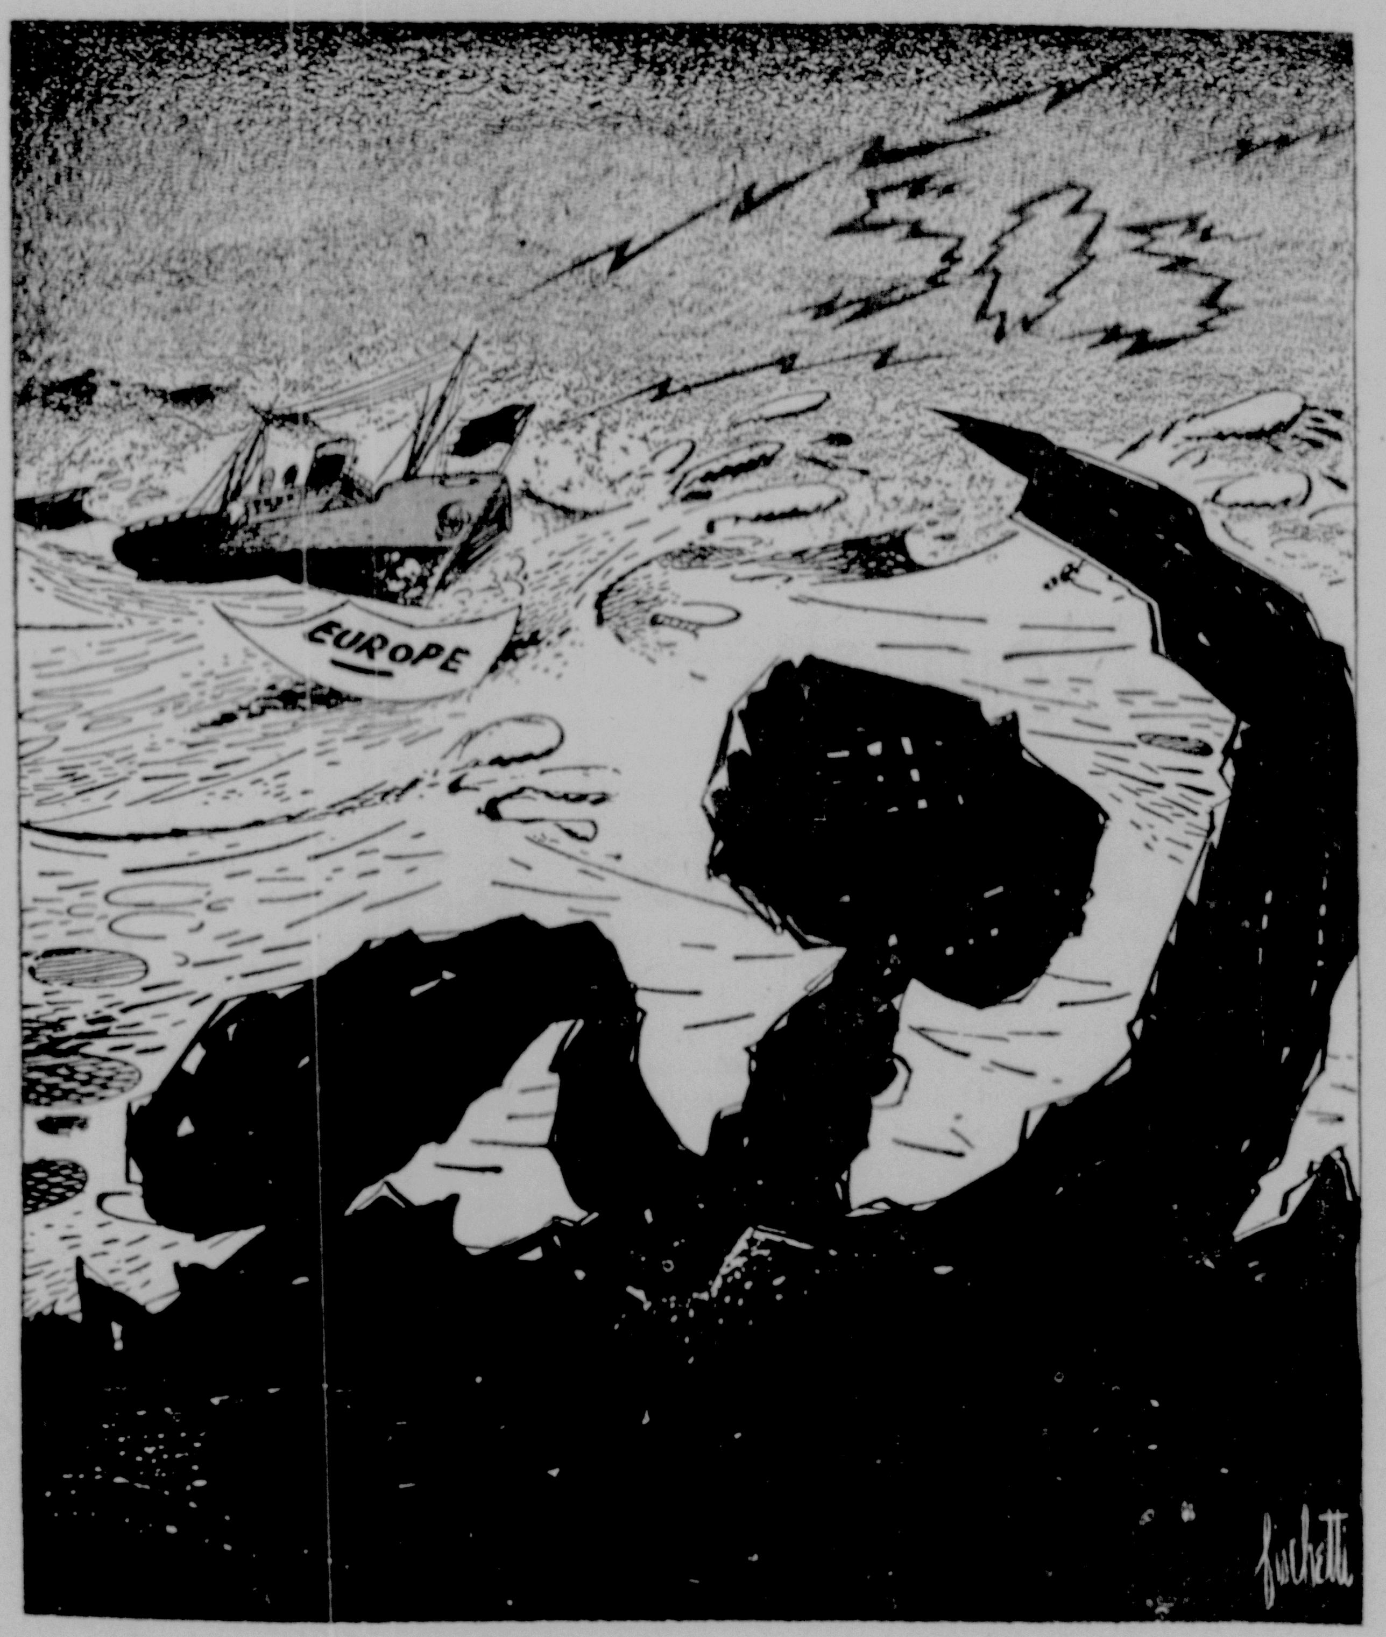
TRUTH THERAPY

B. W. E. writes: Do all psychiatrists administer the truth serum?

REPLY

The truth is, I don't know but the sedative is not difficult to administer and I presume that any one of them could give it if the treatment is indicated.

TREACHEROUS REEF



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Sometimes the President's off-the-record remarks that never reach the papers are his best. Those present thought this was the case when Truman addressed the joint session of the AFL-CIO last week.

Speaking without notes and obviously straight from the heart, the President made a plea for tolerance in wartime.

To a considerable extent is was a historical speech. The President reviewed the different periods of hysteria which have gripped the country—the Alien and Sedition Act in the early days of the republic, the Know-Nothing party, and Ku Klux Klanism.

He pointed out that the Know-Nothing party had been anti-Mason. The Klan, he recalled, was first against the negro; then when revived in the 1920's, against the Jew and the Catholic.

These were evidences of intolerance which did not truly represent the American people, he said, and he was absolutely confident that the good judgment of the American people would always win out.

The President did not mention the Mundt-Nixon Bill or the McCarran Bill, but it was obvious he had them in mind. For he referred to Congressional witch-hunters who wave the American Flag while persecuting alien immigrants and trampling on the rights of loyal Americans.

"This is the raw material of totalitarianism," he said.

While fighting the intolerance of totalitarianism, he emphasized, we must not take on the methods of totalitarianism. Recalling that totalitarian regimes had persecuted labor unions, religious groups and fraternal organizations, he pointed out that under the Alien and Sedition Act, naturalized citizens hardly dared say anything in public about the government for fear of being thrown in jail, and this, he inferred, might also happen under the Mundt-Nixon and McCarran bills.

Free Lobbying Mail

There was at least one senator who, though agreeing with the political theories of lobbyist Edward Rumely and his committee for constitutional government, refused to euchre the publi out of extra money through abuse of the franking privilege. He is Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Some senators, however, including Dick Russell of Georgia, did not object to the idea of using their free mailing privilege to send lobbying propaganda for the ex-German agent through the mails.

Here are interesting notes from the letters of Homer Dodge, Washington representative, to his boss, Dr. Rumely, convicted of being an agent of the Kaiser in World War I:

"Senator Russell was very cordial and will frank the Richberg statement if necessary. He would rather not as he is up for election this year. He referred me to Senator Eastland (Mississippi) who also is up for election but who does not expect any labor votes and does not need any. I sincerely hope we can find a new senator in Mr. Eastland who will cooperate on extensions and franking, as in an election year especially, so many members of both houses appear to be terrified of charges of misuse of privileges.

"Senator Byrd surprised me by saying there is a law against sending franked envelopes out of Washington and he will not disregard it. He mentioned what he called difficulty with the misuse of the frank by former Senator Burke. The matter of the Richberg extension is now back in Senator Eastland's hands and he is to discuss it further with Senator Russell. All three, including Byrd, think the address will be widely circulated. I rather think Senator Russell will be the one who will agree in the end."

He Told It To the Marines

Most people don't know it, but when President Truman ousted Adm. Louis Denfeld as Chief of Naval Operations last year, he also planned to oust Gen. Clifton Cates as commandant of the Marine Corps.

Cates was a strong ally of Denfeld in the B-36 row between the Navy and the Air Force. However, public reaction to Denfeld's ouster was so hot that the President changed his mind about relieving General Cates.

Net result was that no love was lost between Mr. Truman and the Marine Corps commander; so that the President—who has a long memory for those who ever cross him—was not anxious to eat crow last week.

When General Cates was called to the White House, therefore, he got a formal though polite greeting. Speaking a little stiffly, the Commander-in-Chief told the Marine Corps commander that he was making a public apology to the Marines "for the good of the country" and the war effort. He added that he had been too hasty and his words were too strong.

However, he felt that there were some grounds for his reference to the Marines' propaganda activities. As an instance, he cited the terrific pressure he was getting to give the Marines a voice on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

NOTE — General Cates, himself, has not been averse to this pressure. If the Marines were made part of the Joint of Chiefs of Staff, he would become the Marine Corps representative on it.

Slapping a Good Neighbor

Last spring flags along Constitution Avenue read "Welcome Gonzalez Videla!" as the President of Chile paid an official visit to the U.S.A. A good part of Washington turned out, plus President Truman and all the Cabinet to greet the head of the neighbor nation which had banned communism and was considered one of the best democratic friends of the United States.

President Videla did not ask for anything when he came to Washington. He did not need to. For the State Department has long known that what Chile wants most is to have our 2 cents per pound excise tax on copper held in abeyance.

All during the war, because we needed copper badly, this tax was held in abeyance, since what it actually amounted to was a penalty against the American people and the U.S. Army-Navy.

Shortly after President Videla had gone back to Chile, however, Congress literally slapped him in the face by restoring the tax against copper. Reverberations from below the Rio Grande were painful and quite serious.

Since then the House of Representatives has voted to suspend the tax; but, despite repeated urging by President Truman, the Senate has not.

A handful of Rocky Mountain senators from copper areas is the reason why. Senators Hayden and McFarland of Arizona, where the Phelps Dodge copper mines are located, have led this bloc, and so far have been successful in stymieing about 80 other senators, plus the House of Representatives. Most interesting of all, however, is the fact that Sen. Tom Connally, who has made speech after speech championing the good neighbor policy, in this case has voted the other way.

NOTE—Unfortunate fact is that Latin Americans who don't understand the intricacies of our legislative system and think that Truman should be able to control Congress, consider the copper tax a slapdown by the entire United States.

MATTER OF FACT

Farewell To The Battalion

TOKYO.

ONE of the odder rules of war seems to be that all the good people are at the front and all the odious people are at higher headquarters. Besides the gratitude of the civilian to the fighting man, the observer also feels curiously grateful to the men in the lines for their unvarying hospitality. On leaving Korea for a few days, this reporter therefore proposes to write a sort of bread and butter letter to the members of the 1st Battalion of the 27th Infantry Regiment, who were his hosts for some time when they were brilliantly winding up a very tough job.

What makes a good battalion, is the letter's theme. Wherein lies the secret of such a fighting team? "In the men themselves," is the obvious first part of the answer.

In the 1st Battalion, there is, for example, Capt. Logan E. Weston, now wounded, but lately commander of Able Company. When Able Company was attacked by a heavy force of night-infiltrating enemy infantry, Weston rallied his men. He rushed two enemy machine guns single-handed and destroyed them with grenades. Although sorely hit, he continued to command the fight until ammunition ran short. Under heavy fire, he sought the ammunition bearer. Wounded again, he plunged back into the struggle. And only when the enemy fled at last, did he collapse from loss of blood.

Scores Of Others

Or there is Cpl. Arthur Prater, who got the Silver Star in the battalion's first action for carrying rations and water to a company that was cut off. Prater has bad feet, but prefers staying with the outfit to accepting a medical discharge. Or there is Acting Supply Sgt. Clurion Grigsby, who drove into the middle of an enemy armored column when he was bringing equipment from the rear. Grigsby seized a bazooka, leaped from his weapons carrier and got a North Korean tank at ten yards range.

Or there are many scores of others, in this small outfit of a few hundred, who are not so very different from those who have been named. At first, these men of the 1st Battalion impress you as individuals, some clever, some less clever, some mature, some incredibly young, but almost all lean, hard, good tempered and businesslike about their task of fighting. Then, as you listen to the talk among them, you are struck by the way that shared experience knits them together.

Of experience also, the 1st Battalion has had a generous helping in only six short weeks. On that first day on the Waegwan front, when Prater got his decoration, the battalion was attacked by no less than 2,000 enemy infantry, moving forward in columns behind six tanks. Baker Company's position was utterly overrun. The lead tank was halted almost at the entrance of the battalion command post.

But the battalion stood firm and shot it out until the North Koreans ran; then rapidly regrouped to meet a night attack on its flank and covered the rice paddies with North Korean dead. That, they tell you, was how the outfit was made.

Or there was the long reconnaissance in force, when the whole battalion drove into enemy territory for twenty-seven miles beyond Chindong, was cut off for twenty-four hours, and briskly fought its way back. That time, two tank drivers were killed. Volunteer replacements were called for. Two men who had once driven bulldozers stepped forward. And the tanks rumbled back into our lines with a cook and a medic at their wheels.

Good Leadership

Or there were a score of other skirmishes and actions each variously memorable, all matters of pride. Hearing these discussed, watching still another fight that would also be recalled, one gradually realized that there was yet one

Policy On Germany Will Affect Soviet Thinking

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 — The most ticklish subject in international relations today is whether or not to rearm Germany. The policy adopted by the Council of Foreign Ministers, now in session in New York, will have a more profound effect on Soviet thinking and strategy than anything that could happen in the Far East.

For the question of rearming Germany revives the age-old fears of the Russians concerning a strong standing army in Germany which could invade their territory. Fear of Germany was basic in the first alliance that Stalin made with Hitler in 1939 and fear of the restoration of German military power is probably to no small extent responsible for the buffer-state complex of the Soviets which has led to the infiltration of the Balkan countries immediately adjacent to Soviet Russia.

Military men here have speculated from time to time on the reasons why Moscow has been so anxious to control Eastern Germany as well as Poland and why she has felt that the governments of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria must be under Soviet control. A defense psychology is historically strong in Russian military planning.

Momentous Development Possible

For these reasons, the world may witness a momentous development when a policy is finally agreed upon by the United States, France and Great Britain with respect to German rearmament. It could be, on the one hand, a provocation to early military action by the Soviets in the event that they come to believe they must act now to overrun Europe before it is too late. It could, on the other hand, be the very leverage which would force an over-all agreement on world problems between the East and the West.

The North Atlantic Pact and the military assistance agreement are to the Russians mere blueprints that may never be effectively translated into standing armies. The rearming of Germany, however, is a concrete step. It could bring a climax in world affairs.

The French attitude toward rearming Germany has been negative because of the very same kind of fear that has been manifested by the Russians. Indeed, France and Russia were allies for many years because they had a common problem—fear of Germany's military power.

Many plans have been suggested as a compromise so as to take care of the apprehensions of the French. One plan calls for a German army which would be intergrated into an allied force and would have top-level commanders from the allied staff. This may be all right as a starter, but in the end it will be found that the morale of any army and its fighting spirit is more important that the uniforms or insignia allotted to them. Mercenary troops never do as well in combat as those who volunteer. It is patriotism and love of country which basically makes an army powerful.

Certain Independence Suggested

Unless the Germany army is given a certain independence and is permitted to feel that it is defending the people of Germany against Soviet attack and not just doing the bidding of foreign powers, no rearmament scheme will succeed. Conversely, if the old nazi generals are brought back and given positions of responsibility, this will antagonize various groups in Britain, France and America.

So the whole problem contains many delicate aspects and will have to be resolved on the basis of a calculated risk. The Soviet army today could march across Germany and into France without difficulty. Air power, which has been counted on to stay their progress, has not much chance to succeed without substantial forces of ground troops.

The allies will have to make up their minds soon whether to risk a rearmed Germany or a sovietized Germany. For if the Germans are unable to defend themselves, the Soviet armies will occupy the country and the allies will find themselves driven from all of the continent with the possible exception of Spain, where military men say the Pyrennes mountains would provide an effective barrier against invaders.

The real answer lies in what kind of government Germany is to have and whether the allies are going to nurture a real republican Germany and give it the moral and material support which they failed to give a similar effort on the part of Germany in the early 1920's. Ultimately the German people will have to be admitted into the family of nations.

There is no reason why the German nation cannot become a part of the free world, and anti-militaristic, too. But this will not happen if the German nation is to be treated indefinitely as a vassal or as a tool for somebody else's defense.

The time to face up to the German problem has arrived. It involves far more than rearmament on a military basis. It involves the rebuilding of Germany itself as a republic with the help and material support of the Western nations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The New York Manner

THE Democrats in New York State would have nominated James Farley to the governorship had he been willing to accept, but the genial Jim is not politicking that way. It is interesting that he had the courage to denounce the current method of balancing Catholic, Protestant and Jew on the tickets of both parties. He said outright that it was Un-American to play it that way. Nevertheless, that is the way it is being played.

The Democratic candidate, Walter Lynch, a member of the House of Representatives, is hardly known outside the Bronx. In fact, he is not too well-known, outside of political circles, even in the Bronx. That in no way infers that he is incapable of being governor of the largest state in the union; but it is likely to mitigate against his election.

Three factors make it difficult for him to achieve his ambitions:

1. Judge Albert Conway, a jurist of outstanding repute, who was to have been nominated, was thrown off the ticket by Louis Hollander, state head of the CIO, who accused Judge Conway of being anti-labor, anti-negro and just a niche above Robert A. Taft. The charges were false but effective.

In Democratic circles, the question arises: Who inspired Louis Hollander to make such charges about so reputable a man? Until that question is answered, many Democrats will vote against the candidate of the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. And as long as it is believed that Herbert Lehman was in on the deal, a great many Democrats will stay away from the polling booths.

2. As a member of Congress for 12 years, Lynch has been a faceless representative, voting strictly as a rubber stamp. Ordinarily, this would have stood him in good stead in a state where organization politics helps a candidate.

But the Korean war is raising many questions regarding national and international policies, and the new deal and the fair deal (why these are cited separately, I don't know) are not as popular as they used to be. There is much explaining to do, and Herbert Lehman's opposition to the McCarran Anti-Communist Bill will not get him the communist or left-wing vote.

3. Thomas E. Dewey has never been a popular man but he has always been respected for his competence, efficiency and integrity. The voters of the state are accustomed to what is generally called his "coldness," which sometimes gives the impression of egocentricity, but they like his achievements, his hard work and the decency of his administration, which compares favorably with much that happens in Washington as well as New York City.

Mr. Lynch will have difficulty in attacking that record. On the other hand, Lynch will be supported by the so-called Liberal party, which is a mildly socialist outfit managed by David Dubinsky and adequately financed. This group has, in the past, been able to poll about 400,000 votes. They may do better than that in this campaign because many who used to vote for the communists on the vehicle of the American Labor Party may vote the Liberal party as the easiest way to soothe their progressive consciences.

Nevertheless, at this stage, nobody doubts that Thomas E. Dewey will be re-elected as governor. Whether he will be able to carry Joe Hanley, his former lieutenant-governor, into the United States Senate against Herbert Lehman is not so certain.

Until a week before the Republican convention, Hanley was the candidate for governor and the Republicans expected to be defeated. He removed himself to make room for Thomas E. Dewey and was given the senatorial nomination. However, Lehman is a wonderful vote-gatherer by the New York device of playing the minorities. And there are a large number of minorities in New York and they all have votes. The very factors in Herbert Lehman's record which would damage him in other parts of the country, serve him well in this cosmopolitan state. So, he may win.

Against him is a weariness with what someone called "The Men of Yalta." It was this idea which eliminated Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Oscar Ewing. It is the idea that there has been something very wrong during the past 10 years and that men associated with power during that decade are not electable.

I should not be surprised if this becomes the issue of the 1950 campaign.

Williams Road Contract To Go To Local Firm

The contract for rebuilding one mile of Williams Road was awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Commissioner James Holmes made the motion to accept the low bid of $166,799.40 and it was seconded by Commissioner William H. Lemmert, acting chairman in the absence of Board President Charles N. Wilkinson.

The other bid on the project was $172,273.85, submitted by the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company, this city.

In a letter from the State Roads Commission, Morris M. Brodsky, assistant comptroller, advised the board to accept the low bid, although it was over $20,000 higher than the state's estimate. He pointed out that the increase was due to the rising costs of labor and materials.

This project, the commissioners pointed out, is the last of the federal aid road projects under which the county can participate.

Under the program, Commissioner Lemmert stated, the federal government contributes a sizeable amount of the funds.

In the two other Federal aid projects in which the county has participated, Mill Run Road and Lower Town Creek Road, the overall cost was $134,781.03.

Of this amount, the county has contributed slightly over $60,000. "To go ahead with the Williams Road job," Lemmert said, "is good business as far as the taxpayer is concerned."

The county will be required to pay an additional $22,896.84, plus the cost of the survey, on the Williams Road job.

Commissioners Holmes and Lemmert explained that when the county receives its share of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle funds from the state, which amounted to over $42,000 this year, it can apply the money to the cost of the project, which will not be completed until after next July.

Commissioner Holmes declared that the county is doing well to participate in this final project, as the cost of constructing roads will undoubtedly be higher in the future.

The job will eliminate a dangerous curve in addition to widening the narrow road.

Junk Dealer To Be Prosecuted

Immediate legal action against Leon Glessner, the operator of a Wright's Crossing junk yard near Frostburg, was voted yesterday by the County Commissioners for failure of Glessner to comply with the state law governing business of that type.

Glessner appeared before the County Commissioners in April and informed them that he would house his junk after residents complained, Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes announced.

The building was to be erected in 60 days. On June 1 at the end of the deadline, the commissioners pointed out, the building had been constructed, but he had not appeared to apply for a permit.

A new state law passed to cover four counties, including Allegany, requires that any one operating a junk yard within 500 feet of a residence, must house the materials and get a permit from the county commissioners.

Commissioners Holmes and Lemmert said Glessner has had since June 1 to appear before the board, and has failed to do so.

Upon contacting his attorney, Clarence Lippel, the board learned that Glessner was reported to have been sick and unable to appear.

County Attorney Gorman Getty and the two commissioners, all of whom live in the George's Creek section, said they have seen Glessner sitting in front of his place.

Matter Of Fact

more ingredient in this puzzling entity, the 1st Battalion. And this ingredient of course was good leadership.

From the wiry, unpretentious little battalion commander, Lt. Col. G. J. Check, down to Baker Company's massive, fatherly 1st Sgt. George S. Hearn, the 1st Battalion's leaders sedulously avoid any appearance of panache, preferring a good salty joke to any military heroics. But by the hard, poorly rewarded, unremitting work of these men, the battalion's companies organize each new position as though by instinct; the rifle platoons flinch from no shadows but are always ready, day and night; the tank crews and the mortars cooly aim their fire, whether the battle goes well or ill; the bazooka teams, lonely in their forward foxholes, keep vigil until the time comes for their task. By leadership and training, with courage and experience, the battalion does its job.

Such then is the 1st Battalion, no assemblage of saints and when on occupation duty rather notoriously the opposite, but a fighting team that will go forward without counting costs; will hold an exposed position against heavy odds; will uncomplainingly endure great hardships; will see its own men fall and quietly close the ranks. Many have fallen. When this reporter watched the blanket covered litters being brought down the mountainside, he found himself recalling Simonides' great epitaph on the Spartans at Thermopylae. It was inscribed on the mounment erected in the pass by the Lacedaemonian state. The dead speak:

"Go stranger and in Lacedaemon tell
"That here, obedient to the laws, we fell."

But these men were not Spartans, drilled, beautiful and unthinking. They were Americans, fighting not for iron laws, but for a good life and a good society. And if perchance the good life and the good society survive in this now-darkening world, it will be to such men as these, simple, perhaps, inarticulate perhaps, but bold, tough, ingenious and free, that the great debt will be owed.

Marshall's Call To Defense Post Is Second Emergency Since War

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—The selection of Gen. George C. Marshall as Secretary of Defense is the soldier-statesman's second emergency call to high office since he sought retirement and rest after helping hammer out the victory of World War II.

And the assignment would put the civilian high command in the hands of a man who has been combating communist aggression one way or another almost since the day he laid aside his Army uniform.

The 69-year-old General of the Army, Chief of Staff in the last war, was first called out of retirement to serve as Presidential envoy to China, trying to work out a settlement of the political crisis which finally has brought nearly all the huge Oriental nation under Red domination.

He moved from that assignment to the office of Secretary of State where he had much the same job of heading off communist encroachment, on a world-wide scale.

Ill health forced him out of the latter post and since his recovery after a serious operation his "rest" has consisted of supervising, as chairman, the tremendous activities of the American Red Cross.

Quiet, soft-spoken and modest, Marshall has a friend and backer in almost every top level official and leading Congress member in Washington.

One of the most enthusiastic of these is President Truman, who has paid him high tribute for every public task he has performed in the war and since.

The President ranked him "at the head of the great commanders of history for his services in the preparations for and execution of World War II campaigns.

In reluctantly releasing him from the office of Secretary of State, Mr. Truman described Marshall as virtually an "indispensable man" and told reporters he was "the outstanding man of the war period."

One of the achievements of Marshall's administration as Secretary of State was the multi-billion dollar Marshall Plan for European Recovery, still going on. He first broached the idea in an address at Harvard University in 1947, shortly after his appointment to the Cabinet.

That program, under the Economic Cooperation Administration, has become the central framework of democratic effort in the "cold war" now turned hot in Korea and threatening to burst into flame elsewhere.

He is credited with being one of the original advocates, if not the actual author, of the North Atlantic Pact in which the western world is being organized for defense against communist threat.

Throughout his two years as Secretary of State, Marshall carried on and reinforced the "patient but firm" policy which his predecessor, James F. Byrnes had applied to Russia.

He spoke out often against Russia's hostile attitude and "brazen" propaganda, describing them as the main obstacles to peace.

He urged repeatedly that this country must have the military strength to put muscle into its diplomacy. For example he told the Senate Armed Services committee in 1948:

"Diplomatic action, without the backing of military strength in the present world, can lead only to appeasement."

ime Capsule Is Buried In Mass. o Inform World In Year 2050

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—(AP)—I ame here to gaze into my crystal ll and tell New Bedford what the orld will be like one hundred years om now.

The occasion was the burial on ew Bedford Common of a time psule, the second of its kind. The first lies fifty feet deep beneath the New York World's Fair site, to be dug up in five thousand years—6940. Today's comes up in 2050, one hundred years from now.

The capsule is part of a week long celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the New Bedford Standard-Times. Among the contents is a two hundred and twenty page anniversary edition, weighing tow and a half pounds. This edition is an example of everything in the news, from Truman's talk to the nation to the last major league scores. There is art, drama, music, history, politics, foreign news, obituaries, finance and photography. There are more than two dozen documents recording 1950 activities.

There are samples of breakfast foods. Dried milk, dried potatoes and powedered coffee. There is a Bible but no whiskey.

The capsule is a copper cylinder, made by a descendant of Paul Revere. It is two and a half feet long, eight inches wide.

In 2050, American cities will have atomic power plants underground, beneath beautiful landscaping. There will be no dust, smoke, fumes or smells.

The threat of bombs will slowly change the architecture and layout of American cities. The cities will either stretch out like long matches or will be shaped like stars. The arms of the stars will be long, and slender and well separated from each other. Fast highways will parallel the strips, both above and below ground. Business, shopping and industry will be spotted at safe intervals along these highway cities.

By two thousand fifty, the airways will have made neighbors of much of the world's inhabitants.

Men then will be venturing into the strange region outside the earth's atmosphere, where the sun's rays are dangerous, where dust [illegible] enough to bore holes in steel and bodies lose all their earthly weight. These ships will be pioneering for flights to the moon and the planets Venus and Mars.

The great change in housing will be in comfort and in power units. The sun will do most of the winter warming, and in hot weather will be used in reverse for cooling. The power units, robot machines, will give the average family the equivalent of half a dozen servants.

A legal document gives custody of the capsule to the First National Bank of New Bedford, to a citizens committee who arranged the celebration and to the Standard-Times. They or their heirs are directed to reopen the capsule on Sept. 12, 2050.

Basil Brewer, publisher of the Standard-Times, paid tribute to the power in the thoughts of men and to that power's use in newspapers.

"Here indeed," he said, "is a lever which can move the world. This is the press."

The people of twenty fifty will be no more different from us than we are different from our grandparents. We will like steaks, pretzels and drinks and mom's pies the same as now, even though we may be able to supplement our meals with pastes and crackers made from proteins, fats and sugars that will grow continuously outdoors.

THAT VERY FIRST FACIAL BLEMISH IS THE ONE FOR TEENAGERS TO WATCH; INVESTIGATE, DON'T WAIT

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

That first facial blemish is the one for teen-agers to watch. If you wait until your skin is covered with pimples and blackheads to investigate the reason for the outbreak, it will be much more difficult to get at the source. Furthermore, it will take more will power to stick to treatments.

The day you notice the first blemish or two, particularly if they look angry, red or swollen, sit down and take an inventory of your general health, diet and sleeping habit.

Many things cause skin blemishes. A schoolgirl's first allowance used for candies and sweets can do harm. The diet goes berserk. There are sessions at the sweet shop, spaghetti restaurant and chili parlor. Sometimes a girl will drink ten or more soda pops in one evening, a sudden challenge of sweets to her digestion.

As soon as blemishes appear, cut down on sweets, starches and gravies as a test. Drink more water and fruit juices. Eat more green vegetables.

Make sure you are getting enough exercise to work off the amount of sugar you are consuming. Whenever you can make a choice between riding and walking, be sure to walk. Instead of taking a bus or other transportation to classes, walk for its beneficial effects.

Young skins shouldn't be loaded down with makeup. In particular, it shouldn't be slathered over pimples and blackheads. You'll make your skin worse by adding grease and paste to overburdened skin cells.

Cleanliness is the first rule for a disturbed skin. Use soap and water lavishly and make sure that wash cloth and towel are spotless. Equip yourself with little cotton balls or cotton squares which can be used once and thrown away.

There are special cleansing preparations, such as a powdery meal which is mixed with water to make a thin paste and applied to the skin to help banish surface blackheads and flake off dull, discolored skin. This mixture dries on the skin and is flaked off with a dry washcloth. Your face can then be washed with cotton dipped in water. A cleanser such as this can be used once a week to supplement your daily soap and water scrubbing.

If you follow the rule of cleanliness, get adequate sleep, avoid emotional upsets and watch your diet, you should be able to maintain a fresh, babysoft complexion.

Never squeeze a pimple or blackhead. Besides the possibility of infection in the blemished area, you might enlarge the pores and spread the infection, causing a lifetime of skin problems. If your skin shows a number of angry looking pimples, it is best to get medical advice at once.

By MORTON DOWNEY

WHILE I was reading Edward, the Duke of Windsor's memoirs recently, I put down the magazine when I came to the part about the party Clarence Mackey gave for him when he was touring the country as Prince of Wales and slipped into my own reverie.

That was the first big party I ever sang at, a memorable night for a country boy from Wallingford, Connecticut, who'd spend his time, hitherto, appearing at lodge smokers.

MORTON DOWNEY

I was with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and we drove out to the Mackey Long Island estate. I remember the long driveway up to the huge French Chateau. Every tree was lighted with Japanese lanterns and the driveway was marked with lights under glass: red, blue, yellow, green. It was the biggest house I'd ever seen. It looked as though it had 1,000 rooms.

We were shown to a balcony above the entrance hall, where the ball was to take place. It was the size of an armory and the walls were covered with suits of armor and medieval instruments of war. It was a room where seven or eight hundred persons could dance with ease. There were 1,000 guests that night.

• — • — •

Outdoors there were masses of searchlights, secret service men and the royal detail of Scotland Yard protectors. One of them told me that even though this dynamic prince didn't let them get much sleep they loved to be with him. His friendly interest in them and their families got them.

• — • — •

I remember the formal garden, which must have been more than an acre in size, was centered with the Prince of Wales coat-of-arms, fashioned in fresh cut flowers. Being of Irish descent I thought what a remarkable thing it was that Mr. Mackey, albeit a wealthy man and head of Potsal Telegraph, was entertaining the heir of the throne of Britain. His father had come from Ireland, supposedly with a price on his head for being a rebel!

The next time I saw the Prince I was singing at the Cafe de Paris in London. The Prince came in and the English proprietor cautioned us how to act in front of his highness: "Don't stop the music while he is dancing. If he speaks, don't put out your hand until he does. Don't sit down until he does." etc. etc. etc.

At the end of my first show he asked me over to the table. Without thinking I put out my hand, he gave me a strong handshake, asked me to sit down and ordered coffee for me. As I sat there sipping the coffee, a guy I had never seen before in my life and needless to say with a beautiful head of steam aboard, came up behind me, gave me a crack on the back that dashed the coffee all over the table and boomed: "Hi ya, Morty! I just made a bet with my friends over here that you'd introduce me to your pal, the Prince."

My first thought was: "I'll be kicked out of England." The Prince smiled and asked: "How much did you bet?" He answered: "Fifty dollars." The Prince said: "Well, we couldn't have you lose ten pounds in England." And poured him a glass of wine. Before my unbelieving eyes he picked up the drink, raised the glass and hollered the length of the room to his party: "Bottoms up, what did I tell ya?"

I suppose my regard for the Duke dates from episodes like that. I've always thought he was quite a guy. As I read his account of his abdication from the throne of England I remember that sad day in London.

I was just finishing a singing engagement there that had lasted several months and all the way home I thought about this man's plight.

I think if he'd had a good old-fashioned Tammany politician advising him there never would have been any "crisis" and he would still be King Edward VIII.

He sure had it within his power to stay on the throne, for the masses of the people idolized him and apparently would gladly accept the lovely Mrs. Simpson or anyone of his choice. But then probably he was just proving he was a King, by being big enough to prevent the slightest "split" among the people of his Empire even though the sacrifice was the throne—for a woman he really loved.

Road Workers Will Not Have Monday Off With Pay

The Allegany County road workers will not have Monday, election day, off with pay, the Board of Allegany County Commissioners announced yesterday.

The request for the employes was made by two of the workers' union representatives, R. C. Simmons, of the Laborers' Union, and Robert Jones, of the Operating Engineers, in an appearance before Commissioners James Holmes and Acting Board President William H. Lemmert.

The union spokesmen stated the men had voted the action at a recent meeting. Simmons pointed out that the workers had lost considerable work this year.

The county road department went out on strike in June for three weeks when the county commissioners refused to grant them additional paid holidays.

Commissioner Lemmert stated that the subject of primary election day being a paid holiday came up at the last meeting.

After a check of the payroll records, it was found that it was not a legal holiday, he said, as the Court House and state offices will be open on that day.

From this, Lemmert and Holmes said, they could not see how the request could be granted. They added that if workers want to take the day off they could do so and then complete their 40 hours by working on Saturday.

Simmons and Jones stated they would take the decision back to the employes.

Addition Planned At Speelman Plant

Safety School Begins For City Firemen

Lynn Walker, safety inspector of the State Industrial Accident Commission, has announced that the first in a series of safety lectures for city employes started yesterday in the four Cumberland fire houses.

The safety inspector spoke of rules on housekeeping in the stations and the importance of maintenance of equipment.

He said the Fire and Police Departments are the city's safety organizations. He told the men that safety is nothing more than "good old horse sense," adding that it "means keeping your mind on your work and thinking out your problems before acting."

The initial safety session of the Police Department will be held Friday morning and meetings of other city departments will follow.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix.
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers till the day did arrive
The steel mills, too, were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers—but they are no longer free
They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see,
And it all could have been prevented if they'd only seen fit to agree
And work together instead of saying "it never can happen to me!"

Inter-City Bouts Set Here Tonight; Lamotta Wins By KO

Pittsburgh Eleven Host To LaSalle Saturday Night

St. Wendelin Contest To Begin At 8 P. M.

LaSalle High School's Explorers will journey to the suburbs of Pittsburgh (Pa.) to battle its second 1950 gridiron opponent when they meet St. Wendelin High in an 8 p. m. clash under the arcs at Brentwood Stadium.

The locals opened their season last week by dropping a 47-13 decision to Romney (W. Va.) High's Class B defending champions in Fort Hill stadium.

The Explorers will leave the school by bus at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon to travel to Pittsburgh for the game.

Brother Joseph announced last night that the full squad of 33 players would make the trip.

Coach Bill Hahn of the Fort Hill High Sentinels announced last night that four officials would handle the Scarlet and White eleven's second home game of the season Friday night at the Greenway Avenue stadium when Washington and Lee High of Arlington, Va., makes its appearance here.

Dan Staley, William Spangler, William "Bee" Orndorff and John Shelton will be the officials as Fort Hill puts its long home undefeated streak on the line against the powerful Generals.

Game time will be 8 p. m.

Hahn stated last night that the bad weather this week has hampered his squad's drills but that it appears to be in good shape with Don Brake returning after suffering a hip injury. "Red" Hull, regular halfback, will probably miss the game because of an ankle injury.

Two-Fold Plan Set For Dodgers Games

BROOKLYN, Sept. 13 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers' management drew up a double-barreled plan for a doubleheader tomorrow after today's game against the Cincinnati Reds was rained out today.

In an effort to complete the season's series between the clubs, the Dodgers scheduled an afternoon doubleheader, starting at 12:30 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. Then they added a proviso that, if rain should hold up this program, they would play a doubleheader starting at 5 p. m. (EST), weather permitting.

Flood Threat Postpones Races At Marlboro

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Sept. 13 (AP)—Threatening overflow of a creek over the only road leading to the Marlboro track today caused postponement of horse racing tomorrow and Friday.

Ed O'Hara, general manager, said the Maryland Racing Commission had approved scheduling of the two racing programs on Sept. 25 and 26. The half-mile track originally was scheduled to end its 10-day meeting on Sept. 23.

O'Hara said a branch of the Patuxent River under the track's one entrance is close to overflowing and might be inaccessible by tomorrow.

Marlboro had to cancel two racing programs in 1934 because of a similar flood threat.

Chinese Homer Breaks Maglie's Runless Streak

Bell Hits Fluke As N. Y. Tops Pirates 3-1

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—One of the shortest, flukiest, wettest home runs ever hit in any ball park deprived Sal Maglie of a large helping of pitching immortality today.

The Giants righthander was only five putouts from shattering Carl Hubbell's National League record of 46⅓ consecutive scoreless innings. Then Gus Bell, Pittsburgh outfielder, plunked the sodden pellet against the screen bordering the right field foul line at the polo grounds, 257 feet from home plate. It was the only Pirate run, as New York won the game, called on account of rain after seven innings 3-1.

Had the ball hit two feet to the right, it would have been a foul ball. A foot lower and it would have struck the wall and been held to a harmless single. But it hit the narrow screen which is placed there to assist the umpire in telling foul balls from fair and fell back at the feet of Don Mueller, New York outfielder.

Bell had been the first batter to face Maglie in the seventh inning. Sal swallowed his disappointment and retired the next three Pittsburgh batters in order.

So Maglie, the former Mexican leaguer, salvaged his 16th victory of the year—his 11th straight—against three losses, even though he failed to inscribe his name in the records as the first National League pitcher ever to hurl five straight shutouts or to eclipse Hubbell's 17-year-old record. Box:

Goss, Mann Appear In Top Bouts

Penn Field Is Scene Of 7 Matches Between Locals And Johnstown

Boxing, a sport that has been dormant in Cumberland during the summer months, comes to life tonight when Matchmaker Albert "Bobby" Green presents a program of seven amateur matches, topped off by a pair of five-rounders, at Penn Avenue Field at 8:15 o'clock.

The show will be the fourth of the year under the Green banner and the 15th for the one-time professional welterweight boxer since he entered the promotional business in September 1947. Green's other shows this year, all indoor, were held February 27, April 3 and May 1.

Mann, Goss In Top Bouts

In the double windup, Billy Mann, local middleweight, will engage in his 24th amateur match when he collides with Joe Martino, of Johnstown, while Phil Christmas of Johnstown, will tangle with Bobby Goss, local bantamweight, in the other five-rounder.

Mann will be angling for his 4th straight win when he opposes Martino, recent conqueror of Tojo Wade, Johnstown's clowning middleweight. Billy hung up his 15th win in 22 bouts on May 1 when he shipped Paul Simms of Johnstown at the local armory on the card headed by Norvel Lee and Harry Mazick.

Goss, who has been fighting since 1946, but will be showing here for the first time since October 25, 1948, when he TKO'd Ray Harris of Pittsburgh, will be gunning for his 21st victory. Bobby has won 20 out of 29 contests.

The five supporting bouts on tonight's card are three-rounders in which leather pushers of the Metzger A. C., Johnstown, Pa., will trade wallops with Cumberland mittmen.

The fur is expected to fly when Jim Childress, the rough and tumble local middleweight, battles Chester Wiley of Johnstown, who belted out Harry Stewart in three heats in his other appearance here.

Jake Returns To Ring

Jake Koelker, local lightweight, who has been in the ring wars since 1946, is paired with Frankie Spinnatti, Johnstown, in another three. Jake's record is 15-5, his last shot here being a win over Chuck Collins, Pittsburgh, January 17, 1949.

Jack Evans gets his fourth amateur test tonight against Junior Flanagan, of Johnstown. In three previous engagements, Evans split even with Lee Stevens and dropped a decision to Jimmy Getson of Lonaconing.

Other bouts rounding out the Liberty Athletic Club card are Jimmy Roby, of the Royale A. C., Cumberland, versus Slick Dorsey, Metzger A. C. fighter, and Gary Dawson versus Danny Coleman, also of the Johnstown team.

Good Turnout Expected

The advance sale of tickets indicates that there will be a good turnout for the opening show of the 1950-51 season. Jim Kelley will be the third man in the ring for all matches, Nelson W. Russler will be the announcer, Dr. Arthur Jones, medical examiner, and the judges will be chosen before the show gets under way. Gates at Penn Avenue Field will open at 7 o'clock. In case of rain, the show will be held on Monday.

Woods' Homer Wins

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 (AP) — Ken Wood's ninth-inning home run put the St. Louis Browns across for a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight — their seventh victory in a string. The A's tied it with two runs in their part of the ninth, but Wood, leading off, parked Carl Scheib's first pitch and Scheib was charged with the loss. Score:

Berra Smashes Ball As Yanks Blast Tribe 10-3

Yogi Gets Homerun, 2 Singles Off Lemon

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (AP)—Yogi Berra led the hitting barrage as the New York Yankees overwhelmed the Cleveland Indians, 10-3, today to keep pace in the sizzling American League pennant race.

Detroit defeated Washington 6-1 to maintain a half game lead over the Yankees. Tomorrow the Yankees open a three game series in Detroit that could prove decisive.

Berra hit his 22nd home run of the year into the right field stands in the third, came up with vital singles in the first and sixth, and smashed the ball off Al Rosen's glove in the fourth to score Johnny Hopp.

Rosen was charged with an error, but the play apparently upset Cleveland's ace pitcher, Bob Lemon, who was seeking his 21st victory. Lemon immediately let loose a wild pitch on which Hank Bauer scored from third. Then Cliff Mapes' single brought Berra home. Jess Flores replaced Lemon at this point with the Yankees leading, 8-0.

Luke Easter, hero of last night's thriller when his three-run ninth-inning homer with two out brought victory to Cleveland, 8-7, laced another terrific blow today. His homer in the sixth—this time with the bases empty—landed just six feet short of the 463-foot marker on the bleacher wall in the deepest right-center field portion of the huge Municipal Satdium. Rain Slows Terps' Practice Sessions

COLLEGE PARK Md. Sept. 13 (AP)—Rain drove the Maryland football squad indoors twice today and coach Jim Tatum broke out his well-worn crying towel.

"The worst beginning I've ever had" Tatum moaned.

The weather which has kept the Terps indoors most of the practice season isn't his only worry. Injuries keep piling up.

Tatum learned today Fullback Kerney Scioscis has a fractured wrist and will be out for some time. And Joe Petruzzo sophomore halfback has several bruised ribs and may not see action the rest of the week.

Budnick Hurls One-Hitter As LaVale Cops, 5-0

Corriganville Drops Playoff Opener

Adam Budnick tossed a one-hitter yesterday as LaVale got the jump in the opener of the semi-final playoff series for the County Softball League championship by downing Corriganville 5-0 at Narrows Park field.

Bill Thompson's single in the fifth inning was the only safe blow allowed by the league-leader's ace, as he walked only three and struck out one batsman.

LaVale put the game on ice early in the contest scoring single runs in the first and second frames and adding three more in the fifth.

Gene Basilio paced the winners' attack with a double and triple while Milt Wertz and Buddy Giles each had two singles in the nine-hit assault on Glen Kauffman.

The two teams will resume the best-of five games series Friday at 6 p. m. at Corriganville.

Wellersburg and Potomac Valley, other first division finishers, will open their semi-final series today at Wellersburg begnning at 5:45 p. m. Hayden Phillips of the Cubs and Frank Toler of Wellersburg will likely be the mound opponents. Wellersburg copped six straight decisions during regular season play with the Cubs.

Corriganville and LaVale are also making plans to play a benefit game for "Red" Whitman, Corriganville player who suffered two broken arms while playing in the County loop. The game tentatively is scheduled to be played at Penn Avenue field beginning at 8 p. m. Friday. The two teams will play their regular contest in Corriganville before journeying to Cumberland for the benefit tilt. The score:

CORRIGANVILLE ..... 000 000 0—0 1 3

World Series Plans Underway At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13 (AP) — They'll set the dates for the world series here tomorrow, but baseball's bosses will not know who will play in it.

Participating in the meeting will be Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the presidents of the National and American Leagues, and representatives of the first division teams in each circuit.

The pennant races are so close that the fourth place clubs have a mathematical chance to win, thus making it uncertain what teams will play in the big series.

Commissioner Chandler has invited Detroit, New York, Boston and Cleveland of the American League, to send representatives here.

Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston and New York of the National League, have been asked to send men to the session.

The series probably will begin in the National League winner's park on Oct. 3. The first two games will be played there, then, following a day off for travel, the next three contests will take place in the park of the American League champion.

Hyndman-Keyser Tilt Rained Out; To Play Today

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 13—For the second time in a row the scheduled first playoff game between Hyndman and Keyser of the Bi-State Baseball League has been postponed because of rain. Jupe Pluvius forced postponement of the contest until tomorrow at 5 p. m. here.

The two teams played the first game of their Shaughnessy playoff series last week and battled to an 8-8 tie in 14 innings before being halted by darkness. Since then inclement weather has halted all attempts to play the game.

The two teams are scheduled to play the second game of the best-of-five games series Saturday at Hyndman beginning at 3 p. m. The third game will return to Keyser Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Nats Drop 6-1 Tilt To Detroit

Hutchinson Wins 16th; Tigers Hold AL Lead

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (INS) — Detroit blasted out ten hits today to beat the Washington Senators, 6 to 1, and maintain its half-game lead in the American League over the New York Yankees, who won, 10 to 3, at Cleveland.

The Tigers scored their first run in the second when Gerald Priddy's single scored Johnny Groth who had walked.

They pushed over two more in the fourth on singles by Groth, Joe Ginsberg and pitcher Freddy Hutchinson.

Detroit hung up its last three runs in the eighth on two more singles, a walk and two Senator errors.

The Senators scored their only run in the eighth on Gil Coan's double, and singles by Eddie Yost and Ed Stewart.

Hutchinson received credit for the victory, his 16th of the season, although he needed relief from Ted Gray. Box:

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP) — Pete Kousagan, hard-hitting Geneva Robins outfielder, was sold today to the Philadelphia Phillies He led the Class C Border League in home runs for the past two seasons, hitting 22 in 1949 and 31 this year.

Jake Floors Dauthuille In 15th Round

Challenger Ahead On Points Before Champ Stages Rally

By JACK HAND

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (AP) — Squat Jake LaMotta dramatically saved his world middleweight title from a long trip to France tonight by coming from behind in the final 13 seconds to knock out Laurent Dauthuille in 2:47 of the 15th round.

While a crowd of 11,424 that paid $71,694 to enter the Olympia Stadium was ready to crown a new champ, the brawler from New York's teeming Bronx smashed the overconfident Frenchman to the canvas with a flurry of blows.

The cards of all three officials showed Dauthuille, a vastly underrated 11 to 5 underdog, ahead before the stunning ending. The AP score card showed the Frenchman out front 8-6 going into the 15th.

Staggering around the ring in the well-known LaMotta style, pretending to be hurt worse than he really was, durable Jake stunned the weary Parisian with a wild flurry in the closing seconds. Unable to take the punishment, Dauthuille toppled halfway through the ropes and tumbled to the floor.

Dauthuille tried to scrape his carcass off the mat at the count of nine. He was almost up at 10, but the referee, who had warned LaMotta repeatedly to step up the action, ruled the bout was over.

Referee Handler had Dauthuille leading 72-68. Judge Joe Lenahan had the Frenchman out front 74-66 and Judge Jack Aspery had it 73-67. Under Michigan rules, the point system is scored with kayo points split between the contestants in each round.

Dauthuille was within a half minute of scoring a stunning upset victory, when the New York champion caught him with a blistering attack in LaMotta's corner and dropped him against the ropes.

Dauthuille staggered to his feet just as Referee Lou Handler counted to 10, but the fight was over at 2:47 of the final round.

ANDY SEMINICK, 'GRANDPA WHIZ,' IS KEY TO PHILS' PENNANT CHASE

By JAMES R. KELLEY
Central Press Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA—Every baseball club that is fighting down the wire in a hot pennant chase must have a key man.

In the case of the Fighting Phillies, it is Andy Seminick, the club's able backstop. And the first to admit it is Manager Eddie Sawyer.

Seminick, always a great competitor, has really come into his own. He has been behind the plate in most of the club's games, in many cases playing with a bad ankle and bad knee.

"A new change has come over Andy this year," says the genial Phillies' manager. "He's what we call in the trade a take-charge guy. Andy's been in on every play and is in control of the game at all times."

"When one of our pitchers starts to go sour, Andy is ready at once to give a call to the bullpen," Sawyer adds. "I'm pleased with his work. For a long time I tried to get him to make the necessary decisions and this year he has really come along."

Another thing about Andy is his hitting. His average has been around the .300 mark for most of the season. A goodly number of his clouts have been for extra bases and have come at crucial moments.

Andy is almost 30 and virtually bald. He came to the Phillies in 1943 and is the oldest member on the squad in service. This has led many of his teammates to nickname him "Grandpa Whiz."

• — • — •

ROBIN ROBERTS, Curt Simmons, Bob Miller and Bubba Church are sold on the maskman. His patience in times of stress has been one of the main factors in developing the Phils' mound staff into one of the best in the majors.

The Elizabethton, Tenn., catcher is a hard worker and a colorful player. The cheers that ring out today for the bandy-legged receiver are rightly deserved, but it wasn't always so.

When Siminick first came to the Phillies, he found the going rough.

Andy Seminick . . . big guy with the Phils

The Phillies had never gone anywhere since 1915 and for the most part spent year in and year out in the National league cellar.

Everytime Andy threw a ball over the infielder's head, it was a sign for boos from the Shibe Park fans. Likewise, his lack of hitting failed to endear him to the blacherites. Undismayed by it all, Andy kept on plugging. The results are shown in today's box scores.

He has gained the confidence he needed and with a better ball club to play with, he has been one of the Phillies' best moves.

• — • — •

GABBY STREET, former St. Louis Cardinals' manager and quite a catcher himself in the old days, is really high on Andy. He calls him the best catcher in the league.

"Andy is a fine receiver," Street says. "He can throw, he can hit and he can think. He slows up the pitchers when they get into a jam and always gives them a target to shoot for."

"He reminds one of the old-time catchers and there is no doubt his blocking of runners at the plate has helped to save games," the old Sarge concluded.

• — • — •

ANDY came to the Phillies from Knoxville where he was a catcher, outfielder and first baseman. The Phils were undecided where to play him and after a brief trial sent him to Buffalo. When he returned to the club in 1945, both Ben Chapman, Phils' manager, and Coach Freddie Fitzsimmons did some experimenting. Ben liked the fact that Seminick could play several positions and always felt that catching would be secondary for Andy.

When Eddie Sawyer took over the leader's post in 1948, Seminick was still on the outside looking in. Eddie was high on Stan Lopata, present second stringer on the Phillies. Lopata didn't last long and the 5-foot 11-inch 190-pounder took over. He caught 124 games that year.

Last year Lopata was once more named as first string backstop, but it was Seminick who took over in a hurry. This year there was never any doubt. The sturdy receiver was on his way. A bear for work, his name has appeared in almost every game.

The fans no longer jeer the husky guy. His play has been the spark and might well continue to be the boost that will push the Phillies home in front for the first time in 35 years.

Briar White Is Homebred Purse Winner

Culmone Up As 8,994 See Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP)—Mrs. William W. Vaughan's Briar White won his first stake race in the featured Homebred Handicap at Atlantic City today before a crowd of 8,994.

The son of Neddie, bred by his Red Bank, N. J. owner, registered by 3½ lengths in the one mile test for New Jersey foals.

The estate of William G. Helis furnished the second and fourth horses with Mendicant and Yogi, respectively. The pair was separated by Woodland Farm's Picture Card which missed the place award by a head.

The second running of the event which was being contested on the turf course for the first time was truly run despite a thoroughly water-soaked mile oval. Briar White, victor in four of 18 starts this season earned $5,725 front money.

The overnight field of ten Jersey-breds lost much of its lustre when Overexposed was withdrawn. The Woodland Farm colorbearer was the highweight of the eligibles under 130 pounds. The field was reduced to eight when Fighting Fool also declined.

Joe Culmone, who was registering his third win of the day in the Homebred, handled Briar White in clever fashion. The 5-year-old chestnut was next to last in the run down the backstretch but began moving up after leaving the half-mile marker.

Culmone wisely moved to the outside with Briar White and picked up his rivals with a rush to take the lead at head of the stretch. There was no letup on Briar White until he flashed under the wire.

Away Away Is Winner

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP)—Woodvale Farm's Away Away sloshed through the goo at Aqueduct today to win his first race, but it was a big one, the 28th running of the $20,000 added Cowdin Stakes for 2-year-olds.

Away Away, a son of Whirlaway-Dorimar, had started seven times before and had never finished better than second, but today he was a running horse, with juveniles going six and a half furlongs for the first time this season on the New York wheel.

Never worse than third once the field was straightened after the start, Away Away picked up his pace-setting stablemate, Iamarelic, and then Mohammedan, to assume command inside the sixteenth pole and win by three lengths, going away.

Brookmead Stable's Safety, far back in the early part, also showed late foot, to take second money a length to the van of Iamarelic, who was a neck ahead of I. J. Collins', Mohammedan.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE GRECIAN GIFTS

"Beware of Greeks bearing gifts" is a slogan that dates from the days of Homerian mythology. But it fits plenty of modern situations, including our game of bridge. Once in a blue moon you will see a canny declarer make a play which looks like a mistake to one defender. The latter promptly pounces upon the opportunity gratuitously offered him. A bit later, he realizes he had been hoodwinked and had fallen for a stratagem that would have been futile without his gullibility.

You will seldom find jerkier bidding than that, in which each partner apparently almost signed off the hand with his second bid and they then went on to a slam. South explained his 4-No Trumps on the basis that he did not rate his opponents highly. He proved right.

West, recalling that the bidding portended a cross-ruff of the minors, decided to spike it with a lead of trumps, picking the 7. South quickly saw the difficulties of his situation, including the impossibility of ruffing enough diamonds. So he centered on bringing in the clubs, with a difficult entry situation which could be handled only with some luck plus co-operation by the defense. So he went for it.

Winning the spade lead with the Q, he next scored the club K and A, then led the club 10. He purposely ruffed it with his lowest trump, the 2, which he had saved for the purpose. West was overjoyed. He pounced on that with his spade 5, remarking: "You sent a boy on a man's errand." The diamond return was won by the A, the spade J cleared trumps and the clubs furnished discards of the losing diamonds. Note that, if West had discarded instead of over-ruffing, South could never have reached dummy to use the clubs after the trumps were out.

Tattenham Cops New Haven Purse

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Robert Cramer's Tattenham scored a surprising half length victory in today's featured New Haven purse at Narragansett Park.

Tattenham, virtually overlooked in the betting, paid $55.40, $18.20 and $8.20 after running the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 on the slow track.

Mrs. H. S. Clark's Puppett tried hard to catch the winner but had to be content with second and paid $6.20 and $4.20. Ralph Lowe's Chancescript was third and paid $3.40.

The 11,123 crowd made the entry of Judy's Runner and Lefty Jim, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gushen, the favorite. But the nearest either got was fifth for the filly after Lefty Jim started off as the early leader.

The double paid $36.80 to holders of 838 tickets which paired John Bove's Reynard and Ralph Lowe's Mary Migirl.

Late Rains Give State Farmers Better Outlook

University Reports On Harvest Conditions

COLLEGE PARK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Rains which have been helping to produce good crops elsewhere in Maryland finally came to sections of the eastern shore today.

Steady showers pelted the area around Salisbury. It is in this general area that farmers, for weeks, have been hoping for drenching rains to perk up dry crops.

Crops reports for last week still were listing the central section of the Maryland-Delaware peninsula as "comparatively dry," and added that many communities in that area needed more rain for good development of fall crops.

It was the second straight week the area had been in the "dry" column but the current rains could change the picture if they continue.

Meanwhile, the weekly crop report said other sections of the state were doing fine. Favorable weather spurred on fall pastures and meadows and helped late corn, soybeans, late tobacco and late vegetables.

Harvest of late sweet corn, tomatoes and lima beans continued in good volume and farmers continued preparation of ground for fall planting.

The tobacco harvest was slowed and tomato blight increased as the result of last week's slightly cooler weather and increased rainfall.

Fall Seeding Started

In some areas fall seeding of small grains was started.

The report covered the week ending Sept. 9. Prepared at the University of Maryland Extension Service offices, it gave this crop-by-crop summary for the week:

Corn: Weather conditions slowed up ripening of early corn in most sections but the late crop made good progress. In some areas on the shore late corn continued to fire badly.

Soybeans: In the big soybean area on the shore vines were drying up but elsewhere they made good progress.

Potatoes-seed potatoes: Weather was good for late potatoes in Western Maryland and some small patches on the shore. Around Salisbury, the sweets harvest continued in light volume with quality and yield good. Digging started elsewhere on the shore.

Tobacco: Weather retarded curing but helped growth of late crop.

Pastures-Hay: Rain sparked pastures everywhere except the central part of the Del-Mar Peninsula. Dry weather helped produce a good crop of Lespedeza and Soybean Hay on the Shore.

Beans: Around Baltimore and Salisbury a small volume of late snap beans were marketed but the Salisbury area needed more rain. Baby limas on the shore continued to be of good quality.

Corn Yield High

Sweet Corn: In the northern section of the state harvest of the late crop was drawing to a close with quality and yield good.

Tomatoes: Peak of the harvest was reached in some northern areas but in the south the crop was about over. Quality this season has been very good.

Melons: In the Hurlock area a small supply will be available through this week.

Other Truck Crops: Weather helped peppers to size well and they moved to Shore canners in increased volume. Cauliflower, broccoli and late cabbabe showed well except in the Central Del-Mar Area.

Apples-Peaches: A good supply of late apples will be availble and the quality looks very good. Harvest of the good main peach crop was about over.

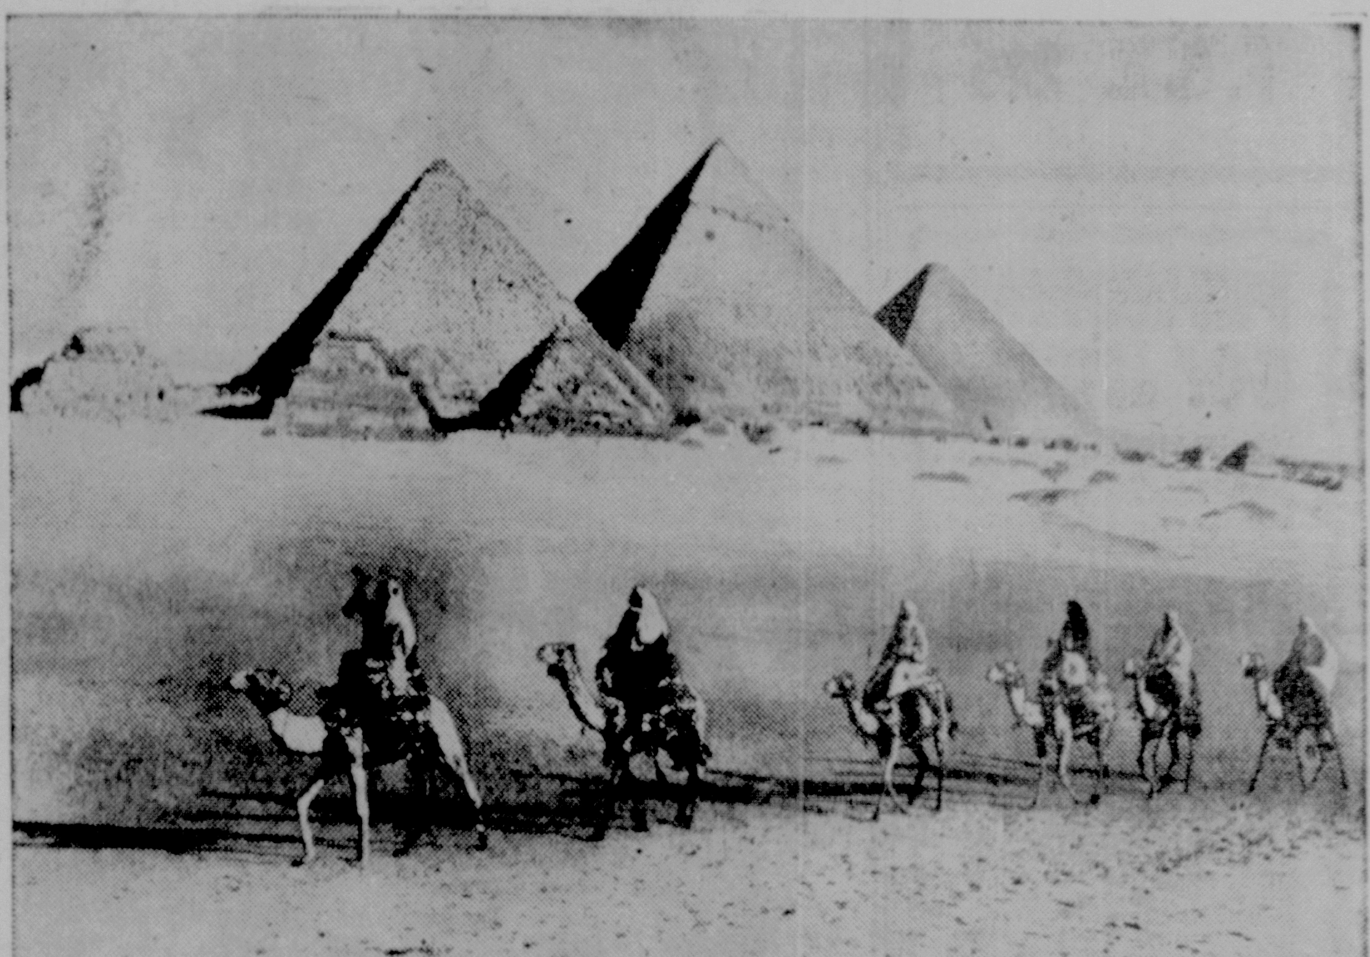
PARIS FORECAST—Jacques Fath's knee-hobbling evening gown of white pleated mousseline, worn with a tulle stole, hugs the body down to the flaring deep flounce.

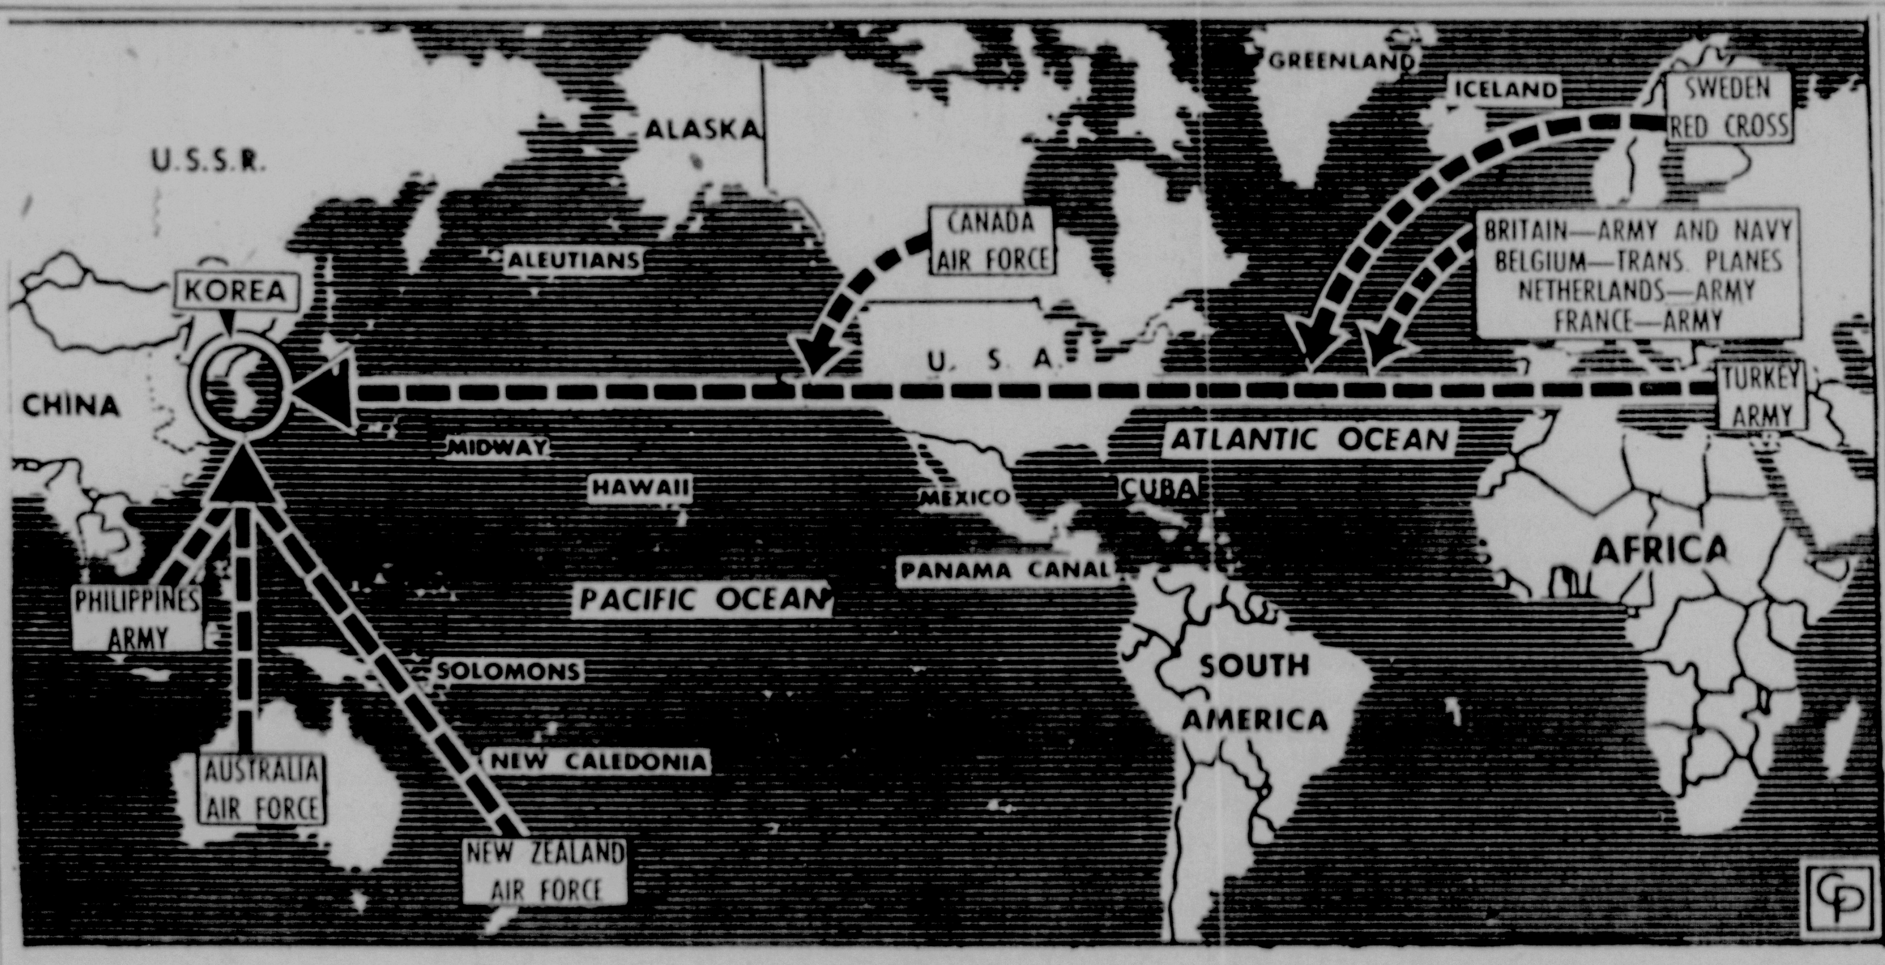
AIR LIFT AND BALANCE—German girls, training in Berlin as plane hostesses, carry trays under critical eye of Ellenora Ebers, American Overseas Airlines chief stewardess.

STOCKPILE FOR PEACE—Nitrate of soda, mined in the "Valley of the Moon," Chile, and used for farming and munitions, is stored in a warehouse at Iquique for shipment abroad.

JOURNEYMEN-TO-BE—German mason apprentices, in 19th century costume, walk from Brunswick to Hamburg seeking work in revival of custom of changing jobs every six months.



TRAFFIC IN THE DESERT—A camel caravan passes Great Pyramids of Egypt at Giza in the Sahara Desert. Of the seven pyramids three, more than 5,000 years old, are 450 feet high.



A DOZEN COUNTRIES FROM four continents have entered the United Nations crusade to help rid South Korea of the Communist invaders. This map traces the source of personnel and materiel which is already moving into Korea, or is about to do so on specific promises newly made to the U.N. Secretary General. Nations about to join include France, Holland, Turkey, Canada and the Philippines. (Central Press)

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13—(INS)—Irving Allen, who produced "The Man On The Eiffel Tower," one of the best independent pictures made last year, tells me he has Anton Walbrook and Trevor Howard, two top British actors signed.

MARGARET SULLAVAN

He left tonight for Europe to make arrangements to film "The Man Who Watched The Trains Go By" in Holland and France with these two actors as his stars.

Allen tells me he is still negotiating with Nina Foch for the female lead. She's listening with an attentive ear because she wants to return to her native Holland for a visit.

Margaret Sullavan, honeymooning at the English estate of her bridegroom, Kenneth Wagg, will be in Hollywood in six weeks.

Her agent, Paul Small, says she will do "Homeward Borne," Ruth Chatterton's best seller, for Columbia. There's a possibility that Maggie will bring all seven of the children with her—her own three and her bridegroom's four.

She's not giving up the screen as has been printed, even though her bridegroom is vice-president of Horlick's Malted Milk. She spends a great deal of time in the United States, so she'll make a picture now and then.

• — • — •

I have seen a great picture. "All About Eve" is one of the most dramatic, and one of the greatest achievements of the current year. After I sneaked into a projection room and saw two or three scenes with Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, I just had to see the whole picture.

"All About Eve" can be put down in your little black book as a strong Academy contender. Darryl Zanuck has a winner.

Joseph Mankiewicz, who wrote the brilliant dialogue, is also the director of this distinguished story of the theatre which has a number of fine performers. To name just a few of them—George Sanders, Anne Baxter, Celeste Holm, Hugh Marlowe, Gregory Ratoff. It's a movie that will be the talk of the country when it's released this winter.

• — • — •

The most unglamorous role of the year goes to Edith Meiser in "Horsie," the Dorothy Parker story about a sentimental woman who looks like a horse! Already Miss Meiser is having her teeth "bucked" and other unbeautiful things done so she'll be just right for this chapter in the "Queen For A Day" This youngish character actress has quite an enviable reputation on Broadway. For fifteen years she wrote and directed "Sherlock Holmes" for the radio and also stage directed two shows for Mark Hellinger.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lauren Bacall's birthday is Saturday, but Bogey won't be here to celebrate with her. She gave him permission to sail his yacht in the last race of the year. By the way, Bogey and Baby are about to close a deal for a radio series to be called "Bold Venture."

When Doris Duke took off for Honolulu Sunday Gilbert Roland was at the plane to say au revoir.

The King Brothers are holding a sneak preview of "South Side 1-1000" in San Quentin. What do they mean "sneak?"

Talked to my child, Harriet Parsons, who is in Scripps Clinic for a few days getting a checkup, and she tells me Red Skelton is back there.

Hard to believe that Arthur Freed is going to let Ava Gardner do her own singing in "Show Boat" but that's what the man tells me.

Eleanor Parker, whose career has come a long way this past year, is receiving a medal from abroad after being selected the best actress of the year in "Caged."

Didn't recognize Pat Neal with her dark hair when I visited her set at Warners. She tells me her natural haid is that color and she is never going blonde again. Pat introduced me to Gene Carey, new young actor, who told me his wife had just the day before had a daughter.

Dan Mich, new boss of McCall's magazine, and his wife, Isabella Taves, writer on Look Magazine, are here for a few days.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

'Cheaper By The Dozen' Family Heads East

DENVER, Sept. 13 (AP) — The "cheaper by the dozen" family of Denver's William E. Walsh today mass-migrated eastward.

One son, William, is with the Army, but that still left the two parents and 11 children who boarded an airliner here, stowed two pet dogs in the luggage compartments, and headed for daddy's new job as a professor at Detroit's Mercy College.

Walsh has managed to raise and maintain his large family while going to school. He recently received a degree of doctor of philosophy from Denver University.

Czech Soldiers' Heads Shaved Like Soviets

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 13 (AP) — Czechoslovakia soldiers soon will have their heads shaved like Soviet troops, the Prague army newspaper Obrana Libu reported today.

Lt. Jaroslav Jenicek, who wrote the article, said one private, who already had had his head shaved in accordance with regulations, told how "his girl burst into tears when she saw him without hair."

Lt. Jenicek advised the soldier to forget the girl "because she evidently cares only for his hair and not that he is a defender of our people's democratic homeland."

He said the new order was for hygienic reasons.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

One of Heywood Broun's pet hates was ghost-written political speeches—particularly when they failed utterly to reflect either the convictions or the personalities of the big shots who were delivering them. Warren G. Harding pulled one of these phony orations at a newsmen's banquet shortly after he had assumed the presidency—a pompous, cliche-laden address that sounded more like a circus press-agent than a president of the United States. There was some polite applause as Harding resumed his seat. Then Broun jumped up and cried, "Author! Author!"

Bob Considine and his popular wife Mildred were off for one of the innumerable parties they attend. At the door Mrs. C. embraced one of her young hopefuls and said, "Do you want to play with your electric trains tonight or just stay with Nursie?" The boy answered without hesitation, "What would Daddy do?"

Crusade For Freedom Launched In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Crusade for Freedom, a nation-wide campaign to mobilize the American people for getting the truth behind the iron curtain, was launched in Maryland today.

A. A. Berle, Jr., former assistant secretary of state, told a luncheon of Baltimore civic, business and labor leaders:

"We have been forced to one of those historic decisions which whole peoples occasionally have to make: Shall it be freedom for all or tyranny by a few?"

Berle is chairman of the Committee on Intellectual Cooperation for the crusade, which is headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay and sponsored by the National Committee for a Free Europe.

Two Automobiles Are Damaged By Fire

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company was called to extinguish two automobile fires recently.

A car owned by Chester W. Kinser caught fire as the result of a short circuit in electrical wiring about 3:30 p. m. Monday at Bowman's Addition. The firemen were called, but the fire was under control upon arrival. Damage to the car was estimated at $15.

Tuesday, at 7:45 p. m., a car owned by Homer Deneen caught fire as the result of a short circuit of the battery cable. The Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company extinguished the fire with a soda acid extinguisher. Charles Jones was in charge of the engine. Damage to the car was slight.

Long Favors Anti-Red Classes

Democracy classes in area high schools should benefit by the anti-communist ordinance adopted September 5 by unanimous action of the Mayor and City Council, according to an opinion voiced by Police Commissioner John J. Long, who sponsored the measure in council.

Commissioner Long said he has written letters to school heads in the city and county offering them copies of the ordinance "if they can be of use to you in democracy or Americanism classes."

The ordinance against red activities requires registration of communist party members and prohibits dissemination of communist publications on the streets of the city.

Passage of the law was opposed by officials of Maryland's communist party, but much favorable comment has been received from labor and civic organizations.

Paper Firm Makes Dividend Payments

A year-end dividend of $3 a share on common stock has been declared by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, payable September 25 to holders of record September 21, the Associated Press has reported.

Action on the year-end dividend brings payment for the fiscal year ending October 31 to $5 a share. This compares with $3 a share in the preceding fiscal year, when $1 additional was paid at the year end.

Columbia Gas System Holds Annual School

The Columbia Gas System is holding its annual school at the C. and A. Gas Company Building and 19 home service supervisors from five states covered by the company are attending.

Flora G. Dowler, head supervisor of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, is in charge of the session which began Monday and will run through Friday.

Miss Dowler said the year's program for supervisors is being reviewed by giving demonstrations of the latest in gas equipment, food preparation, refrigerator arrangement, and laundry technique.

Group Favors Test Of Parking Plan

The City Traffic and Parking Commission Tuesday night deferred definite action on the question of one or two-way parking on South Mechanic Street, due to lack of a quorum.

Members present, however, recommended that one-way traffic be continued for at least a substantial time in view of the recommendations of the SRC traffic survey.

The commission also heard a report from its Parking Lot Committee which is trying to work out an adequate plan for off-street parking here.

Several proposals were discussed and opinions given that some plan can be worked out in the near future.

Frank Martin, chairman, presided at the meeting attended by about one-third of the 30-man committee

Commissioners Invited To Two Meetings

The County Commissioners yesterday received an invitation to send a representative to the meeting of the Allegany County Advisory Council for Civil Defense Friday at 7:30 p. m., at the Naval and Marine Reserve Training Center.

William G. Barger, chairman of the county defense unit, stated that information of a survey of emergency facilities will be consolidated.

The board also had notification of a meeting of the sub-committee on property taxes of the Tax Survey Commission of the state.

The group will hold an open hearing on the question of valuation of real estate for assessment purposes at 10 a. m. Wednesday, September 20, in the City Hall, Baltimore.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

The Glory Of Eddie's Past

AFTER a great deal of huffing and puffing, plus an extraordinary amount of self-congratulation at its own daring, NBC last Sunday unveiled the first of its Sunday night parlay (NBC-TV 8 p. m. EDT) on which Eddie Cantor, Martin and Lewis and Fred Allen will alternate on successive nights.

John Crosby

NBC had already rather overreached itself in titling its big Saturday night review "The Show of Shows," thereby leaving no very sweeping monicker for its Sunday night extravagance. It's called simply the "Colgate Comedy Theater" — after the well - known university, I expect. NBC thus is casting down the gauntlet for CBS, which has the Ed Sullivan show on at the same time. Apart from the spectacular differences in the personalities, experience and general know-how of Mr. Sullivan and Messrs. Cantor, Martin and Lewis and Allen, the shows are pretty much alike and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if a hoofer who is with Mr. Sullivan one week would be over with the Colgate people the next. If you missed any of the sketches brought by guest comics to the Sullivan show, I'm sure you'll be able to catch up with them some time this winter on the Colgate show.

• — • — •

There was a superstition in the early days of TV, all of three years ago, that this medium would murder the vaudevillian, that his act would be dead as mutton after a single television performance. This turned out to be wholly false. The average vaudeville act, it seems, can play television almost as long as it did the old Keith-Albee circuit, the only difference being that it's playing to the same audience. We have already memorized the routines and are rapidly becoming experts on the techniques. "You should have seen him last week on the Berle show," you find yourself saying. "He arched his left eyebrow first, then delivered the snapper—half-face to the camera. Got more spin on it that way."

The Colgate show is by no means the last of NBC's efforts at super-variety. On Wednesday nights, starting in October, it will offer another big one on which Ed Wynn, Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante will be rotated week after week. N.B.C. seems to be staking its television future on the memories of its bright radio past. It is assuming that the comedian—especially the veteran Radio comedian—will be the top dog of video as he was of audio. C.B.S., on the other hand, is backing the hour-long drama. Personally, I think C.B.S. is on the right track, N.B.C. on the wrong one.Only time will tell which is the more far-sighted.

The Cantor show opens, as do so many of them these days, with a line of pretty girls in scanties singing and dancing like crazy as an interminate procession of credit lines rolls upwards on your screen. "Staged by..," "Costumes designed by...," "Stitched by..," 'Shoes by ...," (The bare feet in the closing ballet are the property of the girls.)

• — • — •

In the dear, dead days of Flo Ziegfeld and later with Sam Goldwyn, Mr. Cantor was always knee-deep in pretty, leggy girls, and he hasn't departed from that tradition on N.B.C.-TV. However, in the interval between Ziegfeld and N.B.C., Mr. C. has become what the army used to call a Very Important Person and he gets the VIP treatment.

From the opening number, when the chorus sings about how nice it is to have him back on Broadway, to the closing, when he sings a selection of his old songs, the program dwelt almost exclusively on the glories of Eddie's past. At one point, Mr. Cantor and the doorman of the doorman of the New Amsterdam Theater, where Eddie once held sway, reminsced about the old days of W. C. Fields, Will Rogers and, of course, Mr. Cantor.

Even the sketches were haunted by ghosts. Mr. Cantor participated in one as a disheveled army private driving a general out of his wits, which sounds like something out "Yip Yip Yaphank," and in another the clothing merchant who tries to sell a customer a lot of clothes he doesn't want which sounded suspiciously like Minsky's. Cantor, who has been on the stage virtually since enormous stage presence; he still the days of Brinsley Sheridan, has sings the old songs—"We're Having a Baby," "Now's The Time To Fall In Love," "Ain't She Sweet," "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me," and "Charlie, My Boy" — with an exuberance and vitality unmatched by any one except Al Jolson.

But I've never found him very funny, and I strongly advise him to get the smell of moth-balls out of his material if he expects to stand up against the very bright young comics on TV. The rest of the show is handsomely mounted, contains excellent dance numbers and a few songs from a young lady named Yma Sumac who is billed as possessing a "most remarkable vocal range." She has, too, and she also has remarkably expressive eyes, if you like that sort of thing. However, the first essay of the Colgate Comedy Theater is not anything you are going to hug to your breast for any length of time, and it leaves television about where it was — which is to say in the Milton Berle or Paleozoic Era.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

97-Pound Redhead Cools Off Wrestler

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (AP)—A 97-pound redhead told deputies today that she won an unscheduled bout with a six-foot-three-inch-270-pound wrestler who sports a page boy bob.

Furthermore, Evalyn Ruth Sloann, 23, a Hollywood private detective, wants Orbie Cleghorn, 35, prosecuted for conduct unbecoming a gentleman in a parked car.

Miss Sloan, a judo expert, said that Cleghorn tried some holds on her that are barred and strictly ungentlemanly. But, she told deputies:

"I clamped a few arm bars on him. That cooled him off and he let me alone."

Cleghorn, an operatic student who bills himself as "the Pagliacci of the Ring," told reporters a different story:

"She insisted on sitting on my lap."

Meanwhile, the sheriff's office said they will arrest the wrestler on a warrant charging assault with intent to commit rape.

Market Hits Four-Year High With Rails At 19-Year Peak

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — The stock market lunged ahead to a new four-year high today. Rails on average highballed to a 19-year peak.

Gains ranged to around $2 a share. About 135 issues established new 1950 highs during the day while only two touched bottom for the period.

Trading volume ballooned as buyers clamored for stocks. Sales totaled 2,600,000 shares, largest in around seven weeks, and compared with 1,600,000 Tuesday.

Hard-hitting buying swept into the exchange the second the opening bell sounded. The crush of orders was so heavy that for a brief time the ticker tape fell behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped .8 of one point to 81.1. This was a top of Tuesday's rise of 1.1 point.

The market was the broadest since July 12 with 1,173 individual issues traded. Of these 783 advanced and 170 declined.

Pennsylvania R. R. headed the most active list, gaining ⅝ at 19⅝. Canadian Pacific was in second place, up ½ at 19⅝, and N. Y. Central in third, up ⅜ at 15½.

Other rails ahead included Frisco, Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard Air Line, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific and Nickel Plate.

Callahan Zinc was the only loser among the 15 most active shares, dipping ⅛ to 2⅞. The company, a marginal producer, touched a 1950 high Tuesday, helped by booming prices for non-ferrous metals.

Western Union was unusually strong with a gain of 2½ at 39¼.

Kitzmiller Man Blames Politics For Indictments

Warrants Issued In School Strike

Dr. Ralph Calendrella, Kitzmiler, last night termed "a cheap political trick" indictments returned against six Kitzmiller residents on charges of conspiring to keep children of that area out of school.

He said he is a candidate for county commissioner on the Republican ticket while Earl Shank, another member of the committee, is seeking nomination for house of delegates on the Republican slate.

Warrants charging six residents of that area with conspiring to keep children out of school were being served yesterday by the office of Sheriff Juniper Teats.

Sheriff Teats said the men indicted were Dr. Calendrella, Carl Schell, Shank, Charles McIntyre, Frank Damon and Kenneth Bray.

Dr. Cadendrella reported last night at 8:30 o'clock that he had not received a summons.

He said he had not had time to confer with other members of the committee but clearly stated the group will put up a fight and said he presumed it will seek counsel to fight the charge "but not in Oakland."

When asked about the committee's attitude toward the continuance of the strike, Dr. Calendrella said the committee has nothing at all to do with the children being in or out of school since that is up to the parents.

He said, however, that the parents are still bitter about the situation and that the indictments will only increase the hard feelings.

Yesterday morning, only 22 of the anticipated 300 students turned up for school at Kitzmiller. At nearby Shallmar, eight of 45 students reported. West Vindex had six of 80 students in classes and at East Vindex, none of the 80 students answered roll call.

Opposition to a school reorganization program which would force Kitzmiller area students to travel to Oakland and demands for improvements in the Kitzmiller schools precipitated a dispute which led to a strike at Kitzmiller school last week.

The committee had asked the Garrett County School Board for a guarantee that Kitzmiller High School be eliminated from a program calling for all high school instruction at two new centers, one at Oakland and the other in The Cove section.

Petersburg Area Flood Passes

A flood scare which hit the Petersburg, W. Va., section earlier this week had abated yesterday as the Potomac River (South Branch) and Lunice Creek receded and rainfall diminished.

Both streams had risen to five and six feet above normal. Water crossed two state highways and a number of secondary roads. The road between Petersburg and Elkins, W. Va., was washed out in several places making one-way traffic necessary.

In everyone's mind were the sudden torrents in June of 1949, when nine lost their lives and damage ran into hundreds of thousands. Since then there has been a fear of high water at night.

The fire siren at Petersburg was blown when the streams rose early yesterday after a five-hour rain.

About 50 persons, many of them children, were evacuated from homes in the low-lying sections of South Petersburg Tuesday night. They moved into the schoolhouse. State police squads patrolled the area all night.

The evacuees moved back home after daylight came, along with assurances that the streams had crested. The heavy rain turned into a drizzle.

It has rained off and on since Sunday — 3.6 inches of rain.

West Virginia routes 28, in the Cabins section near Petersburg, and 42, between Petersburg and Maysville, were under water for a time. All roads were open to travel, however.

The high water also was reported at Franklin and Springfield.

No decision was made, however, on the parade pending a canvass of merchants who would underwrite the activity.

All persons interested in flying are invited to attend, whether or not they are pilots.

The local group would be a part of the Martinsburg CAP Wing since the airport is located in West Virginia.

Senate Passes Parkway Bill

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway bill passed the U. S. Senate yesterday, according to a telegram the News received from Senator Millard E. Tydings.

The measure provides for the government to accept gifts of land to add to the present parkway site from Great Falls to Cumberland.

The House passed a companion measure several days ago. Now any differences in the two bills must be reconciled and then it will go to the President for signature.

The new lands would increase the width of the present parkway area along the old canal to an average of 100 acres per mile, and make other adjustments in the 150-mile long tract.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, this district, is the original sponsor of the idea for the parkway which will include a two-lane highway and vast recreation and sportsmen's areas along the low-level route from Cumberland to the nation's capital.

For the benefit of those unable to attend the entire session, only scores for the top four weeks out of the six will be counted.

Season tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Norman Taylor or from A. D. Heacox. Tickets are also on hand at the Fort Cumberland office.

Experts Seek Simple Terms To Describe Types Of Land

Experts of the Soil Conservation Service of this area began a conference here yesterday to devise down-to-earth descriptions of the types of land found in the Eastern United States.

The work is under the direction of O. C. Bruce, Upper Darby, Pa., regional chief of operations of the Soil Conservation Service.

Assisting are Dr. J. G. Steele, Washington; H. R. Adams, Upper Darby; Boyd J. Patton, Morgantown, W. Va., and M. F. Hershberger, College Park, all soil scientists.

The Allegany Soil Conservation District was represented by W. W. Nace, conservationist, David Crocker, unit conservationist, and Stuart Delbrook and Martin Gordon, conservation aides.

Bruce said the group is attempting to work out more effective ways of describing types of land.

Heretofore, virtually all information on land has been in technical language. What is being attempted is to work out a system for translating such scientific information into the language used by the farmers who will put suggested conservation plans into practice.

All of the work of the Allegany Soil Conservation District is based on aerial photographs indicating the topography of a present land use.

Information from the photos, plus surveys by soil scientists, provides complete maps of each farm, with types of soil and suggested land use clearly indicated.

For example, some of the level, well drained bottom land of Allegany County can be farmed with little attention paid to conservation practices if it is not subject to floods.

On sloping land of the same character, however, farmers must use strip cropping and some fertilizer.

Sloping lands underlaid by shale is generally rather acid and needs fairly heavy applications of lime to grow good alfalfa and similar grasses.

Limestone land on slopes, Bruce said, is generally better land but is subject to erosion and needs more intensive conservation practices.

If the system devised here to indicate more of the possibilities and limitations of types of soils works out, it may be adopted over the Northeastern region, Bruce said.

Exchange Club Votes $300 For Brace Clinics

Service Club Aids Handicapped Children

A donation of $300 was voted by the Cumberland Exchange Club at a meeting Tuesday night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to continue its aid to handicapped children.

This was reported yesterday by W. D. Newberry, club president.

For the second consecutive year, the club will sponsor brace clinics held by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

This involves payment of $30 each for the ten clinics held throughout the year to cover expenses of the bracemaker, C. D. Denison, who comes here from Baltimore to each clinic.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the League, said that average attendance at the clinics last year was 30 children.

Ninety new braces were fitted and delivered at the clinics, and approximately 300 adjustment and repair jobs were done.

Meanwhile, Newberry also announced yesterday that the Exchange Club has purchased three "walkers" and two invalid chairs.

In addition, the club hopes to purchase two wheel chairs.

All will be available to the public on a loan basis without charge.

One of the "walker" devices, which are designed to aid persons who have been ill to learn to walk again, is adjustable so that it can be used by a child or an adult.

The "walkers" cost about $100 each and the chairs about $90 each.

Loan of the devices can be obtained by contacting the Exchange Club committee in charge, which includes Boston Sherwood, J. Walter Byer and Charles L. George.

Newberry also reported that the club is planning to place penny candy vending machines in various business places throughout the city in the next week or so.

The club will receive 10 per cent of the gross sales from the 60 machines, with the funds to be used for its welfare work.

Similar machines have been used in Baltimore by the Maryland School for the Blind and have proved quite successful, Newberry said.

That included a request for a 25 cent increase to take care of economic conditions as of July, a flexible plan for subsequent cost of living increases and six cents an hour for inequities at the Kelly plant.

Wage talks will resume today at 10 a. m., he added.

Also slated at Saturday's meeting is a report of the CIO summer school from Stanley Zorick and Patrick Atkinson.

Chas. H. Knotts Is Freed On Old Larceny Charge

Charles H. Knotts, of this city, was freed yesterday by Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown in connection with a five-year-old larceny charge.

Knotts had been arrested in a car theft charge here and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. He escaped, was arrested in a second car theft case and given two more years, plus a year for escape.

He got out this week and was taken to Hagerstown for trial before Judge Mish on the larceny charge.

The larceny case involved a theft at the P. T. Little and Sons General Store, Honcock, in 1945. About $95 worth of merchandise was taken and an attempt made to steal a safe.

Judge Mish said he believed the man had served enough time and five years imprisonment was enough to pay for experiences resulting from the original offense.

County Poultry Producers To Make Area Tour

Event Scheduled For September 25

Invitations have been mailed to approximately 100 poultry producers in Allegany County to attend a tour and demonstration on Monday, September 25.

This was announced yesterday by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

One or two school buses, depending on attendance, will be chartered for the trip, starting from the Court House that morning at 9:30.

The group will go first to the farm of Roy and James Twigg at Spring Gap, where a large laying flock will be inspected and a demonstration given of proper feeding methods.

Next stop will be at the Paul Robinette farm on Murleys Branch Road to inspect a flock of over 1,000 laying pullets.

There a talk will be given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, on "Flock Management for Egg Production."

The group will make its final stop at the Richard Stegmaier farm on Williams Road, where Stegmaier conducts a business of producing eggs for hatching. The farm has 400 breeding hens and over 1,000 breeding pullets.

A program will be conducted at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at City Hall by Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company here.

Richardson will give a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

Action Deferred On School Job

Action on additions to Flintstone School must be deferred until definite information is received on the costs of three mandated schools, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, announced yesterday.

Construction of the first, at Mt. Savage, is well under way.

Plans for a new school at Lonaconing are in the final stages and preliminary work on a third school at Ellerslie is progressing, he said.

When bids on the Flintstone construction project were opened recently, the George Construction Company here submitted a low bid of $550,380.90.

Dr. Kopp said the fact that the bids were some $200,000 more than the estimated costs led school officials to conclude that building costs have advanced materially.

The board, he said, decided it could not proceed with the project until all facts on cost and available funds are compiled.

Freight Car Shortages Cited

Freight car shortages are beginning to show up in various sections of the country, members of the Tri-State Traffic Club were told last night at their dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The causes, as developed in a panel discussion, are due to a combination of sharp increase in demand, slight decrease in supply, and serious loss in the utilization of cars, principally because of the prevalence both in industry and on the railroads of the working week of five days instead of six.

Increased demand is the result of greater military requirements, increased stockpiling and inventory buying, and consumer purchasing.

Orders for new freight cars show a total of 122,000 now on order, and assurances of governmental and industry assistance in obtaining steel for such a program have been received.

Interstate commerce commission directives to bring partial restoration of war time heavier loading, higher demurrage charges and other restrictions on the use of freight cars are to be expected, it was stated.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of C. Eugene Howell, Clarence E. Gehr, Andrew N. Phillips, W. J. Armbruster and John L. Carnochan.
